Educating Young Handicapped Children S. Gray Garwood, Paul Alberto, 1979-01-01 Educating Young Handicapped Children S. Gray Garwood, 1983 Assessment of Young Developmentally Disabled Children Theodore D. Wachs, Robert Sheehan, 2013-06-29 Our knowledge of the cognitive and social emotional functioning of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers derives in large part from our assessment of such children This book has been developed to familiarize readers with the characteristics of developmentally disabled children and to introduce to readers aspects of measurement that are of relevance to the assessment of atypical infants and preschoolers The book has been developed with clinicians and prospective clinicians in mind These are individuals who are committed to the care and education of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers and the families of those children The book has thus been written to provide support for the use of assessment data in planning early intervention programs Of special note in the development of this edited book is that it is divided into four major parts with interrelated chapters in each part The authors of chapters in Parts II and III had access to the chapters in Part I before writing their chapters The summary chapters found in Part IV were similarly written by authors having access to all chapters in Parts I III This approach to the development of an edited book was chosen as a way of ensuring an integration of major concepts throughout the book This process is also a reflection of our belief that assessment is an interdisciplinary process involving the synthesis of a number of diverse interests

National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1985 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1985 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Language Development and Social Interaction in Blind Children Miguel Perez Pereira, Gina Conti-Ramsden, 2019-12-09 The Classic Edition of this foundational text includes a new preface from Miguel Perez Pereira examining how the field has developed since first publication The volume provides an in depth account of blind children s developing communicative abilities with particular emphasis on social cognition and language acquisition from infancy to early school age It provides insights into why the development of blind children may differ from that of sighted children and explores development of theory of mind and perspective taking in language learning It also discusses the caregiver child interaction research on early intervention and practical strategies for blind children that can assist parents and practitioners The up to date preface discusses recent neurological research and the comparison between the psychological development of visually impaired and autistic children Language Development and Social Interaction in Blind Children continues to facilitate dialogue between those interested in the study of typically developing children and those interested in the development of children who are blind and challenges some widely held beliefs about the development of communication in blind children Developmental Visual Dysfunction Rhoda P. Erhardt, MS, OTR/L, FAOTA, 1990-11-05 This book follows 3 case studies of children with cerebral palsy mild moderate and severe from infancy to adulthood Traditional frames of reference from medical educational and developmental models are presented to create a functional approach to the assessment and management of the motor components of vision. The wire coil bound edition of 210 pages contains 134 photographs and illustrations which help to clarify normal and atypical development of vision and suggest ways to integrate intervention programs into home school and community activities.

Research Methods in

Language and Education Nancy H. Hornberger, David Corson, 1997 This volume seeks to enable language and education practitioners and researchers to get a sense of the range of issues being pursued in language and education research and the array of methods employed to do so. It focuses on language and education in relation to society, variation, culture and interaction. Its unity of purpose and outlook with regard to the central role of language as both vehicle and mediator of educational processes and to the need for continued and deepening research into the limits and possibilities that implies is most impressive.

Encyclopedia of Early Childhood Education Doris Pronin Fromberg, Leslie R. Williams, 2012-05-23

This Encyclopedia is a reference work about young children in the USA designed for use by policy makers, community planners, parents of young children, teachers and early childhood educators, programme and school administrators among others. The field of early childhood education has been affected by changes taking place in the nation's economy, demographics, schools, communities and families that influence political and professional decisions. These diverse historical, political, economic, socio-cultural, intellectual and educational influences on early childhood education have hindered the development of a clear definition of the field. The Encyclopedia provides an opportunity to define the field against the background of these influences and relates the field of early childhood education to its diverse contexts and to the cultural and technological resources currently affecting it.

Theory and Research William E. MacLean Jr., 2012-12-06 In the 16 years since the publication of the second edition of this volume, psychological theory and research in mental retardation has continued to expand and extend scientific theoretical and clinical understanding of this most complex and challenging human condition Explicit effort has been made to translate theory and research into useful and efficacious assessment intervention prevention and policy actions This third edition provides an opportunity to critique major conceptual developments and empirical research in an effort to stimulate further behavioral research of practical social importance The Handbook presents work by prominent contributors to a major scientific endeavor that has grown dramatically during the last three decades The challenge for each author was to identify important theoretical and empirical issues provide a critical selective review of exemplary research and discuss the questions that remain unanswered in each area In short the goal for this third edition was to consolidate the knowledge gained during the past 30 years and to present a blueprint for future research in mental retardation the broader field of learning disabilities and other developmental disorders such as autism Providing totally different coverage and direction from the previous edition this text fills a crucial instructional need in graduate courses related to the psychology of mental retardation With its emphasis on psychological research and theory it offers an important alternative to many available texts that primarily emphasize the application of research

Cognitive Approaches in Special Education David A. Sugden, 1989 The central message of Sugden's book is that work in special education should be interactive in nature A child approaching a learning situation brings cognition and strategies and these should be used in enabling the child to be actively involved in the learning process

The World of Deaf Infants Kathryn P. Meadow-Orlans, Patricia Elizabeth Spencer, Lynne Sanford Koester, 2004-06-17 What is the impact of an infant's diminished hearing on the infant and its parents How does communication develop in cases of diminished hearing How does diminished hearing affect social and cognitive development What types of early interventions can improve communication and development in infants with diminished hearing The World of Deaf Infants presents the results of a 15 year research study that addresses these questions Through their research perhaps the largest long term comparison of deaf and hearing infants Meadow-Orlans's team provides a comprehensive and intimate look into the world of deaf infants For a core group of 80 families that includes all four combinations of parent infant hearing status data was collected longitudinally at 9 12 15 and 18 months and mother infant interactions were recorded and observed in both structured and unstructured settings Mothers facial vocal and tactile behaviors during interactions were related to infants temperament and stress mothers linguistic and communication behaviors as well as their overall responsiveness were related to children's language and the effects of support provided to mothers were evaluated and explored The results were dramatic particularly those on infant attachment behaviors and the importance of visual attention to the overall development of deaf infants This comprehensive work provides a foundation on which researchers teachers students and parents can build to improve communication cognitive and social development and to enhance the world of deaf infants
