Isolation and Aggregation in Economics Ekkehart Schlicht, 1985      Isolation and Aggregation in Economics Ekkehart Schlicht, 1985-07-01      Introduction to Development Economics Subrata Ghatak, 1995 Analyzes the major economic issues confronting less developed countries      Scaling in Integrated Assessment D.S. Rothman, J. Rotmans, 2005-08-09 A collection of papers prepared for the European Forum on Integrated Environmental Assessment s EFIEA Policy Workshop on Scaling Issues in Integrated Assessment held from 12 19 July 2000      Aggregation in Economic Research J. van Daal, A.H. Merckies, 2012-12-06 Our interest in problems of aggregation originates from about seven years ago when we became involved in research in the field of applied microeconomics To our astonishment a vast majority of researchers in this area took it for granted that their mostly thoroughly derived micro models could meaningfully be confronted with per capita data Many of them did not even realize at least they gave no utterance to it that applying macro data in micro models raises considerable problems Those who did mention the difficulty almost always belittled its importance Fortunately there are noteworthy exceptions Thinking about aggregation raises at least two questions Why or why not aggregate and How to aggregate and in particular to what degree General answers to these questions can only be given in uninformative wording as many assertions in economics one aggregates for the sake of tractability because of the lack of individual data to avoid or to reduce multicollinearity to save degrees of freedom one abstains from aggregation to avoid loss of information to avoid aggregation biases and one aggregates such and to such degree as to bypass or reduce the drawbacks mentioned above      Economic Evolution and Demographic Change Günter Haag, Ulrich Mueller, Klaus G. Troitzsch, 2012-12-06 The articles collected in this volume have two features in common they want to integrate economics demography and geography and they want to overcome the stationary approach in modelling in favour of a dynamic one The book is subdivided into three parts where Part I is focussing on economic evolution Part II on geographical development and Part III is related to demographic change The present volume aims at providing a new look at this triangle in view of the classical background of discussions by introducing new research ideas focussing in nonlinear dynamics and stochastic modelling Thus the main purpose of this book is to make a contribution to the interdisciplinary work needed to integrate the efforts between these three research fields and to serve as a research source in demonstrating the current state of art in dynamic modelling The book is addressed to social scientists in general and those in particular with a background in economics geographics and demographics It should also be of interest to mathematicians physicists and systems analysts interested in model building and applications of nonlinear dynamics      Journal of Institutional and Theoretical Economics , 1986      The Measurement of the Economic Benefits of Infrastructure Services Walter E. Diewert, 2012-12-06 This research was supported by the World Bank and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada Neither institution is responsible for the views expressed in this paper The author is indebted to V Corbo A Haymer Y Kanemoto K

Lee K Mera Hal Varian and A Walters for helpful comments and to Elizabeth Lambert Shehnaz Motani and Jeanette Leigh Paisley for excellent typing services I would like to dedicate this book to my wife Virginia

Development Economics John Knapp, 2018-02-06 Interest in the problems of underdeveloped economies has increased since the early 1950s and is now a primary topic in university courses When this book was originally published it reflected a sense among some economists that current orthodox economic theory is inadequate in this field The volume includes leading American and non American economists The discussion of the content of courses was in the nature of things an extension of the discussion on the state of knowledge and reflects the period immediately prior to initial publication Some of the issues continue to be debated including the balance of instruction between macro and micro economics the place of mathematics and econometrics the question of the desirability of linking the study of economics with studies in administration languages political science sociology or even engineering Development economics is now an established subject in the teaching curricula of most universities The attention of the volume is focused on the problems of creating courses of study in subjects relevant to development within some framework specially designed for the purpose The problems of organizing such courses concerned the length of courses the type of students to which they would cater the qualifications and standards required for admission and successful completion of courses and so on The balance of instruction between macro and micro economics the place of mathematics and econometrics the question of the desirability of linking the study of economics with studies in administration languages in connection with area studies political science sociology or even engineering the merits of methods like case studies workshops and training in field work are all discussed

Forecasting Aggregated Vector ARMA Processes Helmut Lütkepohl, 2012-12-06 This study is concerned with forecasting time series variables and the impact of the level of aggregation on the efficiency of the forecasts Since temporally and contemporaneously disaggregated data at various levels have become available for many countries regions and variables during the last decades the question which data and procedures to use for prediction has become increasingly important in recent years This study aims at pointing out some of the problems involved and at providing some suggestions how to proceed in particular situations Many of the results have been circulated as working papers some have been published as journal articles and some have been presented at conferences and in seminars I express my gratitude to all those who have commented on parts of this study They are too numerous to be listed here and many of them are anonymous referees and are therefore unknown to me Some early results related to the present study are contained in my monograph Prognose aggregierter Zeitreihen Lutkepohl 1986a which was essentially completed in 1983 The present study contains major extensions of that research and also summarizes the earlier results to the extent they are of interest in the context of this study

Interpreting Economic and Social Data Othmar W.
