Ellis, 1999-07-01 The study of communication language and discourse is at once simple elegant and complex Each of these areas is informed by micro subjective experiences of individuals and the macro processes of a culture Communication itself is thoroughly modern yet it seeks anchorage in the traditions of the humanities and social sciences All of this creates a significant challenge In this monograph Ellis considers the study of communication as he discusses three key issues in communication theory 1 the growing emphasis on meaning 2 the importance of a mediated culture and 3 the links between micro communication activities and macro social categories such as ethnicity and social class In response to these three issues this book deals with the way people use language and communication to construct their world this world is not constructed purely but is influenced by attitudes ideologies and biases In the modern world the medium of communication has an impact on consciousness and society and Ellis shows how the media are responsible for some of the fault lines in society The book also explores principles of medium theory and documents the impact of media on psychological and sociological phenomena Finally work of Goffman Giddens and Randall Collins is extended to show how micro communication behaviors are implicated in and by social conditions ADDITIONAL COPY FOR MAILER Expanded features The chapters work out a logic connecting real communication patterns with the broad principles upon which societies are explored Thus the title Crafting Society the crafting is purposefully active to indicate the dynamic processes involved in creating what we call society Society and culture have their roots and empirical bases in communication that is in the daily struggles of interaction Two chapters on two of the most important and controversial issues of the day ethnicity and class These two chapters are clear illustrations of the new theoretical principles discussed throughout the book A chapter on social class is very unique for a book devoted to communication processes Communication theorists do not usually write about class even though it is a highly symbolic process and rooted in communication patterns Class is a difficult concept in America since so few people other than sociologists care to talk about it A chapter on medium theory takes the bold step of experimenting a little by summarizing basic causal statements and propositions This device underscores the goal of a theory which is to come to grips with testable statements The focus is on medium theory and how the media influence consciousness and social structure A unique chapter takes up the issue of how communication processes are constitutive of social structures It draws on work by Giddens and others to return to a concept of structure based on actions that produce and reproduce structure

Exemplification in Communication Dolf Zillmann, Hans-Bernd Brosius, 2012-12-06 This volume offers a new conceptual framework for exemplification a coherent theoretical approach based on contemporary psychological models of information processing and an exhaustive integration of the pertinent research demonstrations Focus is on the news media but the influence of fiction and quasi fiction is also considered The informational competition between concrete verbal or pictorial exemplification and abstract mostly quantitative exposition is analyzed Implications for issue perception including delayed consequences are also examined Exemplification is subjected to conceptual scrutiny and a new theoretical framework is offered Contemporary psychological paradigms are applied to predict effects of various forms of exemplification Perhaps most important novel experimental research is presented to document the specific consequences of exemplifications featured in the news even of those featured in fiction Finally recommendations for information providers and recipients are derived from the research demonstration in order to advance media literacy specific to exemplification This unique volume provides a comprehensive account of the power of case report selection in the manipulation of perceptions of social issues addresses exemplification in communication i e the influence of case reports in the news media primarily on the perception of pertinent social issues offers an empirical assessment of the practice of issue exemplifying by the media gives an exhaustive account of representative research on exemplification effects on issue perception primarily by the news media but also by the entertainment media and includes a compilation of guidelines for information providers and recipients in efforts at creating media literacy with regard to exemplification
