

An aerial photograph of a city, likely New York City, taken from a high angle. The image is dimly lit, with a warm, orange glow from the setting or rising sun in the upper left corner. A prominent highway interchange is visible on the left side. A red location pin is placed in the center of the image, with a small red rectangular label containing the text "Alex Michaelides" positioned just above it. The text "Why? What was I guilty of – except falling in love? Was it that I loved too deeply, too needily? Too much?" is overlaid in white, sans-serif font across the middle of the image.

Why? What was I guilty of – except falling in love? Was it that I loved too deeply, too needily? Too much?
