Kunming Project Urban Development:

Sustainable Low-Carbon City Development in China Axel Baeumler, Ede Ijjasz-Vasquez, Shomik Mehndiratta, 2012-04-12 This book summarizes experiences from the World Bank's activities related to low carbon urban development in China. It highlights the need for low carbon city development and presents details on specific sector level experiences and lessons a framework for action and financing opportunities.

Handbook on Transport and Urban Transformation in China Chia-Lin Chen, Haixiao Pan, Qing Shen, James J. Wang, 2020-03-28 Since 1978 when China embarked on a new period of economic reforms and introduced open door policies it has experienced a great urban transformation. The role of transport has proved indispensable in this unprecedented rapid urbanisation and economic growth. As the first research focused book dedicated to this important topic the Handbook on Transport and Urban Transformation in China offers new insight into the various opportunities and challenges brought by fast paced motorization and urban development and explores them in broad spatial economic environmental social and institutional dimensions.

China's Urban Transition John Friedmann, 2005 A timely and thorough analysis of the rapid urban growth in China.

Urban Development in the Greater Mekong Subregion Florian Steinberg, Januar Hakim, 2016-06-01 This publication about the urban agenda in the Greater Mekong Subregion GMS is timely as the world economy embraces the region with accelerated growth. An important element of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations Economic Community the GMS is expected to catch up with the rest of Asia by 2050. With urbanization levels still averaging about 30% gross domestic product contributions of towns and cities have moved ahead to 50% 60%. By 2050 when urban areas in the GMS reach 64% 74% urban gross domestic product will grow to an estimated 70% 80%. The challenge lies in consolidating and deepening development along the existing corridors and improving the environmental conditions to prepare for future green growth developments.

Building Projects in China Bert Bielefeld, Lars-Phillip Rusch, 2006-05-19 Building Projects in China is the first publication on the book market to give a comprehensive overview of the planning activities of foreign architects in China. This practical handbook outlines legal framework conditions introduces the Chinese building market and gives practical descriptions of the execution of projects on site. To complete the picture international planning firms share their experience on projects of the most various sizes and types in China. What makes projects in China so challenging is the tension between the traditional historical planning environment of an Asian big city and a modernity that is in many ways already ahead of the Western world. Interest in the Chinese building and planning market has been steadily growing for many years. Now for the first time a repository of knowledge as exhaustively researched as this one is finally available.

Mapping Urban Regeneration Ali Cheshmehzangi, 2023-08-29 This book is an unusual attempt to study urban regeneration. First it is based on mapping the realities of urban regeneration case study examples and their impacts on people places and city life experiences. Second it is context specific exploring only a particular region rather than covering one country or multiple locations. Hence the aim is to avoid generic and global solutions but rather focus on local pathways and directions Third it delves into specific case study examples that could share some lessons for research practice and academia particularly in the field of urban regeneration This book is the first of hopefully many more on the way in urban mapping studies with various themes and focus areas The ultimate goal is to ensure urban mapping is recognized well and practiced extensively in research and education It is essential to map realities in cities and communities those that we usually witness but should be experienced perceived and touched not just via desk research Mapping techniques are more than just common tools in urbanism urban geography urban studies urban planning etc They are not just tools but inventive ways of understanding cities places communities experiences and people Thus in this book we try to understand more about people and places through life experiences and mapping the urban regeneration projects of multiple cities in Yunnan Province This collection is based on a very concise context specific research focused on only one region The decision to do so is intentional just because contextual cultural and local attributes need to be looked at more accurately considerably and dexterously Hence this collection delves into case study examples of an inspiring location where traditions remain resources are plenteous and cultures are diverse Yunnan is one of the few provinces left in China that offers a lot for comprehensive research studies at the urban rural and township levels The experiences we gained from mapping studies observations and multi stakeholder engagements are exceptionally rich and vibrant allowing us to think more holistically and find ways and suggestions beyond just the generic globalized models elsewhere We hope the book will be useful to various stakeholders particularly urban specialists researchers and students It is also a valuable collection for policymakers decision makers and governmental authorities who should refrain from top down processes and bring back people to the heart of urban regeneration processes

