Institution and Interpretation Samuel Weber, 1987 This book investigates the forces that shape and limit interpretive practices Weber suggests that institutions are never entirely free of the necessity of consolidating their authority through an ambivalent process of reinstituting themselves a process in which interpretation plays a crucial role Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites Kristin L. Gallas, James DeWolf Perry, 2014-12-23 Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites aims to move the field forward in its collective conversation about the interpretation of slavery acknowledging the criticism of the past and acting in the present to develop an inclusive interpretation of slavery Presenting the history of slavery in a comprehensive and conscientious manner is difficult and requires diligence and compassion for the history itself for those telling the story and for those hearing the stories but it is a necessary part of our collective narrative about our past present and future This book features best practices for Interpreting slavery across the country and for many people The history of slavery while traditionally interpreted primarily on southern plantations is increasingly recognized as relevant at historic sites across the nation It is also more than just an African American European American story it is relevant to the history of citizens of Latino Caribbean African and indigenous descent as well It is also pertinent to those descended from immigrants who arrived after slavery whose stories are deeply intertwined with the legacy of slavery and its aftermath Developing support within an institution for the interpretation of slavery Many institutions are reticent to approach such a potentially volatile subject so this book examines how proponents at several sites including Monticello and Mount Vernon were able to make a strong case to their constituents Training interpreters in not only a depth of knowledge of the subject but also the confidence to speak on this controversial issue in public and the compassion to handle such a sensitive historical issue The book will be accessible and of interest for professionals at all levels in the public history field as well as students at the undergraduate and graduate levels in museum studies and public history programs The Institutional Dictionary of Astronism Cometan, 2021-03-21 The Institutional Dictionary of Astronism is the cumulation of receptions between Cometan and the astronomical world during the Founding era 2013 2021 The publication of this very first full length Institutional Dictionary of Astronism represents eight years of the development of Astronism from its inception to how it stands today in 2021 The publication of this dictionary also encapsulates Astronism exactly as it exists now and how Cometan conceives it by the end of the Founding era This dictionary and its contents capture what Astronism is now for posterity to look back on how this astronomical belief system will change as time progresses Many of the words and definitions of this dictionary will alter as we enter the Establishment era and Astronism continues its progression in becoming world religion However what will not ever change is Cometan's absolute devotion to the stars of the night sky and his discovery of their secrets through his receptions personal inspirations and his overall relationship with The Great Cosmos Covering all the major Astronist beliefs practices cultural elements theories branches of study and historical events A Dictionary of Astronism also known as the Institutional Dictionary of Astronism is published by the Astronist Institution through its subsidiary Astral Publishing to commemorate the end of the era of The Founding of Astronism The Founding of Astronism began exactly eight years on 1st July 2013 which sparked Cometan's ideations and inducements and which afforded him the insight, knowledge and vision to found a new religious movement, philosophy, spirituality and political ideology. interaction in environmental governance Peter Narh, 2015-06-08 In this work the attempt is made to explore and understand the interaction between different institutions in environmental governance and the role of human livelihood strategies in this interaction. With a case study of teak farming and sand winning in the Dormaa Municipality and Dormaa East district in midwestern Ghana, the work seeks to contribute to understanding the dynamics and role of institutions and human behaviour relationship in environmental governance. The study has been formulated and conducted following some observations of interaction between statutory and customary institutions in regulating human activities on the natural environment in Dormaa. Prior to this study, observations of this author in some communities in the Dormaa Municipality and Dormaa East district showed that statutory and customary environmental governance institutions influenced each other to shape the ways different people acted on the natural environment. Moreover, it was observed that the actions of people in turn influenced how these institutions functioned and affected each other. Interpreting African American History and Culture at Museums and Historic Sites Max A. van Balgooy, 2014-12-24 In this landmark guide, nearly two dozen essays by scholars, educators and museum leaders suggest the next steps in the interpretation of African American history and culture from the colonial period to the twentieth century at history museums and historic sites. This diverse anthology addresses both historical research and interpretive methodologies including investigating church and legal records using social media, navigating sensitive or difficult topics, preserving historic places, engaging students and communities and strengthening connections between local and national history. Case studies of exhibitions, tours and school programs from around the country provide practical inspiration including photographs of projects and examples of exhibit label text. Highlights include Amanda Seymour discusses the prevalence of false nostalgia at the homes of the first five presidents and offers practical solutions to create a more inclusive, nuanced history. Dr. Bernard Powers reveals that African American church records are a rich but often overlooked source for developing a more complete portrayal of individuals and communities. Dr

