Science and Civilisation in China: Volume 1, Introductory Orientations Joseph Needham, Ling Wang, 1954 For contents see Author Catalog Habermas, Foucault and the Political-Legal Discussions in China Fan Yang, 2022-03-10 This book revisits the discourse theories of Habermas and Foucault in a Chinese context After arguing that Habermas's Discourse Theory of Law and Democracy is too normative and idealistic it presents Foucault's Discourse Theory of Power Relations to illustrate the tensions between different Western discourse theories The book then draws on the normative concept of Confucian Rationality from traditional Chinese cultural sources in order to investigate how adaptable

these two discourse theories are to the Chinese society and to balance the tension between them Presenting these three dimensions of discourse theory as well as the relations between them it also uses empirical descriptions of certain facts of political legal discussion both in traditional China and in the country s new media age to explain supplement and question this theoretic framework The book asserts that because of the diverse modes of thinking in specific cultures there might be different normative paradigms of discorse and different political legal discussion modes across corresponding cultural contexts Normative discourse theories provide guidance for the practices of deliberative democracy and legal discussions which can in turn verify supplement improve and challenge the normative discourse theories In addition to demonstrating the multiple dimensions of discourse theories this research also promotes an approach to the Discourse Theory of Law and Democracy that combines elements of both Chinese and modern society

The Academy ,1880 Prehistoric Warfare and Violence Andrea Dolfini,Rachel J. Crellin,Christian Horn,Marion Uckelmann,2018-07-20 This is the first book to explore prehistoric warfare and violence by integrating qualitative research methods with quantitative scientific techniques of analysis such as paleopathology morphometry wear analysis and experimental archaeology It investigates early warfare and violence from the standpoint of four broad interdisciplinary themes skeletal markers of violence and weapon training conflict in prehistoric rock art the material culture of conflict and intergroup violence in archaeological discourse The book has a wide ranging chronological and geographic scope from early Neolithic to late Iron Age and from Western Europe to East Asia It includes world renowned sites and artefact collections such as the Tollense Valley Bronze Age battlefield Germany the UNESCO World Heritage Site at Tanum Sweden and the British Museum collection of bronze weaponry from the late Shang period China Original case studies are presented in each section by a diverse international authorship The study of warfare and violence in prehistoric and pre literate societies has been at the forefront of archaeological debate since the publication of Keeley s provocative monograph War Before Civilization Oxford 1996 The problem has been approached from a number of standpoints including anthropological and behavioural studies of interpersonal violence osteological examinations of sharp lesions and blunt force traumas wear analysis of ancient weaponry and field experiments with replica weapons and armour This research however is often confined within the boundaries of the various disciplines and specialist fields In particular a gap can often be detected between the research approaches grounded in the humanities and social sciences and those based on the archaeological sciences The consequence is that to this day the subject is dominated by a number of undemonstrated assumptions regarding the nature of warfare combat and violence in non literate societies Moreover important methodological questions remain unanswered can we securely distinguish between violence related and accidental trauma on skeletal remains To what extent can wear analysis shed light on long forgotten fighting styles Can we design meaningful combat tests based on historic martial arts And can the study of rock art unlock the social realities of prehistoric warfare By breaking the mould of entrenched subject boundaries this edited volume promotes interdisciplinary debate in the study of prehistoric warfare and violence by presenting a number of innovative approaches that integrate qualitative and quantitative methods of research and analysis

Beyond the May Fourth Paradigm Kai-wing Chow, Tze-ki Hon, Hung-yok Ip, Don C. Price, 2008-04-18 When did China make the decisive turn from tradition to modernity For decades the received wisdom would have pointed to the May Fourth movement with its titanic battles between the champions of iconoclasm and the traditionalists and its shift to more populist forms of politics A growing body of recent research has however called into question how decisive the turn was when it happened and what relation the resulting modernity bore to the agendas of people who might have considered themselves representatives of such an iconoclastic movement Having thus explicitly or implicitly decentered the May Fourth such research augmented by contributions in the present volume leaves us with the task of accounting for the shape Chinese modernity took as the product of dialogues and debates between and the interplay of a variety of actors and trends both within and certainly no less importantly without the May Fourth camp
