Postgate, 2012-12-06 Understanding of biological nitrogen fixation has advanced with impressive rapidity during the last decade As befits a developing area of Science these advances have uncovered information and raised questions which will have and indeed have had repercussions in numerous other branches of science and its applications This information explosion to use one of today's cant idioms was initiated by the discovery by a group of scientists working in the Central Research laboratories of Dupont de Nemours U S A of a reproducibly active cell free enzyme preparation from a nitrogen fixing bacterium Full credit is due to them But subsequent developments albeit sometimes quite as impressive have too often been marked by that familiar disorder of a developing field of research the scramble to publish It is a scramble which at its best may represent a laudable desire to inform colleagues of the latest developments yet which too easily develops into an undignified rush for priority wherewith to impress one's Board of Directors or Grant giving Institution This in miniature is the tragedy of scientific research to day desire for credit causes research to be published in little bulletins notes and preliminary communications so that only those intimately involved in the field really know what is happening and even they may well not see the forest for the trees Those outside the field or working in peripheral areas may glean something of what is going on from reviews and fragments presented at meetings but the broad pattern of development is often elusive Journal of the

The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a exceptional and thrilling novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