The Real and Virtual Worlds of Spatial Planning Martina Koll-Schretzenmayr, Marco Keiner, Gustav Nussbaumer, 2013-03-09 Experiencing the world of daily life means to observe and perceive the natural the man made the socio spatial and the politico economic elements of the environment we live in But have you ever tried to explain the phenomena of daily life such as a traffic jam or mass transit to a child It will take you quite a while to find suitable images to make invisible forces perceivable and concepts like timetables bus routes or capacity constraints comprehensible This exercise alone will convince you that we need imagery or virtual worlds to cope with the complexity of the real world The task of spatial planning is to design implement and manage alternative futures for a complex dynamic socio spatial environment that emerges from a wide range of intertwined social political economic and environmental processes In order to learn about these processes and gain knowledge that enables spatial planners to better understand and manage socio spatial reality they need to think in and work with virtual worlds

Urban Development Challenges, Risks and Resilience in Asian Mega Cities R.B. Singh, 2014-10-16 In this book an interdisciplinary research group of faculty members researchers professionals and planners contributed to an understanding of the dynamics and dimensions of emerging challenges and risks in megacities in the rapidly changing urban environments in Asia and examined emerging resilience themes from the point of view of sustainability and public policy The world's urban population in 2009 was approximately 3.4 billion and Asia's urban population was about 1.72 billion Between 2010 and 2020 411 million people will be added to Asian cities 60 % of the growth in the world's urban population By 2020 of the world's urban population of 4.2 billion approximately 2.2 billion will be in Asia China and India will contribute 31.3 % of the total world urban population by 2025 Developing Asia's projected global share of CO2 emissions for energy consumption will increase from 30 % in 2006 to 43 % by 2030 City regions serve as magnets for people enterprise and culture but with urbanisation the worst form of visible poverty becomes prominent The Asian region with a slum population of an estimated 505.5 million people remains host to over half of the world's slum population The book provides information on a comprehensive range of environmental threats faced by the inhabitants of megacities It also offers a wide and multidisciplinary group of case studies from rapidly growing megacities with populations of more than 5 million from developed and developing countries of Asia

Development Geography Xiangzheng Deng, Malin Song, 2025-08-24 This book provides practical insights into regional development focusing on how economic social and environmental factors contribute to disparities across regions It examines pressing global issues such as income inequality climate change and sustainable growth offering strategies for addressing these challenges in both developed and developing countries The book combines theoretical frameworks with case studies policy analysis and interdisciplinary methods making it both academically rigorous and highly applicable for real world solutions Key features include in depth regional comparisons climate adaptation strategies and detailed policy recommendations The reader will gain a comprehensive understanding of how to navigate the complexities of regional development and implement effective sustainable policies Ideal for scholars policymakers and development practitioners this book is designed to inspire informed decision making and foster balanced growth across regions

Reconstruction Of China's Low-carbon City Evaluation Indicator System: A Methodological Guide For Applications Jiahua Pan, Guiyang Zhuang, Shouxian Zhu, Ying Zhang, 2015-02-09 The book written by acclaimed experts from China is an output of the Low Carbon City China LCCC Programme It provides an overview of the low carbon progress in various Chinese cities identifies their strengths and weaknesses and enables the development of renewable energy green buildings and sustainable transportation The book also aims to develop a vision strategy action plan and supervision system to promote low carbon city construction enabling best practice knowledge sharing and developing comprehensive yet China specific low carbon standards and management systems

Cities Surround The Countryside Robin Visser, 2010-04-12 Explores the cultural significance of the explosive growth of China's cities during the past three decades through interpretations of Chinese fiction cinema visual art architecture and urban design

China's Urban Revolution Austin Williams, 2017-10-19 By 2025 China will have built fifteen new supercities each with 25 million inhabitants It will have created 250 Eco cities as well clean green car free people friendly high tech urban centres From the edge of an impending eco catastrophe we are arguably witnessing history's greatest environmental turnaround an urban experiment that may provide valuable lessons for cities worldwide Whether or not we choose to believe the hype there is little doubt that this is an experiment that needs unpicking understanding and learning from Austin Williams The Architectural Review's China correspondent explores the progress and perils of China's vast eco city program describing the complexities which emerge in the race to balance the environment with industrialisation quality with quantity and the liberty of the individual with the authority of the Chinese state Lifting the lid on the economic and social realities of the Chinese blueprint for eco modernisation Williams tells the story of China's rise and reveals the pragmatic political and economic motives that lurk behind the successes and failures of its eco cities Will these new kinds of urban developments be good humane healthy places Can China find a third way in which humanity nature economic growth and sustainability are reconciled And what lessons can we learn for our own vision of the urban future This is a timely and readable account which explores a range of themes environmental political cultural and architectural to show how the eco city program sheds fascinating light on contemporary Chinese society and provides a lens through which to view the politics of sustainability closer to home

