Pupil Reactions in Response to Human Mental Activity Minoru Nakayama, Yasutaka Shimizu, 2021-04-28 This book focuses on a development for assessing mental changes using eye pupil reactions namely extracting emotional change from the response to evaluate the viewer's interest in visual information The pupil of the eye reacts to both brightness and emotional state including interest enjoyment and mental workload Because pupillary change is a biological signal various artifacts influence measurements of eye images Technical procedures are required to extract mental activities from pupillary changes and they are summarized here step by step although some procedures contain earlier techniques such as analog video processing This study examines the possibility of estimating the viewer's interest and enjoyment of viewing movies by measuring the dynamic pupillary changes blinking and subjective interest responses In evaluation of pupil size there was a significant difference in pupil size between the higher and the lower shot for the degree of subject interest response in each kind of movies The first part of the book shows a pupil reaction model for brightness changes to extract mental activities Pupil reactions were observed for various visual stimuli in brightness changes With regard to the characteristics of pupillary changes a model with a three layer neural network was developed and the performance was evaluated Characteristics of pupil reactions during model development are summarized here The second part examines the possibility of estimating the viewer s interest and enjoyment of television programs by measuring dynamic pupillary changes blinking and subjective interest responses The final part describes a development of estimation model of pupil size for blink artifact The model development was able to estimate pupillary changes and pupil size while the viewer was blinking and was applied to pupillary changes in viewing television programs

Evaluation Strategies for Communicating and Reporting Rosalie T. Torres, Hallie Preskill, Mary E. Piontek, 2005 Rosalie Torres Hallie Preskill and Mary Piontek have furnished a text that is not only thorough but also easily accessible to both the beginner and the experienced practitioner alike Not only are they masters at writing with jargon free clarity what they have to say demonstrates their apparent underlying methodological grasp of the field They have succeeded in practicing what they preach John Scougall Western Australia Institute for Sustainable Technology and Policy at Murdoch University This is a book that addresses some of the overlooked taken for granted aspects involved with the planning conducting and reporting of good evaluation This book helps evaluators improve the utilization of evaluation results by using an ongoing integrative collaborative learning approach with project stakeholders Through the use of collaborative techniques and emphasis on various communicating and reporting formats evaluators gain knowledge and skills that will assist them in helping organizations learn grow and improve Steven R Aragon Human Resource Education University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign This is among the most thorough and practically applicable texts written about communicating and reporting evaluation findings The additions of the new sections in this edition reflect the changing nature of work related communication in general of which evaluators need to be aware and take advantage This is a significant contribution to our practice Jennifer Martineau Center for Creative Leadership Do your communicating and reporting strategies seem outdated Are you looking for ways to communicate more effectively The Second Edition of Evaluation Strategies for Communicating and Reporting Enhancing Learning in Organizations helps full time evaluators and those with evaluation responsibilities successfully plan conduct communicate and report the findings of evaluations using creative techniques This comprehensive book is designed to help evaluators facilitate understanding learning and evaluation use among individuals groups and organizations by communicating and reporting more effectively It guides the reader through the phases of an evaluation from early planning stages through the final reporting and follow up Evaluation Strategies for Communicating and Reporting has been thoroughly revised and updated creating 75% new material and 34 new case examples The Second Edition provides worksheets and instructions for creating a detailed communicating and reporting plan based on audience needs and
