Human Evolution and Prehistory - EBook Robert Wall, 1753 Culture History and Convergent Evolution Huw S. Groucutt, 2020-07-23 This volume brings together diverse contributions from leading archaeologists and paleoanthropologists covering various spatial and temporal periods to distinguish convergent evolution from cultural transmission in order to see if we can discover ancient human populations With a focus on lithic technology the book analyzes ancient materials and cultures to systematically explore the theoretical and physical aspects of culture convergence and populations in human evolution and prehistory The book will be of interest to academics students and researchers in archaeology paleoanthropology genetics and paleontology The book begins by addressing early prehistory discussing the convergent evolution of behaviors and the diverse ecological conditions driving the success of different evolutionary paths Chapters discuss these topics and technology in the context of the Lower Paleolithic Earlier Stone age and Middle Paleolithic

Middle Stone Age The book then moves towards a focus on the prehistory of our species over the last 40 000 years Topics covered include the human evolutionary and dispersal consequences of the Middle Upper Paleolithic Transition in Western Eurasia Readers will also learn about the cultural convergences and divergences that occurred during the Terminal Pleistocene and Holocene such as the budding of human societies in the Americas The book concludes by integrating these various perspectives and theories and explores different methods of analysis to link technological developments and cultural convergence

Human Evolution Paul F. Kisak, 2016-04-17 Human evolution is the evolutionary process that led to the emergence of anatomically modern humans The topic typically focuses on the evolutionary history of the primates in particular the genus Homo and the emergence of Homo sapiens as a distinct species of the hominids or great apes rather than studying the earlier history that led to the primates The study of human evolution involves many scientific disciplines including physical anthropology primatology archaeology paleontology neurobiology ethology linguistics evolutionary psychology embryology and genetics Genetic studies show that primates diverged from other mammals about 85 million years ago in the Late Cretaceous period and the earliest fossils appear in the Paleocene around 55 million years ago Within the Hominoidea apes superfamily the Hominidae family diverged from the Hylobatidae gibbon family some 15-20 million years ago African great apes subfamily Homininae diverged from orangutans Ponginae about 14 million years ago the Hominini tribe humans Australopithecines and other extinct biped genera and chimpanzees parted from the Gorillini tribe gorillas about 8 million years ago and in turn the subtribes Hominina humans and biped ancestors and Panina chimps separated about 7-5 million years ago The basic adaptation of the hominin line is bipedalism The earliest bipedal hominin is considered to be either Sahelanthropus or Orrorin alternatively either Sahelanthropus or Orrorin may instead be the last shared ancestor between chimps and humans Ardipithecus a full biped arose somewhat later and the early bipeds eventually evolved into the australopithecines and later into the genus Homo The earliest documented representative of the genus Homo is Homo habilis which evolved around 2-8 million years ago and is arguably the earliest species for which there is positive evidence of the use of stone tools The brains of these early hominins were about the same size as that of a chimpanzee although it has been suggested that this was the time in which the human SRGAP2 gene doubled producing a more rapid wiring of the frontal cortex During the next million years a process of rapid encephalization occurred and with the arrival of Homo erectus and Homo ergaster in the fossil record cranial capacity had doubled to 850 cm³ Such an increase in human brain size is equivalent to each generation having 125 000 more neurons than their parents It is believed that Homo erectus and Homo ergaster were the first to use fire and complex tools and were the first of the hominin line to leave Africa spreading throughout Africa Asia and Europe between 1-3 to 1-8 million years ago According to the recent African origin of modern humans theory modern humans evolved in Africa possibly from Homo heidelbergensis Homo rhodesiensis or Homo antecessor and migrated out of the continent some 50 000 to 100 000 years ago gradually replacing local populations of

Homo erectus Denisova hominins Homo floresiensis and Homo neanderthalensis Archaic Homo sapiens the forerunner of anatomically modern humans evolved in the Middle Paleolithic between 400 000 and 250 000 years ago This book discusses the latest comprehensive information about human evolution and is designed to be a reference and provide an overview of the topic and give the reader a structured knowledge to familiarize yourself with the topic at the most affordable price possible The accuracy and knowledge is of an international viewpoint as the edited articles represent the inputs of many knowledgeable individuals and some of the most current knowledge on the topic based on the date of publication

Encyclopedia of Human Evolution and Prehistory Ian Tattersall, Eric Delson, John A. Van Couvering, 1988

