Counselling and Psychotherapy provides an essential introduction to and overview of the main models of psychotherapy and counselling. With a new preface from Windy Dryden this Classic Edition traces the development of counselling and psychotherapy and examines the relationship between the two. The authors consider the four main models: psychodynamic, humanistic, integrative and cognitive behavioural, before focusing on the most popular approach for each, including person-centred, rational emotive behavioural and multimodal. Each approach is clearly examined in terms of its historical context and development, its main theoretical concepts and its aims. Written clearly and concisely, the book will have international appeal as an ideal introductory text for all those embarking on psychotherapy and counselling courses. It will also prove invaluable to students requiring a clear introduction to the subject.

Person-Centred Counselling Training Dave Mearns, 1997-11-28

This thoughtful and thought-provoking book is essential reading not only for those involved in the training of counsellors within the person-centred approach but also for individuals who may have simplistic, dismissive or otherwise ill-informed notions of the depth of self-awareness required of the person-centred practitioner and the far-reaching challenges offered by the approach. For counsellors who define themselves as person-centred but who have had no substantial training, it should be compulsory reading. British Journal of Guidance and Counselling. Person-centred counselling probably requires more training and a greater intensity of training than most other mainstream counselling approaches but.

Developing Person-Centred Counselling Dave Mearns, 2002-11-27

This is a useful book for those who use person-centred counselling in their practice or who are training to become person-centred counsellors. Counselling and Psychotherapy: The Journal of the British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy. Developing Person-Centred Counselling Second Edition is designed to help counsellors improve their skills within the person-centred approach. Written by Dave Mearns, leading person-centred expert and bestselling author, the Second Edition has been fully revised and updated, taking account of developments in person-centred practice. With new chapters on growth and transference, the book covers the subjects which are central to person-centred training: the core conditions, therapeutic alliance, development of the counsellor, therapeutic process, the person-centred approach in relation to psychopathology. Supported by case material and examples from practice, each part of the book presents the counsellor with practical and often challenging ideas which encourage him/her to think carefully about his/her practice and how to improve it. Developing Person-Centred Counselling Second Edition is a highly practical and inspiring resource for trainees and practitioners alike.
