Walking with Ghosts Gabriel Byrne, 2021-01-12 A masterpiece poetic moving and very funny find it on the shelf alongside other great Irish memoirs including those by Frank McCourt Nuala O Faolain and Edna O'Brien Colum McCann As a young boy growing up in the outskirts of Dublin Gabriel Byrne sought refuge in a world of imagination among the fields and hills near his home at the edge of a rapidly encroaching city Born to working class parents and the eldest of six children he harbored a childhood desire to become a priest When he was eleven years old Byrne found himself crossing the Irish Sea to join a seminary in England Four years later Byrne had been expelled and he quickly returned to his native city There he took odd jobs as a messenger boy and factory laborer to get by In his spare time he visited the cinema where he could be alone and yet part of a crowd It was here that he could begin to imagine a life beyond the grey world of 1960s Ireland In this memoir he revels in the theater and poetry of Dublin's streets populated by characters as eccentric and remarkable as any in fiction and recounts his decision to join an amateur theater group a decision that would change his life forever Moving between sensual recollection of childhood in a now almost vanished Ireland and reflections on stardom in Hollywood and on Broadway Byrne also courageously recounts his battle with addiction and the ambivalence of fame Byrne writes with much more depth than the typical celebrity memoirist accessing some of Heaney's earthiness and Joyce's grasp of how Catholic guilt can shape an artist a winning dry humor that reads as authentically humble Kirkus Reviews starred review A gripping memoir that is anything but typical Hollywood evokes a beautiful sense of nostalgia melancholy and vulnerability Winnipeg Free Press A real writer a born storyteller The Washington Post A dreamy book He writes passionately about his first love and hilariously about his early fame as an actor Irish Times Stories and Memories, Memories and Histories, 2024-12-16 This edited volume brings together authors from a wide variety of disciplines in the social sciences and humanities A historian first investigates understudied samizdat literature a film critic then analyzes Balkan cinema via psychoanalysis a psychologist examines contemporary European border policies and a political scientist analyzes the Confederate memorial debate Philosophers consider the space of those memorials ethno national narratives in India the Anthropocene and the mind's historical imaginary and the notion of home Literary critics examine recent developments in modes of storytelling and images of Orientalism What emerges is a new understanding of history memory and time In re Martin (Martin v.