Society in Prehistory Tim Megarry, 1995-10-01 Since the 1960s spectacular advances have been made in the study of prehistory It is now possible to reconstruct the behavior and social life of pre human ancestors as much as two million years ago These findings have forced us to revise dramatically our view of human evolution the study of which is only complete through an integrated perspective that emphasizes biological and social factors Archaeology primate studies genetics palaeontology hunter gatherer studies and anthropology have all contributed to significant breakthroughs in our understanding of human origins necessitating an approach to prehistory that is not tied to a particularly disciplinary approach Stressing the importance of culture as a formative agent in the evolutionary emergence of modern humans Society in Prehistory provides an impressive interdisciplinary and deeply informed survey of prehistory Individual chapters focus on culture and evolution biology and culture primate societies the first hominids tools and culture the economics of foraging modern humans and human behavior sex and the division of labor and sexuality and social life The book reveals that while social behavior is biologically grounded it is not biologically determined

Human Paleontology and Prehistory Assaf Marom, Erella Hovers, 2017-01-24 The aim of the book is to present original and though provoking essays in human paleontology and prehistory which are at the forefront of human evolutionary research in honor of Professor Yoel Rak a leading scholar in paleoanthropology The volume presents a collection of original papers contributed by many of Yoel's friends and colleagues from all over the globe Contributions from experts around the globe fall roughly into three broad categories Reflections on some of the broad theoretical questions of evolution and especially about human evolution the early hominins with special emphasis on Australopithecus afarensis and Paranthropus and the Neanderthals that contentious group of our closest extinct relatives Within and across these categories nearly every paper addresses combinations of methodological analytical and theoretical questions that are pertinent to the whole human evolutionary time span This book will appeal most to scholars and advanced students in paleoanthropology human paleontology and prehistoric archaeology Mammalian Evolutionary Morphology Eric J. Sargis, Marian Dagosto, 2008-05-21 This book celebrates the contributions of Dr Frederick S Szalay to the field of Mammalian Evolutionary Morphology Professor Szalay is a strong advocate for biologically and evolutionarily meaningful character analysis He has published about 200 articles six monographs and six books on this subject This book features subjects such as the evolution and adaptation of mammals and provides up to date articles on the evolutionary morphology of a wide range of mammalian groups Biological Anthropology and Prehistory Patricia C. Rice, Norah Moloney, 2016-12-05 Written specifically for courses that cover biological anthropology and archaeology this superbly illustrated new text offers the most balanced and up to date introduction to our human past Devoting equal time to biological anthropology and prehistory this text exposes students to the many sides of major controversial issues involving students in the scientific thought process by allowing them to draw their own conclusions Amidst discussions of bones and artifacts the text maintains a focus on people demonstrating to students how biological anthropology and archaeology apply to their lives today Featuring the latest research and findings pulled from the original sources this new text is far and away the most up to date text available In addition the superior art program features hundreds of photographs and figures and the multimedia presentation options include documentary film clips and lecture launcher videos Pat Rice a recipient of AAA s Outstanding Teacher Award and past president of the General Anthropology Division of AAA and Norah Moloney an experienced professor and active archaeologist present the material in a clear refreshing and straightforward writing style Evolutionary Ecology and Archaeology Jack M. Broughton, Michael D. Cannon, 2010 A compilation of archaeological and paleoanthropological studies that provide a foundation for the field of evolutionary ecology which applies Darwinian natural selection theory to the study of adaptive design in behavior morphology and life history and has produced substantial advances in understanding human evolution and prehistory Biocultural Evolution Clare L. Boulanger, 2012-04-23 In a writing style that will captivate those new to the subject Boulanger presents an understanding of human biological and cultural evolution that is both scientific and humanistic in keeping with classic anthropological ideals The aim of this reasonably priced text is to help students think critically about what being human has been what it is at present and what it may be in the future While the book focuses on the anthropological subfields of biological anthropology and archaeology information and insights are also drawn from cultural anthropology and anthropological linguistics Bouldangers absorbing treatment in contrast to other texts on human evolution features an opening chapter that seeks to negotiate fairly without defensiveness or condescension a pathway for creationists to follow into the topic The next three chapters provide background on the history of evolutionary science the biology of inheritance and population change and primatology Chapters 5 through 9 focus on human biocultural evolution from the time of the ancestor we share with chimpanzees through the development of agriculture and the founding of states The last chapter deals with the issue of race how it has affected our interpretation of the past and how it continues to influence the present In addition to an extensive glossary the fully illustrated textbook features numerous topic enhancing sidebars questions for discussion and review and student exercises
