

Intro to Business: Midterm 15/3 Chapter 1-3.

10 principles of economics

1. People face Tradeoffs

To get one thing, we usually have to give up something else

2. The Cost of Something is What You Give Up to Get It

Opportunity cost = The cost to choose something (or give up something) and value delay. College instead of working.

3. Rational people think at the margin

Margin is a small and incremental adjustment to an existing plan of action.

4. People respond to incentives

Incentive = something to cause a person to act.
Ex. Higher taxes on cigarettes to prevent smoking

5. Trade can make everyone better off

Trade= I give you money and you give me something.

6. Markets are usually a good way to organize economic activities

Markets allow different entities to interact with each other to exchange goods and services

Invisible hand = Prices: deciding what to buy without accounting for the social cost of the action.

7. Government can sometimes improve economic outcomes

Government can intervene to promote efficiency and equity.

Market failure: when markets fail to allocate resource efficiently:

- Externality: an entity's impact on a bystander
- Market power: an entity's undue influence on market prices

8. The standard of living depends on a countrys production

The more goods and services produced in a country, the higher the standard of living. As people consume a larger quantity of goods and services, their standard of living will increase.

How to measure:

- Comparing personal incomes
- Comparing total market value of a countrys productivity

9. Prices rise when the government prints too much money

When too much money is floating in the economy, there will be higher demand of goods and services. This will cause firms to increase their price in the long time causing inflation.

10. Society faces a short-run tradeoff between inflation and unemployment

In the short-run, when prices increase, suppliers will want to increase their production of goods and services. In order to achieve this, they need to hire more workers to produce those goods
