unusual and remarkable dystopian novel A Free Man is a satirical tall tale presented as the drug and alcohol fuelled conversation of two old friends getting reacquainted over one night It s also a boy meets girl story of the worst kind and a time travel story about a future where the world is ruled by robots and humans are vermin When timelines cross the world as we know it bends Skid Roe is completely self absorbed and delusional His struggle to exercise free will is constantly hampered by the physical manifestation of his inner demons and by the norms and rules of contemporary life He s both aided and hindered by Lem a robot from the future whose good intentions leave Skid on the run from a shadowy state security agency A surreal beautiful and powerful literary mash up Basili res long awaited sophomore effort is inventive and darkly funny

The Identity of Man Grahame Clark,2023-07-07 First published in 1982 in the Identity of Man Professor Clark considers a problem which has puzzled men from the authors of the books of the Old Testament to Charles Darwin and his successors how to reconcile the animal appetites of men with their awareness of gods and their intimations of immortality What is it that differentiates us most decisively from the other Primates He argues that the distinction is to be found primarily in the fact that whereas the behaviour of other animals is largely dictated by their genes we follow or reject cultural patterns inherited through belonging to societies shaped by history Whereas other animals behave in a broadly homogenous way within breeding populations men adhere to the diversity of cultural traditions observed by ethnographers among peoples surviving on their fringes of the modern world and reconstructed by archaeologists from the cultural fossils of antiquity Grahame Clark has written an original and fascinating study drawing both on his lifetime s experience of archaeological material and on a wide range of other sources to throw new light on the question of man s identity This is a must read for archaeologists and anthropologists

Social Aspects of Industry S. Howard Patterson,1929 How Humans Cooperate Richard E. Blanton,2016-12-01 In How Humans Cooperate Richard E Blanton and Lane F Fargher take a new approach to investigating human cooperation developed from the vantage point of an anthropological imagination Drawing on the discipline s broad and holistic understanding of humans in biological social and cultural dimensions and across a wide range of temporal and cultural variation the authors unite psychological and institutional approaches by demonstrating the interplay of institution building and cognitive abilities of the human brain Blanton and Fargher develop an approach that is strongly empirical historically deep and more synthetic than other research designs using findings from fields as diverse as neurobiology primatology ethnography history art history and archaeology While much current research on collective action pertains to local scale cooperation How Humans Cooperate puts existing theories to the test at larger scales in markets states and cities throughout the Old and New Worlds This innovative book extends collective action theory beyond Western history and into a broadly cross cultural dimension places cooperation in the context of large and complex human societies and demonstrates the interplay of collective action and aspects of human cognitive ability By extending the scope and content of collective action theory the authors find a fruitful new path to understanding human cooperation Victorian Environmental

Nightmares Laurence W. Mazzeno, Ronald D. Morrison, 2019-05-06 The twelve essays in Victorian Environmental Nightmares explore various environmental nightmares through applied analyses of Victorian texts Over the course of the nineteenth century writers of imaginative literature often expressed fears and concerns over environmental degradation in its wide variety of meanings including social and moral In some instances natural or environmental disasters influenced these responses in other instances a growing awareness of problems caused by industrial pollution and the growth of cities prompted responses Seven essays in this volume cover works about Britain and its current and former colonies that examine these nightmare environments at home and abroad But as the remaining five essays in this collection demonstrate environmental nightmares are not restricted to essays on actual disasters or realistic fiction since in many cases Victorian writers projected onto imperial landscapes or wholly imagined landscapes in fantastic fiction their anxieties about how humans might change their environments and how these environments might also change humans The Pulpit

Cyclopædia, and Christian Minister's Companion Jabez Burns, 1845 Almost Over F. M. Kamm, 2020-04-01 In Almost Over F M Kamm presents a wide ranging philosophical discussion of the moral legal and medical issues related to aging dying and death She begins by considering different views about whether and why death is bad for the person who dies and what these views imply about the death of humanity She then considers whether there are conditions under which it might make sense to deliberately bring a person's death about given the processes of aging and dying that precede it In the opinion of some it is not only serious illness but ordinary aging that may give rise to this question and Kamm pays particular attention to the various ways in which aging could affect the distribution of goods and bads in a particular life Specifically she considers how the limitations and changes due to aging and the dying process affect meaning in one's life and whether the absence of meaning affects the reasonableness of not resisting or even seeking one's death Kamm explores these questions not only as they relate to individuals decisions but also as they relate to public policy and state action Recently attempts have been made to help the general public think about end of life issues by devising questionnaires and conversation guides Kamm evaluates some of these resources and articulates the moral implications of the assumptions they make about aging dying and value She also takes up the issue of physician assisted suicide as a way of ending one's life considering its moral permissibility and whether or not it ought to be legalized as a matter of public policy In doing so she examines arguments from discussions about capital punishment concerning state action and also methods of balancing costs and benefits including cost effectiveness analysis In her analysis Kamm engages with the views of such prominent philosophers medical doctors and legal theorists as Shelly Kagan Susan Wolf Atul Gawande Ezekiel Emanuel and Neil Gorsuch among others shedding new light on conversations about the moral complexities and consequences of aging dying and death The New World, 1897

Infrastructural Brutalism Michael Truscello, 2020-09-01 How drowned town literature road movies energy landscape photography and death train narratives represent the brutality of industrial infrastructures In this book Michael Truscello looks at the industrial infrastructure not as an invisible system of connectivity and mobility that keeps capitalism humming in the background but as a manufactured miasma of despair toxicity and death Truscello terms this infrastructural brutality a formulation that not only alludes to the historical nexus of infrastructure and the concrete aesthetic of Brutalist architecture but also describes the ecological political and psychological brutality of industrial infrastructures Transition to Humanity Donald C. Chivers, 2016-04-05 The reason religion plays such an influential part in our lives is because extinction would have ended our species if it were not for religion It also gives us hope that our children don't actually die but have gone to a far better place called heaven Such a place had to have a God and at the time we had plenty of them We are all without exception behaviorally programmed We are all to a greater or lesser degree behaviorally manipulated And we are all to some extent mind poisoned and controlled by early suggestion and example Extreme manipulation is called radicalization But what is radicalization It is an ancient obsessive and viral idea that has been given a name at last For centuries it has taken possession of the mind of insecure youths who long for total acceptance These misguided youths reject previous unsatisfactory programming because it hasn't fulfilled their expectation of self importance There is a conscious dismissal of previous associations and a willingness to give of them to gain recognition and appreciation This book attempts to understand the psychological motivations of ISIS and other movements in an evolutionary framework The Rainbow, a
