Education In Rwanda Rebalancing Resources To Accelerate Post Conflict Development And Poverty Reduction:

Education in Rwanda ,2004 Education in Rwanda ,2004 Ten years after the 1994 genocide in which an estimated 10 percent of the country's population perished Rwanda's devastated education system is now back on its feet Classrooms have been repaired and new ones built teachers who fled the mayhem have been reintegrated into the teaching force arrears in teacher pay have been cleared up a Genocide Fund has been created specifically to assist orphans and in higher education the system has been diversified and new arrangements for student finance have been introduced This success notwithstanding the task of transforming the rapid recovery into sustained progress over time has only just begun A priority will be to ensure that all Rwandan children can complete a full course of primary schooling of reasonable quality and that expansion at the post primary levels occurs at a pace commensurate with the labor market's capacity to absorb highly educated job seekers Achieving this will present tough tradeoffs in financing and service delivery including combining increased funding for primary education with greater reliance on private financing at other levels sharper targeting of public subsidies for education and tighter management of classroom processes to improve student flow and student learning throughout the system Education in Rwanda explores the challenges of sustaining educational progress in a fiscally viable fashion as the country makes the transition from post conflict recovery to long term development Education in Rwanda World Bank,2004 Key economic aspects that are particularly relevant in the Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper PRSP context cost finance service delivery and education outcomes Education in Rwanda Weltbank,2013 Rwanda's recent history was marred by genocide in 1994 in which at least ten percent of the population lost their lives and rebuilding the stock of human capital is an important part of that process where the government has made efforts to broaden access to education and enhance the quality of services On the international stage the education sector has also come into the limelight specifically under the 2000 United Nations Millennium Declaration and the foregoing context presents clear challenges for education managers The purpose of this report is to provide a factual basis for discussion Noteworthy are the efforts to reduce grade repetition in primary education and similarly reforms in higher education finance have been launched to reduce the cost of government sponsored overseas studies The report is addressed to Rwanda's policymakers in the education sector as well as to education practitioners and should also be of interest to policymakers in other parts of the government particularly those charged with managing the country's development strategy and aligning public spending accordingly The breadth of its coverage is limited to key economic aspects that are particularly relevant in the Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper PRSP context cost finance service delivery and education outcomes Most impressive is the rapid pace of enrollment increase in the aftermath of the genocide and as the system expanded it has done so in ways that has moved it toward a good balance between the public and private sectors while also compares favorably with that of other low income countries in Africa in terms of the socioeconomic disparities in educational access Challenges ahead focus on managing student flow and graduate output mobilizing and making effective use of resources for education ensuring that public resources for education reach the front lines balancing the accessibility of schools against considerations of scale economies managing classroom conditions and processes to enhance student learning and minimizing the barriers to education for orphans and other vulnerable groups Nevertheless the task ahead remains daunting as the recovery phase gives way to the implementing the sector's long term development Concerns about efficiency equity and fiscal sustainability will be inevitably relevant as the country seeks to advance educational progress in a resource constrained environment Reshaping the Future, 2005 This publication focuses on the role that education can play both in terms of conflict prevention and in the reconstruction of post conflict societies drawing on research in 52 conflict affected countries and a review of 12 country studies These case studies include Angola Burundi Sierra Leone Bosnia Herzegovina Kosovo Timor Leste Cambodia Lebanon El Salvador and Nicaragua and consideration is given to how lessons drawn might be applied to recent conflict situations in Afghanistan and Iraq Issues discussed include the relationship between conflict poverty and education the challenges of reform and reconstruction teacher training and teaching resources governance and financing the legacy of conflict and the role of the World Bank in supporting education reconstruction

