Emotion As Meaning

Keith M. Opdahl

Emotion As Meaning:

Emotion and Meaning in Music Leonard B. Meyer, 1956 Lays the groundwork for exhaustive study of the basic problem of music theory and aesthetics the relationship between pattern and meaning and provides a basis for the meaningful discussion of emotion and meaning in all art

Components of emotional meaning Johnny J. R. Fontaine, Klaus R. Scherer, Cristina Soriano, 2013-08-01 Publications on emotion and the affective sciences in general have exploded in the last decade Numerous research teams and individual scholars from many different disciplines have published research papers or books about many different aspects of emotions and their role in behaviour and society However One aspect of emotional research that has been somewhat neglected is the way in which emotional terms translate into other languages When using terms like anger sadness fear disgust and joy for so called basic emotions as well as terms like shame guilt pride regret and contempt for more complex emotions it is naturally assumed that the emotion terms used for research in the native language of the researchers and translated into English are completely equivalent in meaning However this is not generally the case In many cases there is no direct one to one relationship between an English term and a term in an alternative language In fact there can be significant differences in the way that these seemingly similar emotional terms can be applied across various languages with important implications for how we review and appraise this work This book presents an extensive cross cultural and cross linguistic review of the meaning of emotion words adopting a novel methodological approach Based on the Component Process Model the authors developed a new instrument to assess the meaning of emotion terms This instrument the GRID questionnaire consists of a grid of 24 emotion terms spanning the emotion domain and 142 emotion features that operationalize five emotion components Appraisals Bodily reactions Expressions Action tendencies and Feelings For the operationalization of these five emotion components very different emotion models from the Western and the cultural comparative emotion literature were taken into account Components of Emotional Meaning includes contributions from psychological cultural comparative and linguistic perspectives demonstrating how this new instrument can be used to empirically study very different research questions on the meaning of emotion terms The implications of the results for major theoretical debates on emotion are also discussed For all researchers in the affective sciences this book is an important new reference work

Metaphor and Emotion Zoltán Kövecses, 2003-09 Are human emotions best characterized as biological psychological or cultural entities Many researchers claim that emotions arise either from human biology i e biological reductionism or as products of culture i e social constructionism This book challenges this simplistic division between the body and culture by showing how human emotions are to a large extent constructed from individuals embodied experiences in different cultural settings The view proposed here demonstrates how cultural aspects of emotions metaphorical language about the emotions and human physiology in emotion are all part of an integrated system and shows how this system points to the reconciliation of the seemingly contradictory views of biological reductionism and social constructionism in contemporary debates about human emotion      Emotion as Meaning Keith M. Opdahl, 2002 Opdahl shows that emotion represents elements that elude those two codes relationships intangible mental states large entities like cities or eras and always context or background Emotion provides the primary mode of the identifying reader as he or she shares the emotions of the protagonist BOOK JACKET      Communicating Emotion Sally Planalp, 1999-08-13 The modern world is forcing us to understand emotion in order to cope with new problems such as road rage and epidemic levels of depression as well as age old problems such as homicide genocide and racial tension At the same time scholarly research is leading us to appreciate how emotion helps us to understand and transcend our selfish interests to connect with others to feel what is just and moral and not just think it and to construct societies and cultures that govern our joint efforts This book draws upon scholarly research to address explain and legitimize the role that emotion plays in everyday interaction and in many of the pressing social moral and cultural issues that we face today      Emotion Concepts Zoltan Kövecses, 2012-12-06 This chapter briefly describes the general goals of the book introduces the most fundamental features of the methodology that is employed to achieve these goals and gives an outline of the structure of the book A more detailed account of the goals and methodology is presented in chapters 2 and 3 respectively What the Book Is About The main objective of this study is to attempt to answer the question How do people understand their emotions As we shall see in the next chapter a large number of scholars have tried to provide answers to this question The interest in the way people understand their emotions has led scholars to the issue of the nature of emotion concepts and emotional meaning Since the notion of understanding involves or presupposes the notions of concept and meaning it was only natural for scholars with an interest in the way people understand their emotions to turn their attention to emotion concepts and the meaning associated with emotion terms So the broader issue has often become more specific For example Davitz in his The Language of Emotion formulated the central question in the following way What does a person mean when he says someone is happy or angry or sad Davitz 1969 1      Everyday Conceptions of Emotion J.A. Russell, José-Miguel Fernández-Dols, Anthony S.R. Manstead, Jane C. Wellenkamp, 2013-06-29 In Everyday Conceptions of Emotion prominent anthropologists linguists and psychologists come together for the first time to discuss how emotions are conceptualised by people of different cultures and ages speaking different languages Anger fear jealousy and emotion itself are concepts that are bound up with the English language embedded in a way of thinking acting and speaking At the same time the metaphors underlying such concepts are often similar across languages and children of different cultures follow common developmental pathways The book thus discusses the interplay of social and cultural factors that humans share in their development of an understanding of the affective side of their lives For researchers interested in emotion development of concepts and language cultural and linguistic influences on psychological processes      Emotion and Cause Sophia Yat Mei Lee, 2018-11-23 This work argues that cause events being the most tangible component of emotion provide a rich dimension of how emotions should be classified While it is often claimed that emotional concepts cannot be defined this work views emotion as a response triggered by actual or perceived events specifically focusing on the interaction between five primary emotions Happiness Sadness Fear Anger and Surprise and cause events Cause events are examined in terms of two dimensions namely transitivity and epistemicity By incorporating the semantic and syntactic information of emotion cause events this representation of emotion not only provides deep linguistic criteria of emotion cause events but also offers an event based approach to emotion classification A text driven rule based system for detecting the causes of emotion is then developed to establish the validity of the proposed linguistic model for emotion detection and classification The system shows promising results

