Linguistic Interference And Convergent Change:

Linguistic Interference and Convergent Change V. J. Rozencveĵg, 2017-12-04 No detailed description available for Linguistic Interference and Convergent Change Linguistic Interference and Convergent Change Viktor I'evich Rozent'sveĵg, 1976 No detailed description available for Linguistic Interference and Convergent Change Transfer and Interference in Language, 1984-01-01 The topic of this bibliography in its broadest sense is the subject of a wide range of academic disciplines Given these circumstances the particular associations and connotations of the terms transfer and interference in each of these areas are legion with resultant differences in meaning in the disparate literature on these subjects And yet it is in one way or another contact and interaction of languages in the speaker hearer and learner in language acquisition contexts as well as in society in general which is basic to these two concepts throughout the various disciplines The discovery of this basic unitary notion is surely one of the reasons for the new interest in these phenomena In light of all this a bibliography cannot at present avoid being highly selective in order to demarcate an interdisciplinary area of research in its own right and with its own status The establishment of such an area is one of our main aims The focus of interest in this bibliography admittedly is directed towards the psycholinguistics of language contact and interaction

Research Guide on Language Change Edgar C. Polomé, 2011-06-15 TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS is a series of books that open new perspectives in our understanding of language The series publishes state of the art work on core areas of linguistics across theoretical frameworks as well as studies that provide new insights by building bridges to neighbouring fields such as neuroscience and cognitive science TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS considers itself a forum for cutting edge research based on solid empirical data on language in its various manifestations including sign languages It regards linguistic variation in its synchronic and diachronic dimensions as well as in its social contexts as important sources of insight for a better understanding of the design of linguistic systems and the ecology and evolution of language TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS publishes monographs and outstanding dissertations as well as edited volumes which provide the opportunity to address controversial topics from different empirical and theoretical viewpoints High quality standards are ensured through anonymous reviewing Explanation in Historical Linguistics Garry W. Davis, Gregory K. Iverson, 1992-10-15 This is the first of two volumes deriving from papers presented at the Nineteenth Annual UVM Linguistics Symposium held in Milwaukee in April 1990 The contributions in this volume investigate the general question of what constitutes an explanation of diachronic change and illustrate their proposals in the context of various specific problems in historical linguistics The present volume also includes a solicited paper by Eric P Hamp On remote reconstruction that addresses the validity of distant reconstructions like those of Nostratic and Proto World Convergence and Divergence in Language Contact Situations Kurt Braunmüller, Juliane House, 2009-11-12 This book deals with the consequences of converging and diverging processes and their development in language contact situations It provides insights into the various forms of language contact and the conditions under which bilingual speakers master their every day life in bilingual communities Its nine contributions cover both theoretical and typological aspects such as the classification of languages the role of language contact linguistic complexity and spontaneous speech innovations and convergence and divergence processes in translation morpho syntax and phonology phonetics Taken together these studies provide challenges for linguistic theories that generalize from situations of monolingualism suggesting instead that a sound linguistic theory cannot be a theory for just one single isolated language but must be a theory for at least two languages It must also account for the fact that some structures involved in contact situations are not kept apart but develop in such a way that the distance decreases between the languages involved

Bilingualism in the Spanish-Speaking World Jennifer Austin, María Blume, Liliana Sánchez, 2015-04-23 An introduction to bilingualism in the Spanish speaking world looking at topics including language contact bilingual societies code switching and language choice

Error Analysis Bernd Spillner, 1991 Errors are information In contrastive linguistics they are thought to be caused by unconscious transfer of mother tongue structures to the system of the target language and give information about both systems In the interlanguage hypothesis of second language acquisition errors are indicative of the different intermediate learning levels and are useful pedagogical feedback In both cases error analysis is an essential methodological tool for diagnosis and evaluation of the language acquisition process Errors too give information in psychoanalysis e g the Freudian slip in language universal research and in other fields of linguistics such as linguistic change This bibliography is intended to stimulate study into cross language cross discipline and cross theoretical as well as for language universal use of the numerous but sometimes hard to come by error analysis studies 5398 titles covering the period 1578 up to 1990 with work in more than 144 languages and language families are cited cross referenced and described The subject areas covered are numerous For example Theoretical Linguistics Linguistic Typology Cognitive Linguistics Historical Linguistics Language Change Applied Linguistics e g Speech Disorders Translation Mother Tongue Acquisition Foreign Language Learning Negative Transfer Intralingual and Interlingual Errors Psychoanalysis Slips of the Tongue Typography Shorthand Clinical Linguistics and Speech Pathology Reading Research Automatic Error Detection Contact Linguistics Code switching Interference etc

