Human Dentofacial Growth Denys H. Goose, John Appleton, 1982 National Institute of Dental Research Indexes, 1984 Listings of extramural and intramural projects Information provided is project number subject investigator and laboratory branch Dental Anthropology Kurt W. Alt, Friedrich W. Rösing, Maria Teschler-Nicola, 2012-12-06 Shelley Saunders This book offers a welcome diversity of topics covering the broader subjects of teeth and the study of teeth by anthropologists There is an impressive array of coverage here including the history of anthropological study of the teeth morphology and structure pathology and epidemiology the relationship between nutrition human behavior and the dentition age and sex estimation from teeth and geographic and genetic variation Most chapter authors have provided thorough reviews of their subjects along with examples of recent analytical work and recommendations for future research North American researchers should particularly appreciate the access to an extensive European literature cited in the individual chapter bibliographies Physical anthropologists with even a passing interest in dental research should greet the publication of this book with pleasure since it adds to a growing list of books on how the study of teeth can tell us so much about past human populations In addition to the archaeological applications there is the forensic objective of dental anthropology which the editors refer to in their introduction which is dealt with in this volume The chapters dealing with methods of sex determination age estimation of juveniles and age estimation of adults using the teeth are exhaustive and exacting and of critical importance to both osteoarchaeologists and forensic anthropologists Authors Liversidge Herdeg and Rosing provide very clear guidelines for the use of dental formation standards in juvenile age estimation recommendations that are so obviously necessary at this time Dental Research in the United States and Other Countries, 1979 A catalog of dental research projects sponsored by federal and non federal organizations Research Awards Index, 1989