School Construction Strategies for Universal Primary Education in Africa Serge Theunynck, 2009 School Construction Strategies for Universal Primary Education in Africa examines the scope of the infrastructure challenge in Sub Saharan Africa and the constraints to scaling up at an affordable cost It assesses the experiences of African countries with school planning school facility designs and construction techniques procurement and implementation arrangements over the past thirty years It reviews the roles of the various actors in the implementation process central and deconcentrated administrations local governments agencies social funds NGOs and local communities Drawing upon extensive analysis of data from over 200 250 projects sponsored by the World Bank and other donor agencies the book draws lessons on promising approaches to enable African countries to scale up the facilities required to achieve the EFA goals and MDGs of complete quality primary education for all children at the lowest marginal cost

Development, Modernism and Modernity in Africa Augustine Agwuele, 2013-03-01 This anthology examines the unfinished project of modernity with respect to the unrealized potential for economic social and political development in Africa It also shows how facing the consequences of modernism Africans in and out of the continent are responding to these unfinished projects drawing on a the customary b the novelty of modernity and c positive aspects of modernism for the organization of their societies and the enrichment of their lives even as they contend with the negative aspects of modernity and modernism

Historical Dictionary of Rwanda Aimable Twagilimana, 2015-11-06 Blessed with natural beauty and rich vegetation Rwanda is often called the land of a thousand hills le pays des mille collines a reference to its many lush and green rolling hills Moreover for many Rwandans at least in the past Rwanda in spite of its small size is vast in fact it means the universe This idyllic view however sharply contrasts with the sad history of ethnic strife that unfolded since the 1950s the 1959 Hutu

Revolution followed by years of anti Tutsi pogroms undemocratic regimes the civil war of 1990 1994 and more significantly the April July 1994 genocide against the Tutsi and the killing of Hutu who opposed the killings The 1994 genocide against the Tutsi remains the most defining single event in contemporary Rwanda and many people in the world today know of this central African nation from the prism of extreme mass violence that sullied the end of the 20th century amid international indifference and has since haunted the world s conscience This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Rwanda contains a chronology an introduction appendixes and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 300 cross referenced entries on important personalities politics economy foreign relations religion and culture This book is an excellent access point for students researchers and anyone wanting to know more about Rwanda

Quality of Teacher Education

Nyiramana, Christine, 2023-09-12 This study focused on investigating the learning situation of student teachers especially their experiences on feedback they receive during their study time including teaching practice It was conducted in Rwanda The study was guided by the theories on educational quality which on one side places teacher education at the central position of ensuring effective teaching and learning process In this line effective training to make sure that teachers are taught in the same way they are expected to teach is essential On the other side feedback which is an important element of the learning engine is indicated necessary for ensuring that student teachers learn from a conducive environment This study intended to answer the research question How does teacher education look like regarding feedback in the Rwandan context To answer this research question the study was conceptualized as a qualitative research where semi structured interviews were conducted with 32 student teachers who have been selected using a theoretical sampling strategy from 13 Rwandan Higher Learning Institutions Data collection was done in combination with data analysis to maximize all the qualities in the field Qualitative content analysis using intertwined deductive inductive approach has been used for data analysis With abduction process a deep analysis of the empirical data led to the definition of criteria and then ideal types of feedback experienced by student teachers in Rwanda With this analysis three types of feedback namely administrative feedback correctional feedback and instructional feedback emerged Further analysis showed that student teachers in Rwanda experience different forms of feedback They have divergent understandings of feedback Delayed feedback leads to increased uncertainty among students communication of feedback creates different forms of relationships between student teachers and teacher educators In addition student teachers learn implicitly from teacher educators how to provide feedback and there are no common standards regarding internships The analysis of the results of this study with regard to the discourse on teacher education feedback and educational quality indicates that feedback in teacher education has a multidimensional effect

Armed Conflict and Schooling: Evidence from the 1994 Rwandan Genocide Richard Akresh, Abstract To examine the impact of Rwanda s 1994 genocide on children s schooling the authors combine two cross sectional household surveys collected before and after the genocide The identification strategy uses pre war data to control for an age group s baseline schooling and exploits variation across provinces in the intensity of killings and which children's cohorts were school aged when exposed to the war. The findings show a strong negative impact of the genocide on schooling with exposed children completing one half year less education representing an 18.3 percent decline. The effect is robust to including control variables, alternative sources for genocide intensity and an instrumental variables strategy.

