Fooles And Fricassees

David B. Goldstein, Amy L. Tigner

Fooles And Fricassees:

Fooles and Fricassees Joan Thirsk, Folger Shakespeare Library, 1999 Contains a fascinating array of manuscript and printed materials documenting not only what people ate but where the food came from how it was grown preserved seasoned and served and what people believed about various foods benefits to their health Tasting Difference Gitanjali G. Shahani, 2020-05-15 Tasting Difference examines early modern discourses of racial cultural and religious difference that emerged in the wake of contact with foreign peoples and foreign foods from across the globe Gitanjali Shahani reimagines the contact zone between Western Europe and the global South in culinary terms emphasizing the gut rather than the gaze in colonial encounters From household manuals that instructed English housewives how to use newly imported foodstuffs to the spiced Indian air of A Midsummer Night's Dream from the repurposing of Othello as an early modern pitchman for coffee in ballads to the performance of disgust in travel narratives Shahani shows how early modern genres negotiated the allure and danger of foreign tastes Turning maxims such as We are what we eat on their head Shahani asks how did we the colonized subjects become what you the colonizing subjects eat How did we become alternately the object of fear and appetite loathing and craving Shahani takes us back several centuries to the process by which food came to be inscribed with racial character and the racial other came to be marked as edible showing how the racializing of food began in an era well before chicken tikka masala and Balti cuisine Bringing into conversation critical paradigms in early modern studies food studies and postcolonial studies she argues that it is in the writing on food and eating that we see among the earliest configurations of racial difference and it is experienced both as a different taste and as a taste of difference Taste Kate Colquhoun, 2012-05-01 From the Iron Age to the Industrial Revolution the Romans to the Regency few things have mirrored society or been affected by its upheavals as much as the food we eat and the way we prepare it In this involving history of the British people Kate Colquhoun celebrates every aspect of our cuisine from Anglo Saxon feasts and Tudor banquets through the skinning of eels and the invention of ice cream to Dickensian dinner party excess and the growth of frozen food Taste tells a story as rich and diverse as a five course dinner The Pleasures and Horrors of Eating Marion Gymnich, Norbert Lennartz, 2010 Browsing through books and TV channels we find people pre occupied with eating cooking and competing with chefs Eating and food in today's media have become a form of entertainment and art A survey of literary history and culture shows to what extent eating used to be closely related to all areas of human life to religion eroticism and even to death In this volume early modern ideas of feasting banqueting and culinary pleasures are juxtaposed with post 18th and 19th century concepts in which the intake of food is increasingly subjected to moral theological and economic reservations In a wide range of essays various images rhetorics and poetics of plenty are not only contrasted with the horrors of gluttony they are also seen in the context of modern phenomena such as the anorexic body or the gourmandizing la bête humaine It is this vexing binary approach to eating and food which this volume traces within a wide chronological framework and which is at the core not only of literature art and film but also of a flourishing popular culture

Genre and Women's Life Writing in Early Modern England Michelle M. Dowd, Julie A. Eckerle, 2016-04-15 By taking account of the ways in which early modern women made use of formal and generic structures to constitute themselves in writing the essays collected here interrogate the discursive contours of gendered identity in sixteenth and seventeenth century England The contributors explore how generic choice mixture and revision influence narrative constructions of the female self in early modern England Collectively they situate women's life writings within the broader textual culture of early modern England while maintaining a focus on the particular rhetorical devices and narrative structures that comprise individual texts Reconsidering women's life writing in light of recent critical trends most notably historical formalism this volume produces both new readings of early modern texts such as Margaret Cavendish's autobiography and the diary of Anne Clifford and a new understanding of the complex relationships between literary forms and early modern women's selves This volume engages with new critical methods to make innovative connections between canonical and non canonical writing in so doing it helps to shape the future of scholarship on early modern women

Culinary Shakespeare David B. Goldstein, Amy L. Tigner, 2016-05-30 Eating and drinking vital to all human beings were of central importance to Shakespeare and his contemporaries Culinary Shakespeare the first collection devoted solely to the study of food and drink in Shakespeare's plays reframes questions about cuisine eating and meals in early modern drama As a result Shakespearean scenes that have long been identified as important and influential by scholars can now be considered in terms of another revealing cultural marker that of culinary dynamics Renaissance scholars as David Goldstein and Amy Tigner point out have only begun to grapple with the importance of cuisine in literature An earlier generation of criticism concerned itself principally with cataloguing the foodstuffs in the plays Recent analyses have operated largely within debates about humoralism and dietary literature consumption and interiority working to historicize food in relation to the early modern body The essays in Culinary Shakespeare build upon that prior focus on individual bodily experience but also transcend it emphasizing the aesthetic communal and philosophical aspects of food while also presenting valuable theoretical background As various essays demonstrate many of the central issues in Shakespeare studies can be elucidated by turning our attention to the study of food and drink The societal and religious associations of drink for example or the economic implications of ingredients gathered from other lands have meaningful implications for our understanding of both early modern and contemporary periods including aspects of community politics local and global food production biopower and the state addiction performativity posthumanism and the relationship between art and food Culinary Shakespeare seeks to open new interpretive possibilities and will be of interest to scholars and students of Shakespeare and the early modern period as well as to those in food studies food history ecology gender and domesticity and critical theory

