Kenneth Clark James Stourton, 2016-11-01 The definitive biography of this brilliant polymath director of the National Gallery author patron of the arts social lion and singular pioneer of television that also tells the story of the arts in the twentieth century through his astonishing life Kenneth Clark's thirteen part 1969 television series Civilisation established him as a globally admired figure Clark was prescient in making this series the upheavals of the century the Cold War among others convinced him of the power of barbarism and the fragility of culture He would burnish his image with two memoirs that artfully omitted the more complicated details of his life Now drawing on a vast previously unseen archive James Stourton reveals the formidable intellect and the private man behind the figure who effortlessly dominated the art world for more than half a century his privileged upbringing his interest in art history beginning at Oxford his remarkable early successes At 27 he was keeper of Western Art at the Ashmolean in Oxford and at 29 the youngest director of The National Gallery During the war he arranged for its entire collection to be hidden in slate mines in Wales and organized packed concerts of classical music at the Gallery to keep up the spirits of Londoners during the bombing WWII helped shape his belief that art should be brought to the widest audience a social and moral position that would inform the rest of his career Television became a means for this message when he was appointed the first chairman of the Independent Television Authority Stourton reveals the tortuous state of his marriage during and after the war his wife's alcoholism and the aspects of his own nature that he worked to keep hidden A superb work of biography Kenneth Clark is a revelation of its remarkable subject Last Lectures Roger Fry, 1962 Dark Ghetto Kenneth B. Clark, 1989-11 Dr Clark social psychologist college professor a Black man who lived in Harlem for forty years and who has recently been associated with its problems from the top level of Harlem takes the role of involved observer to approach the combined problems of the confined African American and the slum The ghetto he analyzes here is the three and one half square miles containing 232 792 people that make up Harlem excluding Spanish Harlem He examines its social dynamics unemployment and menial jobs result in family instability psychology the Black man has a difficult time asserting his manhood in face of white supremacy pathology chronic self-perpetuating as the influence of gangs has declined that of drug addiction has increased schools separate but unequal the cultural deprivation approach is seductive if students were expected to learn and so taught they would progress the power structure the effective exercise of power is severely crippled by the inexperience of its own political leaders The strategy for change must be based on the understanding that the Black America's problems are essentially American and on the empathy of outsiders Dr Clark tempers his aims with the reassurance that in contemporary society no one Black or white can be totally free of prejudice yet each race needs the other Most interesting here the insight into the psycho-social dilemmas of African Americans the Black
