Empirical Perspectives on Object Relations Theory Joseph M. Masling, Robert F. Bornstein, 1994-01-01 As was true of the earlier volumes in the Empirical Studies of Psychoanalytic Theories series all of the contributors to the present volume have through their research efforts worked to keep psychoanalytic theory alive and consistent with modern scientific canon Our goal is not to defend psychoanalytic constructs nor to focus only on those data that support psychodynamic hypotheses Rather we hope to test to refine and to extend psychoanalytic theory allowing the data to lead us wherever they must In this way the Empirical Studies series can help to reinvigorate psychoanalytic theory and practice and can contribute to the ongoing effort to provide psychoanalysis with a rigorous empirical foundation Introduction PsycINFO Database Record c 2006 APA all rights reserved      Object Relations Individual Therapy Jill Savege Scharff, David E. Scharff, M.D., 2000-12-01 Emphasizing the transformational possibilities that grow out of their relational model of therapy David E and Jill Savege Scharff invite us into the territory of interactive journeys with individual patients A contemporary classic      Counseling Youth Tina (A.C.) Besley, 2019-04-09 Using the work of Foucault this study examines changing notions of the self and identity and how psychological and sociological discourses have conceptualized and constituted adolescence youth as the primary client in school counseling Case studies of mental hygiene films in the United States and a moral panic in New Zealand are used to examine how youth were morally constituted in the postwar period a time when guidance counseling emerged in Western countries such as the United States the United Kingdom Australia Canada and New Zealand The author uses Foucault's notion of governmentality to critically examine how counseling professionalized itself as a disciplinary body This book is targeted at practicing counselors counseling students and counselor theoreticians It will also find audiences with graduate students in youth studies and those interested in the work and applications of Michel Foucault One of the best things that I can say about this book is that it had a personal impact It nudged me into re thinking various aspects of my work It is a book that achieves a rare thing It talks about counseling young people without getting so caught up in the detail of practice that it loses sight of the big picture I believe that school counselors who engage with this work will find that their practice is never quite the same again They will be invited to think about things they have previously taken for granted and to listen to young people in new ways John Winslade Coordinator of Counselor Education California State University San Bernardino Co Author of Narrative Counseling in Schools Powerful Brief      Identity In Adolescence Jane Kroger, 2004-08-02 Fully updated to include the most recent research and theoretical developments in the field the third edition of Identity in Adolescence examines the two way interaction of individual and social context in the process of identity formation Setting the developmental tradition in context Jane Kroger begins by providing a brief overview of the theoretical approaches to adolescent identity formation currently in use This is followed by a discussion of five developmental models which reflect a range of attempts from the oldest to among the most recent efforts to describe this process and include the work of Erik

Erikson Peter Blos Lawrence Kohlberg Jane Loevinger and Robert Kegan Although focussing on each theorist in turn this volume also goes on to compare and integrate the varied theoretical models and research findings and sets out some of the practical implications for social response to adolescents Different social and cultural conditions and their effect on the identity formation process are also covered as are contemporary contextual narrative and postmodern approaches to understanding and researching identity issues The book is ideal reading for students of adolescence identity and developmental psychology      Handbook of Attachment, Second Edition Jude Cassidy, Phillip R. Shaver, 2008-08-21 From foremost authorities this comprehensive work is more than just the standard reference on attachment it has become indispensable in the field Coverage includes the origins and development of attachment theory biological and evolutionary perspectives and the role of attachment processes in personality relationships and mental health across the lifespan

Applied Psychology in Everyday Life Christopher J. L. Cunningham, Brian J. O'Leary, 2011-07-12 The practice of psychology involves more than the clinical treatment of mental illness Although the media may perpetuate the view that all psychologists are healthcare professionals or specialists who deal with deviant or non normal behaviors the majority of psychologists study and practice in diverse areas of human functioning other than clinical psychology Psychology is the scientific study of human thought and behavior all human behavior It is a science with the same rigorous research standards as physics chemistry or biology This book showcases a variety of applications of psychological science in the areas of health law sports business religion and money It is an outgrowth of the River Cities Industrial Organizational Psychology Conference held at The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga USA in October 2008 The theme of the 2008 conference was Applying Psychology to Everyday Life We hope the content of this volume enhances your awareness of the importance of applied psychology and that it motivates you to further explore its potential to impact our daily lives CHANGE: MODELS AND PROCESSES Shawn