Education in Sub-Saharan Africa Kirsten Majgaard, Alain Mingat, 2012-06-26. Education in Sub-Saharan Africa: A Comparative Analysis takes stock of education in Sub-Saharan Africa by drawing on the collective knowledge gained through the preparation of Country Status Reports for more than 30 countries.

Narrating and Teaching the Nation Denise Bentrovato, 2016-02-15. The book investigates the politics of education in pre and post genocide Rwanda, examining the actors' interests and discourses that have historically influenced educational policy and practice and in particular the production and revision of history curricula and textbooks. This study combines a systematic historical and comparative analysis of curricula and textbooks in Rwanda, stakeholder interviews, classroom observations and a large scale investigation of pupils' understandings of the country's history. Written at a crucial time of transition in Rwanda, it illuminates the role of education as a powerful means of socialisation through which dominant discourses and related belief systems have been transmitted to the younger generations, thus moulding the nation. It outlines emergent challenges and possibilities, urging a move away from the use of history teaching to disseminate a conveniently selective official history towards practices that promote critical thinking and reflect the heterogeneity characteristic of Rwanda's post-genocide society.

Education, Skills and International Cooperation Kenneth King, 2019-10-15. This book highlights some of Kenneth King's diverse contributions to international and comparative education, African studies and development studies over more than four decades. From his pioneering work on the first educational commissions to Africa through his research on skills training in the informal sector and on to his critical analysis of education analysis in development agencies, this book makes influential materials available in one place. Appropriately, it illustrates his career-long connections with Kenya but also his more recent engagement with Japan, China and India. It is the first CERC volume to pay significant attention to the policies and politics of skills development. Kenneth King is an Emeritus Professor of the University of Edinburgh. He was based in and directed its Centre of African Studies for many years and lectured on international perspectives in education and training in its School of Education. His research interests have addressed the politics and planning of skills development, including in the informal sector of the economy, aid policies towards education of both Western and Asian donors and higher education cooperation. He founded NORRAG, the network for international policies and cooperation in education and training, in 1986 and edited NORRAG News until 2016. He was President of the British Association for International and Comparative Education (BAICE) from 2014-2016 and was one of the founding members of the UK Forum on International Education and Training (UKFIET).

Decentralisation in Africa Gordon Crawford, Christof Hartmann, 2008. Decentralisation in Afrika is een sobere beoordeling van wat decentralisatie precies kan bereiken Decentralisatie van overheden in Afrikaanse landen en elders in de derde wereld krijgt de laatste tijd een impuls vaak gedreven door Multilaterale en bilaterale instanties de donoren Maar worden de voordelen hiervan wel gerealiseerd In dit boek worden vraagtekens gezet bij de kwestie of decentralisatie wel een gunstige uitweg biedt voor de armoede en het conflict in Afrika Historical Dictionary of the World Bank Sarah Tenney, Anne C. Salda, 2013-10-30 When it was founded back in 1944 no one could possibly have foreseen how the World Bank known more formally as the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development IBRD would flourish Today with 188 members it is by far the largest lender for projects in agriculture health infrastructure and many other fields in developing countries around the world with a budget of billions of dollars and a staff of more than 9 000 and its advice is usually heeded by both the developing countries which borrow from it and the advanced ones which contribute This second edition of the Historical Dictionary of the World Bank shows the substantial progress the Bank has made this mainly through the dictionary section with concise entries on its component institutions related organizations its achievements in various fields some of the major projects and member countries and its various presidents The introduction explains how the Bank works while the chronology traces the major events over nearly 70 years Meanwhile the list of acronyms reminds us just who the main players are And the bibliography directs readers to useful internal documentation and outside studies Reaching Out to Africa's Orphans K.