Ecocriticism and Early Modern English Literature Todd A. Borlik, 2011-05-11 In this timely new study Borlik reveals the surprisingly rich potential for the emergent green criticism to yield fresh insights into early modern English literature Deftly avoiding the anachronistic casting of sixteenth and seventeenth century authors as modern environmentalists he argues that environmental issues such as nature s personhood deforestation energy use air quality climate change and animal sentience are formative concerns in many early modern texts The readings infuse a new urgency in familiar works by Shakespeare Sidney Spenser Marlowe Raleigh Jonson Donne and Milton At the same time the book forecasts how ecocriticism will bolster the reputation of less canonical authors like Drayton Wroth Bruno Gascoigne and Cavendish Its chapters trace provocative affinities between topics such as Pythagorean ecology and the Gaia hypothesis Ovidian tropes and green phenomenology the disenchantment of Nature and the Little Ice Age and early modern pastoral poetry and modern environmental ethics It also examines the ecological onus of Renaissance poetics while showcasing how the Elizabethans sense of a sophisticated interplay between nature and art can provide a precedent for ecocriticism s current understanding of the relationship between nature and culture as mutually constructive Situating plays and poems alongside an eclectic array of secondary sources including herbals forestry laws husbandry manuals almanacs and philosophical treatises on politics and ethics Borlik demonstrates that Elizabethan and Jacobean authors were very much aware of and concerned about the impact of human beings on their natural surroundings

Shakespeare and Asia Jonathan Locke Hart, 2018-12-07 Shakespeare and Asia brings together innovative scholars from Asia or with Asian connections to explore these matters of East West and global contexts then and now The collection ranges from interpretations of Shakespeare's plays and his relations with other authors like Marlowe and Dickens through Shakespeare and history and ecology to studies of film opera or scholarship in Japan Russia India Pakistan Singapore Taiwan and mainland China The adaptations of Kozintsev and Kurosawa Bollywood adaptations of Shakespeare's plays different Shakespearean dramas and how they are interpreted adapted and represented for the local Pakistani audience the Peking opera adaptation of Hamlet Feng Xiogong's The Banquet as an adaptation of Hamlet the ideology of the film Shakespeare Wallah Asian adaptations of Hamlet will be at the heart of this volume Hamlet is also analyzed in light of Oedipus and the Sphinx Shakespeare is also considered as a historicist and in terms of what influence he has on Chinese writers and historical television Lear is Here and Cleopatra and Her Fools two adapted Shakespearean plays on the contemporary Taiwanese stage are also discussed This collection also examines in Shakespeare the patriarchal prerogative and notion of violence carnival and space in the comedies the exotic and strange and ecology The book is rich ranging and innovative and will contribute to Shakespeare studies Shakespeare and media and film Shakespeare and Asia and global Shakespeare Ecological Approaches to Early Modern English Texts Jennifer Munroe, Edward J. Geisweidt, 2016-03-09 Ecocriticism has steadily gained footing within the larger arena of early modern scholarship and with the publication of well over a dozen monographs essay collections and special journal issues literary studies looks increasingly green yet the field lacks a straightforward easy to use guide to do with reading and teaching early modern texts ecocritically Accessible yet comprehensive the cutting edge collection Ecological Approaches to Early Modern English Texts fills this gap Organized around the notion of contact zones or points of intersection that have often been constructed asymmetrically especially with regard to the human nonhuman dichotomy the volume reassesses current trends in ecocriticism and the Renaissance introduces analyses of neglected texts and authors brings ecocriticism into conversation with cognate fields and approaches e.g. queer theory feminism post coloniality food studies and offers a significant section on pedagogy ecocriticism and early modern literature Engaging points of tension and central interest in the field the collection is largely situated in the and/or that resides between presentism historicism materiality literary somatic semiotic nature culture and most importantly human nonhuman Ecological Approaches to Early Modern English Texts balances coverage and methodology its primary goal is to provide useful yet nuanced discussions of ecological approaches to reading and teaching a range of representative early modern texts As a whole the volume includes a diverse selection of chapters that engage the complex issues that arise when reading and teaching early modern texts from a green perspective Taste and Knowledge in Early Modern England Elizabeth L. Swann, 2020-10-15 Elizabeth Swann investigates the relationship between the physical sense of taste and taste as a figurative term associated with knowledge and judgment in early modern literature and culture She argues that unlike aesthetic taste in the eighteenth century discriminative taste was entwined with embodied experience in this period Although taste was tarnished by its associations with Adam and Eve's fall from Eden it also functioned positively as a source of useful and potentially redemptive literary spiritual experimental and intersubjective knowledge Taste and Knowledge in Early Modern England juxtaposes canonical literary works by authors such as Shakespeare with a broad range of medical polemical theological philosophical didactic and dietetic sources In doing so the book reveals the central importance of taste to the experience and articulation of key developments in the literate religious and social cultures of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries

An Empire Transformed Kate Luce Mulry, 2021-01-12 Examines the efforts to bring political order to the English empire through projects of environmental improvement When Charles II ascended the English throne in 1660 after two decades of civil war he was confronted with domestic disarray and a sprawling empire in chaos His government sought to assert control and affirm the King's sovereignty by touting his stewardship of both England's land and the improvement of his subjects' health By initiating ambitious projects of environmental engineering including fen and marshland drainage forest rehabilitation urban reconstruction and garden transplantation schemes agents of the English Restoration government aimed to transform both places and people in service of establishing order Merchants colonial officials and members of the Royal Society encouraged royal intervention in places deemed unhealthy unproductive or poorly managed Their multiple schemes reflected an enduring belief in the complex relationships between the health of individual bodies personal and communal character and the landscapes they inhabited In this deeply researched work Kate Mulry highlights a period of innovation during which officials reassessed the purpose of colonies weighed their benefits and drawbacks and engineered and instituted a range of activities in relation to subjects' bodies and material environments These wide-ranging actions offer insights about how restoration officials envisioned authority within a changing English empire An Empire Transformed is an interdisciplinary work addressing a series of interlocking issues concerning ideas about the environment governance and public health in the early modern English Atlantic empire