Cooper, 2012-11-01 This book is intended to assist individuals in dealing with change occurring externally to the person as well as change that the individual attempts to bring about in themselves The approaches taken attempt to organize the concepts of change within a broad framework a continuum or gradient which will enable the person to see changes in life as existing on a spectrum from those change phenomena which are external to the individual e g economic or environmental events to those within the person e g stopping smoking or changing one's behavior Within an overarching framework of general systems theory which emphasizes a holistic view of change the book describes a number of conceptual structures or what are conceived as models The volume focuses on helping the reader to recognize the way these models appear in the person's environment as well as in the individual's own functioning Further the book indicates how the person can apply these models in his or her own efforts to deal with life and change Thus each chapter describes the essential idea of a particular model and then provides a section on the applications of that model The beginning chapters describe several abstract models followed by a chapter which presents John Bowlby's attachment theory and his concept of internal models which reflect individuals' core perceptions of themselves and others finally the book includes a discussion of James Prochaska's stages of change model which describes the ways in which individuals proceed to make changes in their own behavior and functioning The book presents a unified view of change in life as it occurs external to and within the person and concludes with a discussion of ways the individual can consider these various concepts in efforts to make change The book is appropriate for three audiences First the volume is suitable for mental health professionals for whom the book can provide a unique view of the change process in the treatment they offer and they might request that their patients read the book Second the book is relevant for individuals interested in a process of self change whether they are contemplating or are in a psychotherapeutic relationship or simply want to make changes in themselves on their own Third the book is also relevant for managers in organizations who deal with the concepts of change in the individuals they supervise The Self and Society in Aging Processes Carol D. Ryff, PhD, Victor W. Marshall, PhD, 1999-06-23 This volume focuses on the experience of growing old as it is linked to societal factors Ryff and Marshall construct this macro view of aging in society by bridging disciplines and bringing together contributors from all the social sciences The book is organized into three sections theoretical perspectives socioeconomic structures and contexts of self and society Leading psychologists anthropologists gerontologists and sociologists present theoretical and empirical advances that forge links between the individual and the social aspects of aging It is must reading for researchers in all gerontologic specialties and a valuable text for graduate courses in human development psychology of aging and other social aspects of aging

The Psychological Assessment of Abused and Traumatized Children Francis D. Kelly, 1999-03-01 The past decade has seen more and more clinicians involved in the assessment and treatment of abused and traumatized children They have contributed to an impressively large body of literature on the impact of abuse and trauma at all ages the focus of which has been the short and long term sequelae apparent in the child s behavior emotional experience and social interaction But there have been few efforts to investigate the ways in which abuse and trauma damage the intrapsychic systems and structures that often guide direct and inform the child s manifest adjustment and functioning The need to redress the balance was the major impetus for this book Kelly offers a clinical paradigm for the personality assessment of abused or traumatized children via projective instruments the TAT and Rorschach and shows how various projective measures and indices can be utilized as sensitive barometers of changes in self object and ego functioning following therapeutic interventions and other corrective experiences But further integrating the tenets of trauma theory and those of psychoanalytic theory he sets this clinical paradigm in a meaningful theoretical context and draws on both theory and clinical experience to develop a comprehensive psychological composite of the child who has been maltreated Part I provides an overview of theoretical models relevant to the assessment and diagnosis of the maltreated child Contemporary psychoanalytic theory serves as one frame and is discussed first with particular emphasis on object relations and ego functions Equal attention is devoted to developmental psychology as another frame Part II reviews relevant research The Mutuality of Autonomy Scale MOA and the Social Cognition and Object Relations Scale SCORS are introduced as examples of reliable and valid instruments readily employed to assess the impact of abuse or trauma on a child s object relations functioning Additional Rorschach indices boundary disturbance measures thought disorder indices trauma markers and defensive functions measures are discussed as measures of the impact on different facets of ego functioning These various projective measures can be utilized as sensitive barometers of changes in self object and ego functioning following therapeutic interventions and other corrective experiences Part III includes a variety of extended clinical illustrations Seven cases of boys and girls subjected to varying degrees of abuse and trauma are presented to demonstrate the clinical utility of projective material for assessment diagnosis and treatment planning For the clinician who takes the idiographical phenomenological approach appropriate given the uniqueness of each situation of abuse or trauma and the frequent brevity and barrenness of the protocol such material can open a window onto a rich vista of the child s psychological terrain The resulting map can point the way to wise decisions about type timing and level of therapeutic intervention the resolution of such process issues as transference and countertransference plus additional questions Two cases of adult women who were abused as children and find themselves continuing to struggle with enduring unresolved issues vis a vis their own children are also presented These cases underscore the value of TAT and Rorschach material and object relations measures in assessing and understanding the abusive and potentially abusive parent
