Education For Peace:

Educating for Peace in a Time of Permanent War Paul R. Carr, Brad J. Porfilio, 2012-05-31 What is the meaning of peace why should we study it and how should we achieve it Although there are an increasing number of manuscripts curricula and initiatives that grapple with some strand of peace education there is nonetheless a dearth of critical cross disciplinary international projects books that examine peace education in conjunction with war and conflict Within this volume the authors contend that war military conflict violence are not a nebulous far away mysterious venture rather they argue that we are all collectively involved in perpetrating and perpetuating militarization conflict violence inside and outside of our own social circles Therefore education about and against war can be as liberating as it is necessary If war equates killing can our schools avoid engaging in the examination of what war is all about If education is not about peace then is it about war Can a society have education that willfully avoids considering peace as its central objective Can a democracy exist if pivotal notions of war and peace are not understood practiced advocated and ensconced in public debate These questions according to Carr and Porfilio and the contributors they have assembled merit a critical and extensive reflection This book seeks to provide a range of epistemological policy pedagogical curriculum and institutional analyses aimed at facilitating meaningful engagement toward a more robust and critical examination of the role that schools play and can play in framing war militarization and armed conflict and significantly the connection to peace of its own pitfalls into peace education can support learners and teachers to come to grips with achieving positive peace sustaining change at both the micro individual and macro social and institutional levels and to develop concepts and practices of effective and legitimate alternatives to violence and war Conceived in these terms historical memory oriented peace education also stands to enhance the work in progress that is the UN led sustaining peace agenda including its Sustainable Development Goals Peace Education Evaluation Celina Del Felice, Aaron Karako, Andria Wisler, 2015-05-01 Practice and research of peace education has grown in the recent years as shown by a steadily increasing number of publications programs events and funding mechanisms The oft cited point of departure for the peace education community is the belief in education as a valuable tool for decreasing the use of violence in conflict and for building cultures of positive peace hallmarked by just and equitable structures Educators and organizations implementing peace education activities and programming however often lack the tools and capacities for evaluation and thus pay scant regard to this step in program management Reasons for this inattention are related to the perceived urgency to prioritize new and more action in the context of scarce financial and human resources notwithstanding violence or conflict the lack of skills and time to indulge in a thorough evaluative strategy and the absence of institutional incentives and support Evaluation is often demand driven by donors who emphasize accounting given the current context of international development assistance and budget cuts Program evaluation is considered an added burden to already over tasked programmers who are unaware of the incentives and of assessment techniques Peace education practitioners are typically faced with forcing evaluation frameworks techniques and norms standardized for traditional education programs and venues Together these conditions create an unfavorable environment in which evaluation becomes under valued de prioritized and mythologized for its laboriousness This volume serves three inter related objectives First it offers a critical reflection on theoretical and methodological issues regarding evaluation applied to peace education interventions and programming The overarching questions of the nature of peace and the principles guiding peace education as well as governing theories and assumptions of change transformation and complexity are explored Second the volume investigates existing quantitative qualitative and mixed methods evaluation practices of peace educators in order to identify what needs related to evaluation persist among practitioners Promising practices are presented from peace education programming in different settings formal and non formal education within various groups e g children youth police journalists and among diverse cultural contexts Finally the volume proposes ideas of evaluation novel techniques for experimentation and creative adaptation of tools from related fields in order to offer pragmatic and philosophical substance to peace educators next moves and inspire the agenda for continued exploration and innovation The authors come from variety of fields including education peace and conflict studies educational evaluation development studies comparative education economics and psychology Exploring Betty A. Reardon's Perspective on Peace Education Dale T. Snauwaert, 2019-05-15 This book presents commentaries by a leading international group of peace education scholars and practitioners concerning Reardon's peace education theory and intellectual legacy. The guiding question throughout the book is: How can her foundational work be used to advance the theory and practice of peace education? In an attempt to find answers, the contributing authors explore three general areas of inquiry: 1. Theoretical Foundations of Peace and Human Rights Education; 2. Feminism and the Gender Perspective as Pathways of Transformation Toward Peace and Justice; and 3. Peace Education Pedagogy and Practices. A contemplative commentary by Reardon herself rounds out the coverage.

Education for Peace Herbert Read, 2012. This book deals with the everlasting problem of war and peace. In it, the author argues that mankind must be predisposed for peace by the right kind of education and he discusses how to devise methods of education which will prevent war.

Making School a Place of Peace Theresa M. Bey, Gwendolyn Y. Turner, 1996. Imagine a peaceable place of learning where the total focus is on teaching and helping students learn. From superintendents to classroom teachers, this is what all education professionals want for their schools. Making School a Place of Peace gives you details on how to make nonviolence and peaceable behavior the norm in your school. The authors have included real-life examples and forms for assessing the culture and values of the school. They have included practical ways you can incorporate lessons about peace into the curriculum, such as using examples from children's literature. Particularly useful are the resources for helping to promote peace as a way of life, not just at school but at home and in the community as well. Involvement of parents, teachers, and children is stressed as a key factor in bringing about these changes.

Comprehensive Peace Education Betty Reardon, 2021-09-21. Betty A. Reardon's groundbreaking work, originally authored in 1988, provides one of the first and clearest articulations of the field of peace education in theory and practice. Through reflection on her own experiences, Reardon assesses the state of peace education and offers a new comprehensive approach. She addresses the need to help educators and citizens alike understand what peace education is, why it is needed, and how it is and should be pursued. She investigates the root causes of the violent conditions facing society so that we can better understand how education can be used to interrupt the cycles of violence and create the conditions for sustainable peace and justice. Comprehensive peace education, for the author, takes place at every level and in every subject area of both formal and non-formal education. In this special 2021 Edition, Reardon provides a new reflective introduction on the emerging needs and challenges to the field for the 21st century. Formal and non-formal educators, theorists, students, and activists will find practical and transformative wisdom immediately applicable to diverse conditions and contexts in Comprehensive Peace Education. Betty A. Reardon is acknowledged around the world as one of the founders of the field of peace education. She has been extensively involved in the international peace education movement and has been published widely in the field. She is a co-founder of both the International Institute on Peace Education and the Global Campaign for Peace Education.