Cognitive Neuroscience of Emotion Richard D. Lane, Lynn Nadel, 2000 This book a member of the Series in Affective Science is a unique interdisciplinary sequence of articles on the cognitive neuroscience of emotion by some of the most well known researchers in the area It explores what is known about cognitive processes in emotion at the same time it reviews the processes and anatomical structures involved in emotion determining whether there is something about emotion and its neural substrates that requires they be studied as a separate domain Divided into four major focal points and presenting research that has been performed in the last decade this book covers the process of emotion generation the functions of amygdala the conscious experience of emotion and emotion regulation and dysregulation Collectively the chapters constitute a broad but selective survey of current knowledge about emotion and the brain and they all address the close association between cognitive and emotional processes By bringing together diverse strands of investigation with the aim of documenting current understanding of how emotion is instantiated in the brain this book will be of use to scientists researchers and advanced students of psychology and neuroscience

The Healing Power of Emotion Diana Fosha, Daniel J. Siegel, Marion F. Solomon, 2011-04-04 Drawing on cutting edge neuroscience to better understand emotion We are hardwired to connect with one another and we connect through our emotions Our brains bodies and minds are inseparable from the emotions that animate them Normal human development relies on the cultivation of relationships with others to form and nurture the self regulatory circuits that enable emotion to enrich rather than enslave our lives And just as emotionally traumatic events can tear apart the fabric of family and psyche the emotions can become powerful catalysts for the transformations that are at the heart of the healing process In this book the latest addition to the Norton Series on Interpersonal Neurobiology leading neuroscientists developmental psychologists therapy researchers and clinicians illuminate how to regulate emotion in a healthy way A variety of emotions both positive and negative are examined in detail drawing on both research and clinical observations The role of emotion in bodily regulation dyadic connection marital communication play well being health creativity and social engagement is explored The Healing Power of Emotion offers fresh exciting original and groundbreaking work from the leading figures studying and working with emotion today Contributors include Jaak Panksepp Stephen W Porges Colwyn Trevarthen Ed Tronick Allan N Schore Daniel J Siegel Diana Fosha Pat Ogden Marion F Solomon Susan Johnson and Dan Hughes

Characteristics and Recognizability of Vocal Expressions of Emotion Renée van Bezooijen, 2011-10-31 No detailed description available for Characteristics and Recognizability of Vocal Expressions of Emotion

Emotion and the Structure of Narrative Film Ed S. Tan, 2013-10-16 Introduced one hundred years ago film has since become part of our lives For the past century however the experience offered by fiction films has remained a mystery Questions such as why adult viewers cry and shiver and why they care at all about fictional characters while aware that they contemplate an entirely staged scene are still unresolved In addition it is unknown why spectators find some film experiences entertaining that have a clearly aversive nature outside the cinema These and other questions make the psychological status of emotions allegedly induced by the fiction film highly problematic Earlier attempts to answer these questions have been limited to a few genre studies In recent years film criticism and the theory of film structure have made use of psychoanalytic concepts which have proven insufficient in accounting for the diversity of film induced affect In contrast academic psychology during the century of its existence has made extensive study of emotional responses provoked by viewing fiction film but has taken the role of film as a natural stimulus completely for granted The present volume bridges the gap between critical theories of film on the one hand and recent psychological theory and research of human emotion on the other in an attempt to explain the emotions provoked by fiction film This book integrates insights on the narrative structure of fiction film including its themes plot structure and characters with recent knowledge on the cognitive processing of natural events and narrative and person information It develops a theoretical framework for systematically describing emotion in the film viewer The question whether or not film produces genuine emotion is answered by comparing affect in the viewer with emotion in the real world experienced by persons witnessing events that have personal significance to them Current understanding of the psychology of emotions provides the basis for identifying critical features of the fiction film that trigger the general emotion system Individual emotions are classified according to their position in the affect structure of a film a larger system of emotions produced by one particular film as a whole Along the way a series of problematic issues is dealt with notably the reality of the emotional stimulus in film the identification of the viewer with protagonists on screen and the necessity of the viewer's cooperation in arriving at a genuine emotion Finally it is argued that film produced emotions are genuine emotions in response to an artificial stimulus Film can be regarded as a fine tuned machine for a continuous stream of emotions that are entertaining after all The work paves the way for understanding and in principle predicting emotions in the film viewer using existing psychological instruments of investigation Dealing with the problems of film induced affect and rendering them accessible to formal modeling and experimental method serves a wider interest of understanding aesthetic emotion the feelings that man made products and especially works of art can evoke in the beholder     Emotion As Meaning Keith Opdahl, 2002-11 Emotion as Meaning offers a new model of the mind based upon a new understanding of emotion It resolves the debate between the imagists and the propositionalists by tracing the translation of language into vicarious experience showing that the mind represents the imagined world by means of not only image and idea but emotion     Language and Emotion. Volume 2 Gesine Lenore Schiewer, Jeanette Altarriba, Bee Chin Ng, 2022-11-07 The handbook Language and Emotion is intended to give a historical and systematic profile of the area It will aim to connect contemporary and historical theories approaches and applications and to cover eastern and western perspectives of language communication and emotion It will present all relevant aspects of language and emotion and thus contribute significantly to research in the field of linguistics and semiotics of emotion     The Science of the Emotions Bhagavān Dās, 1908
