Understanding Marx, Understanding Modernism Mark Steven, 2021-01-14 A concentrated study of the relationships between modernism and transformative left utopianism this volume provides an introduction to Marx and Marxism for modernists and an introduction to modernism for Marxists Its guiding hypothesis is that Marx's writing absorbed the lessons of artistic and cultural modernity as much as his legacy concretely shaped modernism across multiple media Rem Koolhaas as Scriptwriter Helena Huber-Doudová, 2023-10-30 This book is the first survey of a new field in architecture theory script writing Rem Koolhaas as Scriptwriter explores the intersection of architecture film and text using the example of the working method of scriptwriter Rem Koolhaas and the Office for Metropolitan Architecture OMA This book argues that Koolhaas formulates his approach to architecture on the basis of the written sketch or script and questions its transformations into built environment in the oeuvre of OMA Divided into two parts the first part is a theoretical outline that explores the notion of scriptwriting in film It provides in depth insights into the definition and historical evolution of the script as a blueprint Hollywood script avant garde script storyboard the relation to auteur theory and the difference between the script and scenario It surveys the first original script for the Exodus of the Voluntary Prisoners of Architecture The second part offers a unique perspective on the urban development of West Berlin in which Koolhaas created a metropolitan script or blueprint that spans the period 1971 1989 from his first visit to Berlin to the fall of the Berlin Wall This book will be of interest to researchers and students of architectural theory urban history and film studies Architecture, Crisis and Resuscitation Tahl Kaminer, 2011-01-20 Studying the relation of architecture to society this book explains the manner in which the discipline of architecture adjusted itself in order to satisfy new pressures by society Consequently it offers an understanding of contemporary conditions and phenomena ranging from the ubiquity of landmark buildings to the celebrity status of architects It concerns the period spanning from 1966 to the first years of the current century a period which saw radical change in economy politics and culture and a period in which architecture radically transformed substituting the alleged dreariness of modernism with spectacle The Situationists and the City Tom McDonough, 2020-05-05 The Situationist International SI led by the revolutionary Guy Debord were active throughout the 1950s and 60s They published the journal Internationale Situationniste that included many incendiary texts on politics and art and were a galvanizing force in the revolutions of May 1968 The importance of their work has been felt particularly in their revolutionary analysis of cities The SI were responsible for utopian imaginings of the city where its alienating effects from its routine use as a site of consumption and work were banished and it was instead to be turned into a place of play Tom McDonough collects all the SI's key work in this area for an essential one stop collection Including such essential works as The Theory of the Derive Formulary for a New Urbanism and many previously untranslated texts the book will also be strikingly illustrated by the images that were core to the Situationist project      Analogical City Cameron McEwan, 2024-01-18 In Analogical City Cameron McEwan argues for architecture's status as a critical project. McEwan revisits architect Aldo Rossi as a paradigmatic figure of the critical rational tradition, studying a neglected aspect of his thought: the analogical city. To excavate its potential, McEwan develops a grammar of the analogical city under the headings of Imagination, Transformation, City, Multitude, and Project. McEwan argues that the analogical city is critical, collective, and emancipatory. Analogical thought and understanding cities as analogical might open the conditions of possibility for rethinking the critical project in architecture. At a time when the humanities and the sciences are threatened by irrational thought from climate denial to post-truth narratives, and when architecture has seemingly disavowed its critical capacity and political possibility through its commodification as an instrument of the neoliberal city, McEwan offers critical strategies, conceptual tools, figures of thought, and knowledge practices to articulate modes of thinking and acting differently within architectural criticism and practice. Today, knowledge is a common terrain of struggle, and thought requires constant reinvention. The task of architecture and critique more broadly must be to interpret the world in order to change it. Consequently, Analogical City proposes modes for imagining the city, the subject, and the world otherwise, towards a more egalitarian and critical architecture of the city. Ultimately, the analogical city is not a fully developed theory, nor is it only an intuitive, poetic, or purely formal practice, as some critics propose. McEwan argues that the analogical city is poetic and political; it always refers beyond itself towards a collective and critical project of the city, and yet it invites a series of formal, spatial, and graphic operations comprising erasure and negativity followed by substitution and remontage.

Geographies of Mobilities: Practices, Spaces, Subjects Tim Cresswell, 2016-04-15 Over the past fifteen years or so, there has been a widespread and increasing fascination with the theme of mobility across the social sciences and humanities. Of course, geographers have always had an interest in mobility, but as yet they have not viewed this in the same mobility turn as in other disciplines where it has been used to critique the standard approaches to the subjects. This text brings together leading academics to provide a revitalised geography of mobilities informed by this wider mobility turn. It makes connections between the seemingly disparate sub-disciplinary worlds of migration, transport, and tourism, suggesting that each has much to learn from each other through the ontological and epistemological concern for mobility.

