Rampley,2012 Essays looking at heritage practices and the construction of the past along with how they can be used to build a national identity The preservation of architectural monuments has played a key role in the formation of national identities from the nineteenth century to the present The task of maintaining the collective memories and ideas of a shared heritage often focused on the historic built environment as the most visible sign of a link with the past The meaning of such monuments and sites has however often been the subject of keen dispute whose heritage is being commemorated by whom and for whom The answers to such questions are not always straightforward particularly in Central and Eastern Europe the recent history of which has been characterized by territorial disputes the large scale movement of peoples and cultural dispossession This volume considers the dilemmas presented by the recent and complex histories of European states such as Germany Greece Poland Hungary Romania and Bulgaria Examining the effect of the destruction of buildings by war the loss of territories or the unwanted built heritage of the Communist and Nazi regimes the contributors examine how architectural and urban sites have been created destroyed or transformed in the attempt to make visible a national heritage Matthew Rampley is Professor of History of Art at the University of Birmingham Contributors Matthew Rampley Juliet Kinchin Paul Stirton Susanne Jaeger Arnold Bartetzky Jacek Friedrich Tania Vladova George Karatzas Riitta Oittinen Fate's Warriors Trilogy J.C.
