DIY Utopia Amber Day, 2016-12-22 At first glance contemporary popular culture filled with bleak images of the future seems to have given up on the possibility of positive collective change Below the surface however alternative culture is rife with artist led projects activist movements and subcultural communities of interest that seek to spark the collective imagination and to encourage hunger for alternatives More playfully self conscious than past utopian movements today s are often whimsical or ironic but are still entirely earnest Artists invite us to re author city maps or archive individual ideas for the future while maker collectives urge us to rethink our relationship to consumer goods All seem to have grown out of a similar do it yourself ethos and alternative culture One of the central conflicts informing these case studies is that while it remains immensely difficult to envision anything outside of the current system of consumer capitalism there is nevertheless a powerful desire to take it apart in piecemeal ways We see the longing for new social and political narratives new forms of communion and sociability and new imaginings of the possible longings that are currently unmet by mainstream culture but that are taking expression in myriad ways at the local level Taken as a whole this collection examines what our grand ideals and playful daydreams tell us about ourselves

Landscape Ethnoecology Leslie Main Johnson, Eugene S. Hunn, 2012 Although anthropologists and cultural geographers have explored place in various senses little cross cultural examination of kinds of place or ecotopes has been presented from an ethno ecological perspective In this volume indigenous and local understandings of landscape are investigated in order to better understand how human communities relate to their terrestrial and aquatic resources The contributors go beyond the traditional ecological knowledge TEK literature and offer valuable insights on ecology and on land and resources management emphasizing the perception of landscape above the level of species and their folk classification Focusing on the ways traditional people perceive and manage land and biotic resources within diverse regional and cultural settings the contributors address theoretical issues and present case studies from North America Mexico Amazonia tropical Asia Africa and Europe

Good, 2019-10-18 The planet as seen by its inhabitants In two millenia our knowledge of the planet and its natural laws and forces has undergone remarkable changes from the religious belief of earth as the center of the universe to the modern astronomers view that it is a mere speck in the cosmos Now a first of its kind reference work charts this remarkable intellectual progression in our evolving perception of the earth by surveying the history of geology geography geophysics oceanography meteorology space science and many other fields Covers human understanding of the Earth in various times and cultures The Encyclopedia traces our understanding of the earth and its functioning throughout history summarizing historical explanations of earthly occurrences including explanations with no scientific basis It presents the latest facts and theories explains how our understanding of the earth has evolved and shows why many outrageous and fanciful earlier ideas were accepted in their time The coverage explores the physical phenomena that inform our knowledge starting at the earth's core and extending outward through the mantle crust oceans and atmosphere to the magnetosphere and beyond Charts the evolution of our perceptions The primary focus of the Encyclopedia is the history of the study of the earth It also discusses the institutions that advanced and shaped science and probes the interplay between science practical applications and social and

Conserving Biodiversity in Agricultural Landscapes Robert K. Swihart, Jeffrey E. Moore, 2004 Habitat loss and fragmentation arguably pose the greatest threats to biological diversity Agriculture is a dominant land use that along with urban sprawl and residential development can reduce the amount and connectedness of natural areas required by many native species Unfortunately progress has been slow in integrating nature and biodiversity protection into community planning in intensively farmed regions especially in America's heartland Seldom do issues related to species conservation receive consideration during local planning activities Lack of progress stems partly from scientific inadequacies in understanding the dynamics of complex landscapes and from a lack of engagement of non scientific stakeholders by scientists and modelers The result of these shortcomings is a critical disconnect of conservation issues from the planning infrastructure This book provides a blueprint for advancing conceptual understanding of conservation in agricultural regions It accomplishes this with a two pronged approach first by developing spatially structured models that acknowledge the link between socio economic drivers of land use change and the dynamics of species occupying agricultural landscapes with abrupt changes in land cover i.e. sharp edges and second by providing guidelines and examples to enable scientists to effectively engage stakeholders in participatory learning and planning activities that integrate biodiversity with other more traditional considerations The structure of the book is truly interdisciplinary linking the efforts of ecologists economists statisticians mathematicians and land use specialists

Agroecology Stephen R. Gliessman, 2007 Providing the theoretical and conceptual framework for this continually evolving field Agroecology The Ecology of Sustainable Food Systems Second Edition explores environmental factors and complexities affecting agricultural crops and animals Completely revised updated and reworked the second edition contains new data new readings new issues and case studies and new options It includes two completely new chapters one on the role of livestock animals in agroecosystems and one on the cultural and community aspects of sustainable food systems The author clearly delineates the importance of using an ecosystem framework for determining if a particular agricultural practice input or management decision contributes or detracts from sustainability He explains how the framework provides the ecological basis for the functioning of the chosen management strategy over the long term He also examines system level interactions stressing the need for understanding the emergent qualities of populations communities and ecosystems and their roles in sustainable agriculture Using examples of farming systems in a broad array of ecological conditions the book demonstrates how to use an ecosystem approach to design and manage agroecosystems for sustainability
