Learning to Teach History in the Secondary School Terry Haydn,Alison Stephen,James Arthur,Martin Hunt,2012-11-12 In some hands history can be an inspirational and rewarding subject yet in others it can seem dry and of little relevance The aim of this textbook is to enable student teachers to learn to teach history in a way that pupils will find interesting enjoyable and purposeful It incorporates a wide range of ideas about the teaching of history with practical suggestions for classroom practice This is the third edition of a textbook that has established itself as the leading text for student teachers of history It has been thoroughly updated with a revised chapter on the use of ICT in history teaching and major new sections in the areas of inclusion resources assessment and professional development It provides an array of references and materials that give a sound theoretical foundation for the teaching of history including weblinks to further resources A range of tasks enable students to put their learning into practice in the classroom The book also provides reference and access to a wide range of recent and relevant research in the field of history education which will be of use to student teachers pursuing courses that have a Masters Level component In all it is an invaluable resource for student and beginning history teachers      Raising Boys' Achievement Jon Pickering,1997-03-01      Lessons are for Learning Mike Hughes,1997-03-01 A range of practical suggestions designed to make learning more effective      Personalizing Learning: How to Transform Learning Through System-Wide Reform Phil Jones, Maureen Burns,2006-06-08 How effective school partnerships can enhance the quality of teaching and learning and the creation of more vibrant cost effective provision How business and industry can take on a more strategic and structured role in the construction of meaningful learning experiences How high quality local authorities can foster personalized provision in their own area The success of personalizing learning in schools depends on the effective working together of all parties that form the education system This book examines the roles and responsibilities of the key stakeholders national government local authorities partnerships of schools and the world of business and industry The authors expose how the current system fails a significant number of young people and the economic well being of the nation and present a realistic alternative perspective based upon examples of current practice at local and national level This growing base of evidence signposts how the learning experiences of students can be truly transformed through innovative and effective teaching and learning      Constructing History 11-19 Hilary Cooper, Arthur Chapman,2009-07-09 This book describes and exemplifies strategies for teaching history across the 11 19 age range in rigorous and enjoyable ways It illustrates active learning approaches embedded in pupil led enquiries through detailed case studies which involve students in planning and carrying out historical enquiries creating accounts and presenting them to audiences in ways that develop increasingly sophisticated historical thinking The case studies took place in a number of different localities and show how practising teachers worked with pupils during each year from Y6 7 to Y 13 to initiate plan and implement enquiries and to present their findings in a variety of ways Each case study is a practical example which teachers can use as a model and modify for their own contexts showing how independent learning linked to group collaboration and peer assessment can enhance learning Social constructivist theories of learning applied to historical thinking underpin the book with particular emphasis on links between personalised and collaborative learning and e learning

Tweak to Transform Mike Hughes,2002-08-01 Improving teaching is the key to genuine and sustainable school improvement Improvement involves persuading teachers to change and develop their practice but as anyone who has ever tried will testify this is far from easy The focus of Tweak to Transform is what head teachers and school leaders can do to manage the change process and improve the quality of teaching in a school Essentially Tweak to Transform is a practical handbook that seeks to address three questions What do we know about change What do we know about learning What do we know about leading and managing the improvement process While there is no single successful recipe for improving teaching in a school this book attempts to establish some key principles The result is a collection of thoughts activities strategies and models that have been developed and successfully implemented in a wide range of schools      Transforming Education for Every Child: A Practical Handbook John West-Burnham, Max Coates,2006-04-13 This companion volume to

Personalizing Learning Transforming education for every child provides a complete range of specially developed activities to help implement personalizing learning in schools Topics include successful learning and teaching strategies incorporating learning styles using assessment for learning mentoring programmes creating personal learning plans developing a dialogue with your students As well as a comprehensive set of practical materials this book provides essential guidelines and information for school leaders CPD coordinators advisors and consultants concerned with leading change in schools Supports personal understanding and planning Provides team development activities Included resources and ideas for professional development

E-teaching History Joanna Wojdon, 2016-02-08 Incorporating Information and Communication Technology tools into the teaching and learning of history has become a common practice worldwide It is no longer a question of if but of how to introduce it in the classroom in order to make history education more effective and enjoyable This book gathers the experiences and reflections of researchers from three continents based on their own activities and on empirical studies The contributions concentrate on videogames related to the past history e textbooks and applications for mobile devices with historical content Some texts deal explicitly with global phenomena such as the Assassin s Creed or Colonization games some present materials developed for the international market such as a European e textbook or mobile phone applications while others concentrate on local experiences such as a Chinese e schoolbag a Swiss tablet application Polish and Estonian e textbooks or English teacher training The book is a result and a reinforcement of the belief that history educators can benefit from the lessons learnt in other places of the globalising world