David Young executive director of Cliveden uses his experience in reinterpreting this National Historic Landmark to identify four ways that people respond to a history that has been too often untold ignored or appropriated and how museums and historic sites can constructively respond Dr Matthew Pinsker explains that historic sites may be missing a huge opportunity in telling the story of freedom and emancipation by focusing on the underground railroad rather than its much bigger upper ground counterpart Martha Katz Hyman tackles the challenges of interpreting the material culture of both enslaved and free African Americans in the years before the Civil War by discussing the furnishing of period rooms Dr Benjamin Filene describes three micro public history projects that lead to new ways of understanding the past handling source limitations building partnerships and reaching audiences Andrea Jones shares her approach for engaging students through historical simulations based on the Fight for Your Rights school program at the Atlanta History Center A exhibit on African American Vietnam War veterans at the Heinz History Center not only linked local and international events but became an award winning model of civic engagement A collaboration between a university and museum that began as a local history project interpreting the Scottsboro Boys Trial as a website and brochure ended up changing Alabama law A list of national organizations and an extensive bibliography on the interpretation of African American history provide convenient gateways to additional resources

Jacques Derrida's Cambridge Affair Niall Gildea, 2019-11-20 What is philosophy A question often asked but usually in an abstract or speculative way Rarely do we find a case of philosophy being determined in the real world However at Cambridge in 1992 this is exactly what happened as a debate took place over the merits or otherwise of awarding an Honorary Doctorate of Letters to the philosopher Jacques Derrida Derrida's supporters argued that his deconstruction of Western traditions of thinking ushered in an important new manner of doing philosophy his detractors dismissed his work as charlatanism philistinism and non philosophy As arguments raged over the validity of introducing the canon of Continental philosophy to the Humanities in British Higher Education the so called Theory Wars Derrida's Cambridge Affair focalized this decisive conflict more than anything else This is the first study of the Cambridge Affair Drawing upon archival and unpublished material little known texts pertaining to the Affair and Derrida's own oeuvre this original account offers an historical and philosophical reconstruction of this crucial debate evaluating it against the body of work it put on trial

Deference in International Commercial Arbitration Franco Ferrari, Friedrich

Rosenfeld, 2023-05-12 In international arbitration deference entails that one decision maker does not make an autonomous assessment but limits its decision making power out of respect for the decision or authority of another actor For example a court exercising post award review might refrain from reviewing a question of procedure de novo but instead defer to a prior determination made by the arbitral tribunal In this book prominent arbitration practitioners and academics offer the first systematic analysis of such deference in international arbitration With abundant reference to case law from major arbitration hubs the analysis is organized around the three relationships in which questions of deference arise public private relationships in which a State actor e g a court must decide whether it should pay deference to determinations made by a private actor e g a tribunal or an arbitral institution public public relationships in which a State actor e g a court at the place of recognition and enforcement must decide whether it should pay deference to another State actor e g a court at the seat and private private relationships in which a private actor e g an arbitral tribunal must decide whether it should pay deference to another private actor e g another arbitral tribunal or an arbitral institution The book makes an important contribution to tracing the boundaries of the multiple layers of control over arbitration proceedings It takes a giant step towards establishing the right equilibrium between the different layers of authority and thus meeting a pivotal challenge for the viability of arbitration as a form of dispute resolution International Commercial Arbitration Gary B.
