Food Composition Data William M. Rand, 1987 Report of a conference held in Logan Utah USA 26-29 March 1985

International Food Data Bases and Information Exchange A. P. Simopoulos, R. R. Butrum, 1992-03-16

Food Composition Data H. Greenfield, 2013-03-09 About twenty years ago there was a recognition in Europe that real benefits would flow from coordinating the manner in which food composition tables were produced in the various countries of Europe. Subsequent development of computerised nutritional data bases has further highlighted the potential advantages of working together. Such cooperation could lead to improved quality and compatibility of the various European nutrient data bases and the values within them. This realisation was one of the driving forces behind the development of the Eurofoods initiative in the 1980s when those people in Europe interested in data on food composition began working together. This initiative received further impetus with the establishment of the Eurofoods Infant Concerted Action Project within the framework of the FLAIR Food Linked Agro Industrial Research Programme of the Commission of the European Communities. It was quickly recognised that the draft guidelines for the production, management and use of food composition data which had been prepared under the aegis of INFOODS International Network of Food Data Systems, a project of the United Nations University, would be especially applicable to the objectives of the Concerted Action. The guidelines have been written by two recognised experts. Many people associated with FLAIR Eurofoods Infant have added constructive criticism and advice to that offered previously by those associated with INFOODS. Thus the guidelines are backed by a consensus in the community of those responsible for the production and use of food composition tables and nutrient data bases.

Food Composition Data Heather Greenfield, D. A. T. Southgate, 2003-01-01 The second edition of this publication contains a set of guidelines on data compilation, dissemination and use in the analysis of food which seeks to highlight how to obtain quality data that meet the varied requirements of food composition database users. These guidelines draw on experience gained in countries where food composition programmes have been active for many years. It will be of relevance to professionals in health and agriculture, research, policy development, food regulation and safety, food product development, clinical practice and epidemiology.

Design Concepts in Nutritional Epidemiology Michael Nelson, 1997 In examining the relationship between nutritional exposure and disease aetiology, the importance of a carefully considered experimental design cannot be overstated. A sound experimental design involves the formulation of a clear research hypothesis and the identification of appropriate measures of exposure and outcome. It is essential that these variables can be measured with a minimum of error whilst taking into account the effects of chance and bias and being aware of the risk of confounding variables. The first edition of Design Concepts in Nutritional Epidemiology presented a thorough guide to research methods in nutritional epidemiology. Since publication of the 1st edition we now have a much better understanding of the characteristics of nutritional exposure that need to be measured in order to answer questions about diet disease relationships The 2nd edition has been extensively revised to include the most up to date methods of researching this relationship Included are new chapters on qualitative and sociological measures anthropometric measures gene nutrient interactions and cross sectional studies Design Concepts in Nutritional Epidemiology will be an essential text for nutritionists and epidemiologists helping them in their quest to improve the quality of information upon which important public health decisions are made World Review of Nutrition and Dietetics Geoffrey Howard Bourne,1992 Encyclopedia of Human Nutrition Lindsay Allen,Andrew Prentice,2005-07-20 Encyclopedia of Human Nutrition Second Edition is a thorough revision and 20% expansion of the 1998 release reflecting the continuing scientific advances in the field of human nutrition Now a four volume set nearly 300 articles with concise up to date information are complemented by an award winning indexing system Included is expanded coverage of epidemiology of diet related diseases functional foods food safety clinical nutrition and gastrointestinal disorders Virtually everyone will find the Encyclopedia of Human Nutrition an easy to use resource making it an ideal reference choice for both the professional and the non professional alike Also available online via ScienceDirect featuring extensive browsing searching and internal cross referencing between articles in the work plus dynamic linking to journal articles and abstract databases making navigation flexible and easy For more information pricing options and availability visit www.info.sciencedirect.com FEATURES OF SECOND PRINT EDITION Now a four volume set with over 250 articles Expanded coverage of epidemiology of diet related diseases functional foods food safety and gastrointestinal disorders among other topics ONLINE FEATURES AND FUNCTIONALITIES Browse the whole work by volume authors or article titles Full and extensive subject index can be searched or browsed online and takes you directly to the indexed paragraph section figure or table Basic and advanced search functionality across the entire work or by specific volume Users can build save and re run searches as well as combine saved searches Extensive internal cross referencing and dynamic linking from bibliographic references to primary source material increasing the scope of your research rapidly and effectively All articles available as full text HTML files or as PDF files that can be viewed downloaded or printed in their original format United Nations Publications Catalogue ,1990