Multiple Intelligences in Practice Mike Fleetham, 2006-04-13 The theory of multiple intelligences MI shows that there is much more to intelligence than high IQ good spelling or quick mental maths in fact there s a whole variety of ways to be clever including musically verbally interpersonally kinaesthetically and naturalistically Multiple Intelligences is a powerful tool that helps you to appreciate and enrich the talents of all your learners whatever their age Creating an understanding of MI in schools has been shown to improve pupils self esteem self motivation and independence and to help underachievers realize their potential The book includes explanations of the different intelligences activities to explore MI with your learners practical ways to build MI into everyday teaching how to use MI to personalize learning creating an MI friendly learning environment case studies showing successful MI practice This accessible guide gives a clear introduction to MI and provides concrete examples of how you can use it in your teaching

The History Teacher's Handbook Neil Smith, 2010-09-02 This comprehensive handbook combines up to date research including Ofsted reports and pupil surveys with road tested classroom techniques to suggest how you can make your classroom a dynamic and productive learning environment Advice is given on all aspects of history teaching from how to plan for successful outcomes and maximise meaningful assessment through to exciting ways to examine evidence and develop pupil interest outside of the classroom The chapter on making effective use of ICT to teach history tackles one of the biggest challenges for teachers today how to ensure new technologies are utilised to improve learning without allowing the technology to detract from the history being taught This book is perfect for trainee teachers and NQTs but will also help experienced history teachers to make lessons inspiring and accessible to pupils with a range of specific educational needs including pupils for whom English is not their first language and those who are regarded as being gifted and talented

History of Computing: Learning from the Past Arthur Tatnall, 2010-08-06 History of Computing Learning from the Past Why is the history of computing important Given that the computer as we now know it came into existence less than 70 years ago it might seem a little odd to some people that we are concerned with its history Isn't history about old things Computing of course goes back much further than 70 years with many earlier vices rightly being known as computers and their history is of course important It is only the history of electronic digital computers that is relatively recent History is often justified by use of a quote from George Santayana who famously said that Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it It is arguable whether there are particular mistakes in the history of computing that we should avoid in the future but there is some circularity in this question as the only way we will know the answer to this is to study our history This book contains papers on a wide range of topics relating to the history of computing written both by historians and also by those who were involved in creating this history The papers are the result of an international conference on the History of Computing that was held as a part of the IFIP World Computer Congress in Brisbane in September 2010

Using New Technologies to Enhance Teaching and Learning in History Terry Haydn, 2013 Nearly all history teachers are interested in how new technology might be used to improve teaching and learning in history However not all history departments have had the time expertise and guidance which would enable them to fully explore the wide range of ways in which ICT might help them to teach their subject more effectively This much needed collection offers practical guidance and examples of the ways in which new technology can enhance pupil engagement in the subject impact on knowledge retention get pupils learning outside the history classroom and help them to work collaboratively using a range of Web 2.0 applications The chapters written by experienced practitioners and experts in the field of history education and ICT explore topics such as how to design web interactivities for your pupils what can you accomplish with a wiki how to get going in digital video editing what to do with the VLE making best use of the interactive whiteboard designing effective pupil webquests digital storytelling in history making full use of major history websites using social media Using New Technologies to Enhance Teaching and Learning in History is essential reading for all trainee newly qualified and experienced teachers of history It addresses many of the problems barriers and dangers which new technology can pose but it also clearly explains and exemplifies the wide range of ways in which ICT can be used to radically improve the quality of pupils experience of learning history

Reflections on the History of Computing Arthur Tatnall, 2012-11-28 This book is a collection of refereed invited papers on the history of computing from the 1940s to the 1990s with one paper going back to look at Italian calculating computing machines from the first century to the 20th century The 22 papers cover a wide range of computing related topics such as specific early computer systems their construction their use and their users software programming and operating systems people involved in the theory design and use of these computers computer education and conservation of computing technology Many of the authors were actually involved in the events they describe and share their specific reflections on the history of computing
