Alain Finkelkraut

Future Of A Negation:

The Future of a Negation Alain Finkielkraut, 1998-01-01 The Future of a Negation is a crucial statement on the Holocaust and on Holocaust denial from Alain Finkielkraut one of the most acclaimed and influential intellectuals in contemporary Europe The book examines the Holocaust its origins in modern European thought and politics and recent revisionist attempts to deny its full dimensions and in some cases its very existence as historical fact Finkielkraut's central topic is the impulse toward negation of the Nazi horrors the arguments made by many people of varying political orientations that the gas chambers are a hoax or in any case an unverifiable rumor In addition Finkielkraut looks at other instances of twentieth century mass murder and at arguments made by contemporary politicians and intellectuals that similarly deny the full extent of these other atrocities An original fearless book The Future of a Negation is an essential contribution to our understanding of the Holocaust and of genocidal politics and thought in our century important new theory of human action a theory that assumes actions are founded on choices made by agents who face an open future It is a theory that makes indeterminism not only intelligible but illuminating Tools from philosophy of language and philosophical logic help generate a full scale account of agents seeing to it that The authors then proceed to clarify a variety of action related topics such as determinism vs indeterminism imperatives promises strategies joint agency could have done otherwise deontic constructions and assertions about a not yet settled future The Future of Hegel Catherine Malabou, 2005 Published in English for the first time this is one of the most important recent books on Hegel Seeking to restore Hegel's concepts of time and temporality it is essential reading for those interested in contemporary continental philosophy The Semantics of Clause Linking R. M. W. Dixon, Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, 2009-08-06 This book is a cross linguistic examination of the grammatical means languages employ to represent a set of semantic relations between clauses Professor Dixon's opening discussion is followed by fourteen case studies of languages ranging from Korean and Kham to Iqito and Ojibwe The book's concluding synthesis is provided by Professor Aikhenvald The Manambu Language of East Sepik, Papua New Guinea Alexandra Aikhenvald, 2010-06-17 This book is the first comprehensive description of the Manambu language of Papua New Guinea and is based entirely on the author's immersion fieldwork Manambu belongs to the Ndu language family and is spoken by about 2 500 people in five villages Avatip Yawabak Malu Apa n and Yambon Yuanab in East Sepik Province Ambunti district Manambu can be considered an endangered language The Manambu language has many unusual properties Every noun is considered masculine or feminine Feminine gender which is unmarked is associated with small size and round shape and masculine gender with elongated shape large size and importance The Manambu culture is centered on ownership of personal names and is similar to that of the Iatmul described by Gregory Bateson After an introductory account of the language and its speakers Professor Aikhenvald devotes chapters to phonology grammatical relations word classes gender semantics number case possession derivation and compounding pronouns morphohology verbs mood and modality negation clause structure pragmatics discourse semantics the lexicon current directions of change and genetic relationship to other languages The description is presented in a clear style in a framework that will be comprehensible to all linguists and linguistically oriented anthropologists Language Contact in Amazonia Aleksandra IľUľr'evna Aikhenval'd, 2002 This book considers how forms and meanings of different languages at different times may resemble one another and what the explanation is for this The author aims a to explain and identify the relationship between areal diffusion and the genetic development of languages and b to discover the means of distinguishing what may cause one language to share the characteristics of another This is done using the example of Arawak and Tucanoan languages spoken in the large area of the Vaup's river basin in northwest Amazonia which spans Colombia and Brazil In this region language is seen as a badge of identity language mixing interaction and influence are resisted for ideological reasons Professor Aikhenvald considers which grammatical categories are most and which are least likely to be borrowed in a situation of prolonged language contact where lexical borrowing is reduced to a minimum She provides a genetic analysis of the languages of the region and considers their historical relationships with languages of the same family outside it. She also examines changes brought about by recent contact with European languages and culture and the linguistic and cultural effects of being part of a group that is aware its language and identity are threatened. The book is presented in relatively nontechnical language and will interest linguists and anthropologists.

A grammar of Gyeli Nadine Grimm, 2021. This grammar offers a grammatical description of the Ngo lo variety of Gyeli, an endangered Bantu A80 language spoken by 4 000 5 000 Pygmy hunter gatherers in southern Cameroon. It represents one of the most comprehensive descriptions of a northwestern Bantu language. The grammatical description, which is couched in a form-to-function approach, covers all levels of language ranging from Gyeli phonology to its information structure and complex clauses. It draws on nineteen months of fieldwork carried out as part of the Bagyeli Bakola DoBeS Documentation of Endangered Languages project between 2010 and 2014. The resulting multimodal corpus from that project, which includes texts of diverse genres such as traditional stories, narratives, multi-party conversations and dialogues, procedural texts and songs, provides the empirical basis for the grammatical description. The documentary text collection, supplemented by data from elicitation work, questionnaires and experiments, are accessible in the Bagyeli Bakola collection of The Language Archive. With additional ethnographic, sociolinguistic, diachronic and comparative remarks, the grammar may appeal to a wider audience in general linguistics, typology, Bantu studies and anthropology. In 2019, the grammar received the Pini Award by the Association for Linguistic Typology.

