

OUR FREEDOM

Once a tiny seed was planted
By some Pilgrim people.
They came to this land where there was
Neither church nor steeple.
There was neither field nor fence,
Nor fireplace glowing red.
There was not a single place
To rest a weary head.

But sturdy Pilgrims come
To plant this noble seed.
And staunchly did they linger though
So deep and sad their need.
The seed they planted reached the sky
A mighty springing tree!
We call this great growth Freedom -
And it's meant for you and me.

Childe Harold's Pilgrimage George Byron, 2024-05-23 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage is a poetic epic written by Lord Byron and published in four cantos between 1812 and 1818 It is considered one of the most influential works of the Romantic movement in literature as well as a defining piece of Byron's own literary legacy. The poem follows the travels and reflections of the titular character Childe Harold as he embarks on a journey through Europe and the Mediterranean. The poem is a narrative of the experiences and musings of a young and disillusioned nobleman Harold who is searching for meaning and purpose in life. The character is often seen as a representation of Byron himself as both were known for their rebellious and adventurous spirits. Through his travels, Harold encounters various landscapes, cultures, and historical sites which serve as a backdrop for his personal reflections on the world and his role in it. One of the key themes of Childe Harold's Pilgrimage is the juxtaposition of the beauty and grandeur of nature against the corruption and decay of human society. Throughout the poem, Byron often contrasts the pristine landscapes of nature with the ugly realities of war, oppression, and social inequality. He also reflects on the fleeting nature of life and the inevitability of death, which adds a sense of melancholy and nostalgia to the narrative. In addition to the themes of nature and mortality, the poem also explores the idea of individualism and free will. Harold is portrayed as a rebellious and independent character, constantly questioning societal norms and the expectations placed upon him as a member of the aristocracy. This theme of individualism is closely tied to the Romantic ideals of self-expression and the pursuit of personal freedom and happiness. Another significant aspect of Childe Harold's Pilgrimage is its use of vivid and evocative imagery, which showcases Byron's mastery of poetic language. The poem is filled with rich descriptions of landscapes, cultures, and historical events, all of which serve to transport the reader into Harold's world and make the narrative come alive. Furthermore, the poem also incorporates elements of autobiography, as Byron draws on his own experiences and emotions to create a deeply personal and introspective work. This adds an intimate and confessional quality to the poem, making it a reflection of Byron's own struggles, passions, and beliefs. In conclusion, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage is a timeless masterpiece that continues to captivate readers with its exploration of universal themes and its lyrical beauty. It remains a significant work in the canon of English literature, not only for its artistic merit but also for its influence on future generations of poets and writers.

Experience on the Edge: Theorizing Liminality Brady

Wagoner, Tania Zittoun, 2021-10-19. Liminality has become a key concept within the social sciences, with a growing number of publications devoted to it in recent years. The concept is needed to address those aspects of human experience and social life that fall outside of ordered structures. In contrast to the clearly defined roles and routines that define so much of industrial work and economic life, it highlights spaces of transition, indefiniteness, ambiguity, play, and creativity. Thus, it is an indispensable concept and a necessary counterweight to the overemphasis on structural influences on human behavior. This book aims to use the concept of liminality to develop a culturally and experientially sensitive psychology. This is accomplished by first setting out an original theoretical framework focused on understanding the liminal sources of cultural experience and second, an application of the concept to a number of different domains, such as tourism, pilgrimage, aesthetics, children's play, art therapy, and medical diagnosis. Finally, all these domains are then brought together in a concluding commentary chapter that puts them in relation to an overarching theoretical framework This book will be useful for graduate students and researchers in cultural psychology critical psychology psychosocial psychology developmental psychology health psychology anthropology and the social sciences cultural studies among others Landscapes of Pilgrimage in Medieval Britain Martin

Chaucer and the Imagery of Narrative V. A. Kolve, 1984 A Stanford University Press classic Transmitting and Circulating the Late Antique and Byzantine Worlds, 2019-10-29 Transmitting and Circulating the Late Antique and Byzantine Worlds seeks to be a crucial contribution to the history of medieval connectedness Using one of the methodological tools associated with the global history movement this volume aims to use connectedness to revitalise local and regional networks of exchange and movement. Its case studies collectively point caution toward assuming or asserting global scale transmission of meaning or items unchanged and show instead how meaning is locally produced and regionally formulated and how this is no less dynamic than any global level connectedness. These case studies by early career scholars range from the movement of cotton growing practices to the transmission of information within individual texts. Their wide scope however is nonetheless united by their preoccupation with transmission and circulation as categories of analysing or explaining movement and change in history. This volume hopes to be therefore a useful contribution to the growing field of a history of connectivity and connectedness. Contributors are Jovana Anelković, Peter Bara, Mathew Barber, Julia Burdajewicz, Adele Curness, Carl Dixon, Alex MacFarlane, Anna Kelley, Matteo G. Randazzo, Katinka Sewing and Grace Stafford.