China in an Era of Transition R. Hasmath, J. Hsu, 2009-03-30 Given the dominance of the Chinese state in so many aspects of society this collection considers factors such as urbanization the marginalization of social groups the emergence of the business elites and the dissent of internet users to resituate understanding of the social challenges facing China

Transnational Dynamics in Southeast Asia Nathalie Fau, Sirivanh Khonthapane, Christian Taillard, 2014 Since the 1990s regional organizations of the United Nations and international financial institutions have adopted a new dynamic of transnational integration within the framework of the regionalization process of globalization In place of the growth triangles of the 1970s a strategy based on transnational economic corridors has changed the scale of regionalization The Architecture of Kris Yao/Artech Kris Yao, The Images Publishing Group, 2011 Kris Yao is one of Taiwan's best known architects Recognised for his distinctive creative flair he has produced many award winning architectural designs and has received both local and international acclaim The sense of energy and innovation he has brought From Eco-Cities to Sustainable City-Regions Ernest J. Yanarella, Richard S. Levine, 2020-05-29 A political scientist and an urban architect explore China's odyssey to become an ecological civilization and transform its massive unsustainable urbanization process into one that creates hundreds of eco cities The resulting From Eco Cities to Sustainable City Regions is the first book length study combining analysis of politics and power urban design and planning issues derived from the co authors interdisciplinary research and on site fieldwork from their political science and architectural area specialties Exhibiting the Past Kirk A. Denton, 2013-12-31 During the Mao era China's museums served an explicit and uniform propaganda function underlining official Party history eulogizing revolutionary heroes and contributing to nation building and socialist construction With the implementation of the post Mao modernization program in the late 1970s and 1980s and the advent of globalization and market reforms in the 1990s China underwent a radical social and economic transformation that has led to a vastly more heterogeneous culture and polity Yet China is dominated by a single Leninist party that continues to rely heavily on its revolutionary heritage to generate political legitimacy With its messages of collectivism self sacrifice and class struggle that heritage is increasingly at odds with Chinese society and with the state s own neoliberal ideology of rapid paced development glorification of the market and entrepreneurship In this ambiguous political environment museums and their curators must negotiate between revolutionary ideology and new kinds of historical narratives that reflect and highlight a neoliberal present In Exhibiting the Past Kirk Denton analyzes types of museums and exhibitionary spaces from revolutionary history museums military museums and memorials to martyrs to museums dedicated to literature ethnic minorities and local history He discusses red tourism a state sponsored program developed in 2003 as a new form of patriotic education designed to make revolutionary history come alive and urban planning exhibition halls which project utopian visions of China s future that are rooted in new conceptions of the past Denton s method is narratological in the sense that he analyzes the stories museums tell about the past and the political and ideological implications of those stories Focusing on official exhibitionary culture rather than alternative or counter memory Denton reinserts the state back into the discussion of postsocialist culture because of its centrality to that culture and to show that state discourse in China is neither monolithic nor unchanging The book considers the variety of ways state museums are responding to the dramatic social technological and cultural changes China has experienced over the past three decades

China and Europe Klaus Kunzmann, Willy A Schmid, Martina Koll-Schretzenmayr, 2009-09-10 China and Europe address the challenges for the cities and regions of Europe that may be the consequences of such development trends Contributions by policy makers and academic observers will prepare the ground for debating the dimensions economy knowledge and culture environment and mobility quality of life and governance of this challenge

Learning from China Carl Fingerhuth, 2004 The powerful social and cultural transformations of recent decades as expressed in the shape and form of the city need to be examined and reviewed New methods and procedures in urban planning and a new relationship between town and land are urgently required Learning from China calls to mind that seminal work of the post modern Learning from Las Vegas and relates the principles of Taoist thought and action to the perspectives for a new urban design beyond that of today truly post modern

China's Urban Century François Gipouloux, 2015-11-27 The achievements of China s urbanization should not be evaluated solely in terms of adequate infrastructures but also in their ability to implement sound governance practices to ensure social environmental and economic development This book addresses several key challenges faced by Chinese cities based on the most recent policies and experiments adopted by central and local governments The contributors offer an interdisciplinary analysis of the urbanization process in China and examine the following key topics the institutional foundations of Chinese cities the legal status of the land the rural to urban migration the preservation of the urban heritage and the creation of urban community and the competitiveness of Chinese cities They define the current issues and challenges emerging from China's urbanization Students and academics of urban studies and related subjects will find the strong theoretical backgrounds to be of use to their research Policy makers and other practitioners will benefit from the practical advice and recommendations