The Metabolist Imagination William O. Gardner, 2020-04-14 Japan's postwar urban imagination through the Metabolism, architecture movement, and visionary science fiction authors. The devastation of the Second World War gave rise to imaginations both utopian and apocalyptic. In Japan, a fascinating confluence of architects and science fiction writers took advantage of this space to begin remaking urban design. In The Metabolist Imagination, William O. Gardner explores the unique Metabolism movement, which allied with science fiction authors to foresee the global cities that would emerge in the postwar era. This first comparative study of postwar Japanese architecture and science fiction builds on the resurgence of interest in Metabolist architecture while establishing new directions for exploration. Gardner focuses on how these innovators created unique versions of shared concepts including futurity megastructures capsules and cybercities making lasting contributions that resonate with contemporary conversations around cyberpunk climate change anime and more The Metabolist Imagination features original documentation of collaborations between giants of postwar Japanese art and architecture such as the landmark 1970 Osaka Expo It also provides the most sustained English language discussion to date of the work of Komatsu Saky considered one of the big three authors of postwar Japanese science fiction These studies are underscored by Gardner's insightful approach treating architecture as a form of speculative fiction while positioning science fiction as an intervention into urban design making it a necessary read for today's visionaries

Images of Illegalized Immigration Christine Bischoff, Francesca Falk, Sylvia Kafehsy, 2014-03-15 Illegalized immigration is a highly iconic topic The public perception of the current regime for mobility is profoundly shaped by visual and verbal images As the issue of illegalized immigration is gaining increasing political momentum the authors feel it is a well warranted undertaking to analyze the role of images in the creation of illegalization Their aim is to trace the visual processes that produce these very categories The authors aim to map out an iconography of illegalized immigration in relation to political ethical and aesthetic discourses They discuss the need to project new images as well as the dangers of giving persons without legal papers an individual face Illegalization is produced by law but naturalized through the everyday use of images The production of law on the other hand is also driven by both mental and materialized images A critical iconology may help us to see these mechanisms

Small-Scale Public Transportable and Pre-Fabricated Buildings Junjie Xi, 2018-04-09 This book investigates the design operation and use of contemporary transportable buildings and explores how functional performance can be assessed in small scale examples for public use alongside their relationship to other design elements The research focuses on three case studies Chengdu Hualin Elementary School Exxopolis and Kreod that do not require a high technology building environment or complex construction skills Transportable buildings are defined as those that are transported in a number of parts for assembly on site Contemporary transportable buildings respond to ecological issues social impacts technological innovation and economic demands They can be used to measure a society's development in environmental sustainability innovation and economic growth through various forms Small scale transportable buildings fulfil many temporary habitation needs in diverse roles such as non emergency transitional housing ephemeral exhibition buildings and seasonal entertainment facilities Small Scale Public Transportable and Pre Fabricated Buildings will be a useful research text for academics and students in architecture design and sustainable building performance

Sustaining Cities Linda Krause, 2012-12-14 What has happened to cities after the global economic recession Sustaining Cities answers this question by explaining how failed governmental policies contributed to urban problems and offering best practices for solving them From social scientists and urban planners to architects and literary and film critics the authors of this unique collection suggest real responses to this crisis Could the drastic declines in housing markets have been avoided Yes if we reframe our housing values Do you want to attract corporate investment to your town You might want to think twice about doing so The extinction of the Celtic Tiger may be charted in statistics but the response in popular Irish mystery novels is much more compelling China while not immune to market vicissitudes still booms but at a considerable cost to its urban identities Whether constructing a sustainable social framework for Mexican mega cities or a neighborhood in London these nine essays consider some strikingly similar strategies And perhaps as the contributors suggest it s time to look beyond the usual boundaries of urban suburban and exurban to forge new links among these communities that will benefit all citizens Accessible to anyone with an interest in how cities cope today Sustaining Cities presents a cautionary tale with a hopeful ending

Landscape as Urbanism Charles Waldheim, 2016-02-16 A definitive intellectual history of landscape urbanism It has become conventional to think of urbanism and landscape as opposing one another or to think of landscape as merely providing temporary relief from urban life as shaped by buildings and infrastructure But driven in part by environmental concerns landscape has recently emerged as a model and medium for the city with some theorists arguing that landscape architects are the urbanists of our age In Landscape as Urbanism one of the field s pioneers presents a powerful case for rethinking the city through landscape Charles Waldheim traces the roots of landscape as a form of urbanism from its origins in the Renaissance through the twentieth century Growing out of progressive architectural culture and populist environmentalism the concept was further informed by the nineteenth century invention of landscape architecture as a new art charged with reconciling the design of the industrial city with its ecological and social conditions In the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries as urban planning shifted from design to social science and as urban design committed to neotraditional models of town planning landscape urbanism emerged to fill a void at the heart of the contemporary urban project Generously illustrated Landscape as Urbanism examines works from around the world by designers ranging from Ludwig Hilberseimer Andrea Branzi and Frank Lloyd Wright to James Corner Adriaan Geuze and Michael Van Valkenburgh The result is the definitive account of an emerging field that is likely to influence the design of cities for decades to come
