Crosby, 2007-01-01 A basic question in philosophy is how do we know what we think we know Constructivists answer this question as follows categories for constructing reality reside in the human mind so reality cannot escape the mind's limitations Human beings constantly assimilate new knowledge and experience Constructivists apply the same logic to the question of truth What we claim to be true is always provisional New information and breakthroughs may supplant what we presently hold to be true Ultimate or absolute truth is unknowable In The Flipside of Godspeak John Crosby applies the principles of philosophical and theological constructivism to theistic belief The idea of God is a constructed idea We come to think that we know there is a God because we have internalized stories images and historical accounts passed on to us by people with authority In these pages however and without reference to an authoritarian deity Crosby considers questions of ethics and morality An ethic of eudaemonism or well being is posited to be based on the principles of equality honesty and responsibility to self and others Implications of the meaning and purpose of human existence are considered from the existential perspective that is from the viewpoint that we ourselves invent create and construct meaning Godfoolery

Crossroads Leonor Boulton Johnson, Robert Staples, 2004-09-24 This updated edition of the classic book Black Families at the Crossroads offers a comprehensive examination of the diverse and complex issues surrounding Black families. Leonor Boulton Johnson and Robert Staples combine more than sixty years of writing and research on Black families to offer insights into the pre-slavery development of the Black middle class, internal processes that affect all class strata among Black American families, the impact of race on modern Black immigrant families, the interaction of external forces and internal norms at each stage of the Black family life cycle, and public policies that provide challenges and promising prospects for the continuing resilience of the Black family as an American institution. This thoroughly revised edition features new research including empirical studies and theoretical applications and a review of significant social policies and economic changes in the past decade and their impact on Black families. Romantic Love and Sexual Behavior Victor C. de Munck, 1998-04-16

Westerners believe that love makes life worth living; that sex is a natural desire, different in kind from love, and that only cynics reduce our love life to a calculation of economic or genetic factors. In this volume, essays explore these and other assumptions about the relationship between romantic love and sex. This represents the first interdisciplinary social science study of love and sex. Contributors ask and answer questions such as: Is love just sex idealized, or is it a transcendent and divine emotion? Is love a cultural construct that is shared by members of the same culture, or is it a matter of personal taste? What keeps promiscuous people from using condoms, even when they know they are at risk? Are Black professional men so rare that their conceptions of love and sex differ from those of white professional men? Are brutal sexual fantasies an exclusively male domain, and are they always excluded from love fantasies among normal adolescents? Is divorce a culturally induced response to evolutionary reproductive strategies that compel individuals to maximize their genetic legacy? Are marriages or relationships less satisfying or stable when an actual mate falls short of the fantasy of the ideal mate? Is there a universal core to love and sex that is camouflaged by other cultural norms such as modesty and sexual segregation? Is rape perceived as more acceptable when the rapist says he was motivated by love? What do cult movements and romantic love have in common? As they attempt to answer these and other questions, the authors extend our understanding of the variety of ways that love and sex are conceptualized, connected or separated. A Theory of Personality Development Luciano L'Abate, 1994. L'Abate's theory is firmly rooted in the social and existential exigencies of everyday life as experienced within the five fundamental contexts of home, work, leisure, the marketplace, grocery shopping, barbershops, malls, etc., and in transit.

When Love Dies Karen Kayser, 1993-10-29. Kayser then incorporates data from a random sample survey comparing troubled spouses with nondisaffected spouses and exploring the relationships among marital disaffection, psychological well-being, commitment, attribution, and gender. When Love Dies examines the concept of matrimony from broad theories of marriage as a social institution to the most specific nuances of spousal interaction. Kayser shows that by studying the dynamics that produce disaffection, partners are able to focus on ways to better understand what is needed to maintain love in marriage. Identifying the phases of disaffection, including significant turning points, can alert spouses and clinicians that it is time to confront problems of alienation Clinical recommendations for repairing marriages are offered for each phase of the disaffection process The book also provides a scale of marital disaffection that is of practical use to clinicians and researchers

Case Studies in Couples Therapy David K. Carson, Montserrat Casado-Kehoe, 2013-06-19 This up to date highly readable theory based and application oriented book fills a crucial void in literature on couple therapy Few books in the couple therapy market bridge the gap between theory and practice texts tend to lean in one direction or the other either emphasizing theory and research with little practical application or taking a cookbook approach that describes specific techniques and interventions that are divorced from any conceptual or theoretical base However couples therapy requires a high degree of abstract conceptual thinking as well as ingenuity inventiveness and skill on the part of the therapist Case Studies in Couples Therapy blends the best of all worlds clinical applications with challenging and diverse couples that have been derived from the most influential theories and models in couples and family therapy all written by highly experienced and respected voices in the field In Case Studies in Couples Therapy readers will grasp the essentials of major theories and approaches in a few pages and then see how concepts and principles are applied in the work of well known clinicians The case studies incorporate a wide variety of couples from diverse backgrounds in a number of different life situations It is simultaneously narrow including specific processes and interventions applied with real clients and broad clearly outlining a broad array of theories and concepts in scope and the interventions in it are directly linked to theoretical perspectives in a clear and systematic way Students and clinicians alike will find the theoretical overview sections of each chapter clear and easy to follow and each chapter's thorough descriptions of effective practical interventions will give readers a strong sense of the connections between theory and practice Instructor's Manual to Accompany Cherlin Public and Private Families Anne Smith Hastings, Cherlin, 1996
