Physician-Assisted Death National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Health Sciences Policy, 2018-08-29 The question of whether and under what circumstances terminally ill patients should be able to access life ending medications with the aid of a physician is receiving increasing attention as a matter of public opinion and of public policy. Ethicists, clinicians, patients and their families debate whether physician assisted death ought to be a legal option for patients. While public opinion is divided and public policy debates include moral, ethical and policy considerations, a demand for physician assisted death persists among some patients and the inconsistent legal terrain leaves a number of questions and challenges for health care providers to navigate when presented with patients considering or requesting physician assisted death. To discuss what is known and not known empirically about the practice of physician assisted death, the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine convened a 2 day workshop in Washington DC on February 12-13, 2018. This publication summarizes the presentations and discussions from the workshop.
