

Mother O' Mine

If I were hanged on the highest hill,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!

If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
I know whose tears would come down to me,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!

If I were damned of body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!

Rudyard Kipling

conception of motherhood as an all encompassing identity rooted in self sacrifice and infused with social and political meaning By the 1940s the idealization of motherhood had waned and the nation s mothers found themselves blamed for a host of societal and psychological ills In Mom Rebecca Jo Plant traces this important shift by exploring the evolution of maternalist politics changing perceptions of the mother child bond and the rise of new approaches to childbirth pain and suffering Plant argues that the assault on sentimental motherhood came from numerous quarters Male critics who railed against female moral authority psychological experts who hoped to expand their influence and women who strove to be more than wives and mothers all for their own distinct reasons sought to discredit the longstanding maternal ideal By showing how motherhood ultimately came to be redefined as a more private and partial component of female identity Plant illuminates a major reorientation in American civic social and familial life that still reverberates today