Creolization and Contact Norval Smith, Tonjes Veenstra, 2001 This volume contains revised and extended versions of a selection of the papers presented at The Amsterdam Workshop on Language Contact and Creolization These studies apply the concept of relexification to creoles as well as other contact languages highlight the relevance of strategies of second language learning for theories of pidgin creole genesis critically discuss the notions levelling koine formation and convergence the relation between types of contact situations and processes of crosslinguistic influence as well as the linguistic consequences of the social structure of the plantation system In addition to discussing English French and Dutch related creoles the papers cover a wide range of contact languages spoken throughout Africa Asia and Europe The breadth and coverage makes this an indispensable title for Quechua-Spanish Bilingualism Lilitana Sánchez, 2003-12-19 This book addresses how cross linguistic interference is represented in the bilingual mind Examining novel oral production data from older bilingual children representing two Quechua varieties this research concludes that interference in the feature specification of functional categories leads to language change in a language contact situation and links convergence a common set of feature values for the same functional category in both languages to the activation of features related to the informational structure of the sentence. These mechanisms are illustrated in detail by the presence of overt determiners, canonical SVO word order, and the absence of accusative marking in bilingual Quechua, and by neutralization of case and gender distinctions in direct object pronouns, as well as in the emergence of null pronouns with definite antecedents in bilingual Spanish.

Aspects of Language Contact Thomas Stolz, Dik Bakker, Rosa Salas Palomo, 2008-08-27. This edited volume brings together fourteen original contributions to the on-going debate about what is possible in contact-induced language change. The authors present a number of new vistas on language contact which represent new developments in the field. In the first part of the volume, the focus is on methodology and theory. Thomas Stolz defines the study of Romancisation processes as a very promising laboratory for language contact-oriented research and theoretical work based thereon. The reader is informed about the large-scale projects on loanword typology in the contribution by Martin Haspelmath, and on contact-induced grammatical change conducted by Jeanette Sakel and Yaron Matras. Christel Stolz reviews processes of gender assignment to loan nouns in German and German-based varieties. The typology of loan verbs is the topic of the contribution by Søren Wichmann and Jan Wohlgemuth. In the articles by Wolfgang Wildgen and Klaus Zimmermann, two radically new approaches to the theory of language contact are put forward: a dynamic model and a constructivism-based theory, respectively. The second part of the volume is dedicated to more empirically oriented studies which look into language contact constellations with a Romance donor language and a non-European recipient language. Spanish-Amerindian, Guaran-Otom, and Quichua contacts are investigated in the comparative study by Dik Bakker, Jorge Gómez Rendón, and Ewald Hekking. Peter Bakker and Robert A. Papen discuss the influence exerted by French on the indigenous languages of Canada. The extent of the Portuguese impact on the Amazonian language Kulina is studied by Stefan Dienst. John Holm looks at the validity of the hypothesis that bound morphology normally falls victim to Creolization processes and draws his evidence mainly from Portuguese-based Creoles. For Austronesia, borrowings and calques from French still are an understudied phenomenon. Claire Moyse-Faurie's contribution to this topic is thus a pioneer's work. Similarly, Françoise Rose and Odile Renault-Lescure provide us with fresh data on language contact in French Guiana. The final article of this collection by Mauro Tosco demonstrates that the Italianization of languages of the former Italian colonies in East Africa is only weak. This volume provides the reader with new insights on all levels of language contact-related studies. The volume addresses especially a readership that has a strong interest in language contact in general and its repercussions on the phonology, grammar, and lexicon of the recipient languages. Experts of Romance language contact and specialists of Amerindian languages, Afro-Asiatic languages, Austronesian languages, and Pidgins and Creoles will find the volume highly valuable.

The Handbook of Historical Linguistics Brian Joseph, Richard Janda, 2008-04-15.
