Modelling Human Motion Nicoletta Noceti, Alessandra Sciutti, Francesco Rea, 2020-07-09 The new frontiers of robotics research foresee future scenarios where artificial agents will leave the laboratory to progressively take part in the activities of our daily life This will require robots to have very sophisticated perceptual and action skills in many intelligence demanding applications with particular reference to the ability to seamlessly interact with humans It will be crucial for the next generation of robots to understand their human partners and at the same time to be intuitively understood by them In this context a deep understanding of human motion is essential for robotics applications where the ability to detect represent and recognize human dynamics and the capability for generating appropriate movements in response sets the scene for higher level tasks This book provides a comprehensive overview of this challenging research field closing the loop between perception and action and between human studies and robotics The book is organized in three main parts The first part focuses on human motion perception with contributions analyzing the neural substrates of human action understanding how perception is influenced by motor control and how it develops over time and is exploited in social contexts The second part considers motion perception from the computational perspective providing perspectives on cutting edge solutions available from the Computer Vision and Machine Learning research fields addressing higher level perceptual tasks Finally the third part takes into account the implications for robotics with chapters on how motor control is achieved in the latest generation of artificial agents and how such technologies have been exploited to favor human robot interaction This book considers the complete human robot cycle from an examination of how humans perceive motion and act in the world to models for motion perception and control in artificial agents In this respect the book will provide insights into the perception and action loop in humans and machines joining together aspects that are often addressed in independent investigations As a consequence this book positions itself in a field at the intersection of such different disciplines as Robotics

Making Minds Professor Henry M. Wellman, 2014-10-09 Developmental psychologists coined the term theory of mind to describe how we understand our shifting mental states in daily life Over the past twenty years researchers have provided rich provocative data showing that from an early age children develop a sophisticated and consistent theory of mind by attributing their desires beliefs and emotions to themselves and to others Remarkably infants barely a few months old are able to attend closely to other humans two year olds can articulate the desires and feelings of others and comfort those in distress and three and four year olds can talk about thoughts abstractly and engage in lies and trickery This book provides a deeper examination of how theory of mind develops Building on his pioneering research in The Child's Theory of Mind 1990 Henry M Wellman reports on all that we have learned in the past twenty years with chapters on evolution and the brain bases of theory of mind and updated explanations of theory theory and later theoretical developments including how children conceive of extraordinary minds such as those belonging to superheroes or supernatural beings Engaging and accessibly written Wellman's work will appeal especially to scholars and

The Emergent Self Peter Philippon, 2018-03-26 This book tracks a particular understanding of self philosophically from research evidence and in its implications for psychotherapy At each step the author includes first the theory he is working from then the clinical implications of the theory followed by some links to the philosophical outlook inherent in the theory and finally a more extended case example It takes the view that the continuing self is partly an illusion partly a construct and that we in fact have to work to stay the same in the face of all the different possibilities the world offers us The author believes that we do this for two reasons First of all continuity allows deeper contact friendships loving relationships with partners and families Secondly and balancing this the predictable is less anxiety producing and that we avoid this existential anxiety by acting in a stereotyped way and avoiding some of the depths of contact