The Negative Existential Cycle Ljuba Veselinova, Arja Hamari, 2022-12-20. In 1991, William Croft suggested that negative existentials, typically lexical expressions that mean 'not exist', 'not have', are one possible source for negation markers and gave his hypothesis the name Negative Existential Cycle (NEC). It is a variationist model based on cross-linguistic data. For a good twenty years following its formulation, it was cited at face value without ever having been tested by historical comparative data. Over the last decade, Ljuba Veselinova has worked on testing the model in a comparative perspective, and this edited volume further expands on her work. The collection presented here features detailed studies of several language families such as Bantu, Chadic and Indo-European. A number of articles focus on the micro-variation and attested historical developments within smaller groups and clusters such as Arabic, Mandarin and Cantonese and Nanaic. Finally, variation and historical developments in specific languages are discussed for Ancient Hebrew, Ancient Egyptian, Moksha, Mordvin, Uralic, Bashkir, Turkic, Kalmyk, Mongolic, three Pama-Nyungan languages, Odam, Southern Uto-Aztecan and Tacana, Takanan, Amazonian Bolivia. The book is concluded by two chapters devoted to modeling cyclical processes in language change from different theoretical perspectives. Key notions discussed throughout the book include affirmative and negative existential constructions, the expansion of the latter into verbal negation and subsequently from more specific to more general markers of negation. Nominalizations as well as the uses of negative existentials as standalone negative answers figure among the most frequent pathways whereby negative existentials evolve as general negation markers. The operation of the Negative

Existential Cycle appears partly genealogically conditioned as the cycle is found to iterate regularly within some families but never starts in others as is the case in Bantu In addition other special negation markers such as nominal negators are found to undergo similar processes i e they expand into the verbal domain and thereby develop into more general negation markers The book provides rich information on a specific path of the evolution of negation on cyclical processes in language change and it show cases the historical comparative method in a modern setting Morphologie G. E. Booij,Christian

Lehmann,Joachim Mugdan,2000 This series of HANDBOOKS OF LINGUISTICS AND COMMUNICATION SCIENCE is designed to illuminate a field which not only includes general linguistics and the study of linguistics as applied to specific languages but also covers those more recent areas which have developed from the increasing body of research into the manifold forms of communicative action and interaction For classic linguistics there appears to be a need for a review of the state of the art which will provide a reference base for the rapid advances in research undertaken from a variety of theoretical standpoints while in the more recent branches of communication science the handbooks will give researchers both an verview and orientation To attain these objectives the series will aim for a standard comparable to that of the leading handbooks in other disciplines and to this end will strive for comprehensiveness theoretical explicitness reliable documentation of data and findings and up to date methodology The editors both of the series and of the individual volumes and the individual contributors are committed to this aim The languages of publication are English German and French The main aim of the series is to provide an appropriate account of the state of the art in the various areas of linguistics and communication science covered by each of the various handbooks however no inflexible pre set limits will be imposed on the scope of each volume The series is open ended and can thus take account of further developments in the field This conception coupled with the necessity of allowing adequate time for each volume to be prepared with the necessary care means that there is no set time table for the publication of the whole series Each volume will be a self contained work complete in itself The order in which the handbooks are published does not imply any rank ordering but is determined by the way in which the series is organized the editor of the whole series enlist a competent editor for each individual volume Once the principal editor for a volume has been found he or she then has a completely free hand in the choice of co editors and contributors The editors plan each volume independently of the others being governed only by general formal principles The series editor only intervene where questions of delineation between individual volumes are concerned It is felt that this modus operandi is best suited to achieving the objectives of the series namely to give a competent account of the present state of knowledge and of the perception of the problems in the area covered by each volume A Grammar of the

Seneca Language Wallace L. Chafe,2015 The Seneca language belongs to the Northern Iroquoian branch of the Iroquoian language family where its closest relatives are Cayuga Onondaga Oneida Mohawk and Tuscarora Seneca holds special typological interest because of its high degree of polysynthesis and fusion It is historically important because of its central role in the Longhouse religion and its place in the pioneering linguistic work of the 19th century missionary Asher Wright This grammatical description which includes four extended texts in several genres is the culmination of Chafe's long term study of the language over half a century
