Elizabeth Barrett Browning Representative Women London:

The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Victorian Women's Writing Lesa Scholl, Emily Morris, 2022-12-15 Since the late twentieth century there has been a strategic campaign to recover the impact of Victorian women writers in the field of English literature. However, with the increased understanding of the importance of interdisciplinarity in the twenty-first century, there is a need to extend this campaign beyond literary studies in order to recognise the role of women writers across the nineteenth century, a time that was intrinsically interdisciplinary in approach to scholarly writing and public intellectual engagement.

The edition presents accurate and accessible texts of all her published literary works.

Joanna, George, and Henry Sue Bradbury, 2012 Biography of three artists closely associated with the Pre-Raphaelites whose letters give a vivid insight into the dramas of their personal life. Joanna, George, and Henry tells the story of the intertwined lives of three young artists in the 1850s. When the transcript of the material on which this group portrait is based came to light ten years ago, no one could have imagined the drama within. They were family letters, letters from a young woman to her brother and later to her suitor, of interest chiefly because all three were painters and all were active participants in the youthful Pre-Raphaelite revolution that swept England in the 1850s. They turned out to be a revelation, giving not only a comprehensive picture of what it was like to be an artist in the mid-19th century but containing within them a powerful family drama and a most unusual love story. It is a love story, moreover, told largely from a woman's point of view. Joanna Boyce's dedication to her art was absolute; she studied in Paris under Thomas Couture and had her first painting exhibited at the Academy when she was only 24. She was headstrong, self-critical, opinionated, and teasing, an artist with her pen as well as her brush. She died tragically young. Between them, Joanna, her brother George, and suitor Henry Wells knew all the artistic luminaries of the day, among them Ruskin, Millais, and Rossetti, with whom George shared a great deal, including mistresses. They wrote to each other not just about art but about their friends, their favourite books, their travels, their illnesses, their passions, and their quarrels. In this book, they tell their story in their own vivid words, a story which portrays the age in which they lived and the powerful drama of their emotional and professional lives. Sue Bradbury taught in Spain for three years before joining The Folio Society in 1973. She became Editorial Director in 1984, a post she held for twenty-five years. Her own publications include translations of Three Tragedies by Federico Garcia Lorca, a novel Midnight Madonna set in the Spanish Civil War, and a four-volume history of the world in contemporary accounts, Eyewitness to History with Robert Fox. She was awarded the OBE in 2010.

The History of British Women's Writing, 1830-1880 Lucy Hartley, 2018-09-22 This volume charts the rise of professional women writers across diverse fields of intellectual enquiry and through different modes of writing in the period immediately before and during the reign of Queen Victoria It demonstrates how between 1830 and 1880 the woman writer became an agent of cultural formation and contestation appealing to and enabling the growth of female readership while issuing a challenge to the authority of male writers and critics Of especial importance were changing definitions of marriage family and nation of class and of morality as well as new conceptions of sexuality and gender and of sympathy and sensation The result is a richly textured account of a radical and complex process of feminization whereby formal innovations in the different modes of writing by women became central to the aesthetic social and political formation of British culture and society in the nineteenth century

Women Writing Art History in the Nineteenth Century Hilary Fraser, 2014-09-04 This book sets out to correct received accounts of the emergence of art history as a masculine field It investigates the importance of female writers from Anna Jameson Elizabeth Eastlake and George Eliot to Alice Meynell Vernon Lee and Michael Field in developing a discourse of art notable for its complexity and cultural power its increasing professionalism and reach and its integration with other discourses of modernity Proposing a more flexible and inclusive model of what constitutes art historical writing including fiction poetry and travel literature this book offers a radically revisionist account of the genealogy of a discipline and a profession It shows how women experienced forms of professional exclusion that whilst detrimental to their careers could be aesthetically formative how working from the margins of established institutional structures gave women the freedom to be audaciously experimental in their writing about art in ways that resonate with modern readers

Prayer and Embodiment in Nineteenth-Century Women's Writing Elizabeth Ludlow, 2025-02-20 In the 19th century an era that saw a reconfiguration of the relationship between the self the world and the divine women writers probed the theological depths of embodied faith in new ways through poetry fiction devotional prose and life writing Elizabeth Ludlow explores how through this process they articulated what it means to pray and thereby understand one's place in a world of individual and communal bodies The eight women writers discussed Elizabeth Barrett Browning Josephine Butler George Eliot Elizabeth Gaskell Dora Greenwell Felicia Hemans Adelaide Procter and Christina Rossetti provide accounts of prayer that stress that the only way to experience and respond to something of the transcendent is through embracing lived experience and through a recognition of the connectedness of all bodies In detailing how these writers engage with new ways of thinking about faith desire and the material world Ludlow argues that they offer models for ethical modes of being in the world and pave the way for later theologies of embodiment

