from conventional schooling One challenge of these settings therefore is to change the way education is offered in order to better engage these students Much of the onus for this changed approach is on the staff teachers youth workers and other support staff Therefore the purpose of this book is to examine different aspects of the work of staff in these settings Several common threads run through the chapters in this book highlighting core aspects of the work of staff in these settings A strong sense of commitment to working with and for young people from marginalised backgrounds Validation of the relational and emotional nature of education as a fundamentally people centred enterprise The importance of explicit attention to critical reflection on staff members own positionality assumptions and identity Collegiality as a crucially affirming part of school culture for staff These elements are pertinent to educational settings everywhere The chapters in this book serve as a reminder of what really counts for our young people and their schooling The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Teaching Education

Alternative Educational Futures Clive Harber,Roland Meighan,Brian Roberts,1984 The Great Lockout in America's Citizenship Plants William Albert Wirt,Don E. Glines,1995 Resources in Education ,1997 USDA Forest Service General Technical Report PSW. ,1978 Research in Education ,1973 Education for the Twenty-First Century Hedley Beare,Richard Slaughter,2021-12-24 First published in 1993 Education for the Twenty First Century grew out of a common and deep seated concern about the way young people think of their own future and about some of the relatively simplistic education reforms advocated often by people with scant comprehension of modern educational practices Schools as institutions schooling patterns the curriculum and teachers themselves have come under heavy criticism but it has to be recognized that the problems in education have no lasting or satisfactory solutions while schools continue to operate out of the framework which has determined their raison d tre for the past two hundred years The authors argue that schools do not need fine tuning or more of the same rather some of the fundamental assumptions about schooling have to be revised They argue that learning about the future must become very much a part of the present and they set out in the book some of the thinking and several techniques which permit us to confront the future and make it a more friendly place The book will be of interest to students teachers and policymakers
