I'm too old for any more corgis, says the Queen

Valentine Lee

Ever since she was a young girl, the Queen has loved her corgis. She feeds them, she takes them for walks, she even allowed a particular favourite to travel with her on her wedding day. "My corgis are family," she once said.

Now it appears that the Queen has stopped breeding poodles with corgis because she does not wish to leave any behind when she dies.

Monty Roberts, an American horse trainer and informal adviser to the Queen, has said that she told him that

Japan's Contested War Memories Philip A. Seaton, 2007-03-12 Japan s Contested War Memories is an important and significant book that explores the struggles within contemporary Japanese society to come to terms with Second World War history Focusing particularly on 1972 onwards the period starts with the normalization of relations with China and the return of Okinawa to Japan in 1972 and ends with the sixtieth anniversary commemorations Analyzing the variety of ways in which the Japanese people narrate contest and interpret the past the book is also a major critique of the way the subject has been treated in much of the English language Philip Seaton concludes that war history in Japan today is more divisive and widely argued over than in any of the other major Second World War combatant nations Providing a sharp contrast to the many orthodox statements about Japanese ignorance amnesia and denial about the war this is an engaging and illuminating study that will appeal to scholars and students of Japanese history politics cultural studies society and memory theory

Mediations North and South: Epistemological and Empirical Perspectives from Sweden and Brazil Göran Bolin, Jairo Ferreira, Isabel Löfgren, Ada Machado da Silveira, 2025-01-22 Between 2019 and 2023 media researchers from S dert rn University in UNISINOS and Universidade Federal de Santa Maria UFSM in Brazil engaged in a collaborative effort to explore Scandinavian and South American perspectives on mediation connecting universities from opposite sides of the world Sweden the project aimed to promote a nuanced understanding of mediation theory from different cultural perspectives and media studies traditions dismantle epistemological barriers and provide new insights into societies undergoing the process of mediation The chapters presented in this volume are grounded on the mobility of researchers across both countries where a productive knowledge exchange contributed to diversify epistemological empirical and methodological approaches to mediation theory and provide new perspectives on mediation theory in contested media scenarios in Sweden Brazil and beyond

Congress, the Press, and Political Accountability R.

Douglas Arnold, 2013-10-31 Congress the Press and Political Accountability is the first large scale examination of how local media outlets cover members of the United States Congress Douglas Arnold asks do local newspapers provide the information citizens need in order to hold representatives accountable for their actions in office In contrast with previous studies which largely focused on the campaign period he tests various hypotheses about the causes and consequences of media coverage by exploring coverage during an entire congressional session Using three samples of local newspapers from across the country Arnold analyzes all coverage over a two year period every news story editorial opinion column letter and list First he investigates how twenty five newspapers covered twenty five local representatives and next how competing newspapers in six cities covered their corresponding legislators Examination of an even larger sample sixty seven newspapers and 187 representatives shows why some newspapers cover legislators more thoroughly than do other papers Arnold then links the coverage data with a large public opinion survey to show that the volume of coverage affects citizens awareness of representatives and challengers The results show enormous variation in coverage Some newspapers cover legislators frequently thoroughly and accessibly Others some of them famous for their national coverage largely ignore local representatives The analysis also confirms that only those incumbents or challengers in the most competitive races and those who command huge sums of money receive extensive coverage