Walking the Victorian Streets Deborah Epstein Nord, 2018-09-05 Literary traditions of urban description in the nineteenth century revolve around the figure of the stroller a man who navigates and observes the city streets with impunity Whether the stroller appears as fictional character literary persona or the nameless omnipresent narrator of panoramic fiction he casts the woman of the streets in a distinctive role She functions at times as a double for the walker's marginal and alienated self and at others as connector and contaminant carrier of the literal and symbolic diseases of modern urban life In Walking the Victorian Streets Deborah Epstein Nord explores the way in which the female figure is used as a marker for social suffering poverty and contagion in texts by De Quincey Lamb Pierce Egan and Dickens What then of the female walker and urban chronicler While the male spectator enjoyed the ability to see without being seen the female stroller struggled to transcend her role as urban spectacle and her association with sexual transgression In novels nonfiction and poetry by Elizabeth Gaskell¹ Flora Tristan Margaret Harkness Amy Levy Maud Pember Reeves Beatrice Webb Helen Bosanquet and others Nord locates the tensions felt by the female spectator conscious of herself as both observer and observed Finally Walking the Victorian Streets considers the legacy of urban rambling and the uses of incognito in twentieth century texts by George Orwell and Virginia Woolf

Networking the Nation Alison Chapman,2015-07-16 How did nineteenth century women's poetry shift from the poetess

poetry of lyric effusion and hyper femininity to the muscular epic of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's Aurora Leigh. Networking the Nation re-writes women's poetic traditions by demonstrating the debt that Barrett Browning's revolutionary poetics owed to a circle of American and British women poets living in Florence and campaigning in their poetry and in their salons for Italian Unification. These women poets, Isa Blagden, Elizabeth Kinney, Eliza Ogilvy, and Theodosia Garrow Trollope, formed with Barrett Browning a network of poetry sociability and politics which was devoted to the mission of campaigning for Italy as an independent nation-state. In their poetic experiments with the active lyric voice in their forging of a transnational persona through the periodical press in their salons and spiritualist séances, the women poets formed a network that attempted to assert and perform an independent unified Italy in their work. Networking the Nation maps the careers of these expatriate women poets who were based in Florence in the key years of Risorgimento politics, racing their transnational social and print communities and the problematic but schismatic shift in their poetry from the conventional sphere of the poetess. In the fraught and thrilling engagement with their adopted nation's revolutionary turmoil and in their experiments with different types of writing agency, the women poets in this book offer revolutions of other kinds: revolutions of women's poetry and the very act of writing.

George Eliot, Poetess Dr Wendy S Williams, 2014-08-28 The position of George Eliot's poetry within Victorian poetry and within her own canon is crucial for an accurate picture of the writer, as Wendy S Williams shows in her in-depth examination of Eliot's poetry and her role as poetess. Williams argues that even more clearly than her fiction, Eliot's poetry reveals the development of her belief in sympathy as a replacement for orthodox religious views. With knowledge of the Bible and a firm understanding of society's expectations for female authorship, Eliot consciously participated in a tradition of women poets who relied on feminine piety and poetry to help refine society through compassion and fellow feeling. Williams examines Eliot's poetry in relationship to her gender and sexual politics and her shifting religious beliefs, showing that Eliot's views on gender and religion informed her adoption of the poetess persona. By taking into account Eliot's poetess treatment of community and motherhood, Williams suggests readers come to view her not only as a writer of fiction, an intellectual, and a social commentator, but also as a woman who longed to nurture, participate in, and foster human relationships.

Representing Female Artistic Labour, 1848-1890 Patricia Zakreski, 2006 Looking specifically at sewing, art writing, and acting, Zakreski shows how these professions increasingly came to be defined as artistic and thus as suitable professions for middle-class women and argues that the supposedly degrading activity of paid work could be transformed into a refining experience for women. Rather than consigning working women to the margins of patriarchal culture, then, her study shows how representations of creative women by authors such as Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Dinah Craik, Charles Dickens, Anthony Trollope, and Charlotte Yonge participated in and shaped new forms of mainstream culture.

BOOK JACKET The Mill on the Floss and Silas Marner Nahem Yousaf, Andrew Maunder, 2017-03-08 This New Casebook explores the enduring significance of George Eliot's novels The Mill on the Floss (1860) and Silas Marner (1861). Eliot's radical cultural politics and the
