Space in Romanian and Hungarian Cinema Anna Batori, 2018-05-07 This book examines the structuring of space in Romanian and Hungarian cinema and particularly how space is used to express the deep imprint of a socialist past on a post socialist present It considers this legacy of the Eastern European socialist regimes by interrogating the suffocating tyrannical and enclosing structures that are presented in film By tracing such paradigmatic models as horizontal and vertical enclosure this book aims to show how enclosed spatial structuring restages the post socialist era to produce an implicit and collective form of remembrance While closely scrutinizing the interplay of location and image Space in Romanian and Hungarian Cinema offers a new approach to the cinema of the region which unites the filmic productions under a defined post socialist Eastern European spatial umbrella By simultaneously portraying the gloom of a socialist past while also conveying a sense of longing for a pre capitalist era these films convey how sense of unity and also ambivalence is a defining hallmark of Eastern European cinema

Jews, Nazis and the Cinema of

Hungary David Frey, 2017-02-28 Between 1929 and 1942 Hungary's motion picture industry experienced meteoric growth. It leapt into Europe's top echelon, trailing only Nazi Germany and Italy in feature output. Yet by 1944 Hungary's cinema was in shambles, internal and external forces having destroyed its unification experiments and productive capacity. This original cultural and political history examines the birth, unexpected ascendance, and wartime collapse of Hungary's early sound cinema by placing it within a complex international nexus. Detailing the interplay of Hungarian cultural and political elites, Jewish film professionals and financiers, Nazi officials, and global film moguls, David Frey demonstrates how the transnational process of forging an industry designed to define a national culture proved particularly contentious and surprisingly contradictory in the heyday of racial nationalism and antisemitism. Hungarian Heritage Review, 1989 The Concise Routledge Encyclopedia of the Documentary Film Ian Aitken, 2013 This reference work explores the history of the documentary film. It discusses individual films and filmmakers, examines national and regional filmmaking traditions, elaborates on production companies, organizations, festivals, and institutions, explores themes, issues, and representations, and describes various styles, techniques, and technical issues. Film Genres in Hungarian and Romanian Cinema Andrea Virginás, 2021-04-22 Film Genres in Hungarian and Romanian Cinema: History, Theory, and Reception discusses how the Hungarian and Romanian film industries show signs of becoming a regional hub within the Eastern European canon, a process occasionally facilitated by the cultural overlap through the historical province of Transylvania. Andrea Virginás employs a film historical overview to merge the study of small national cinemas with film genre theory and cultural theory and posits that Hollywood originated classical film genres have been important fields of reference for the development of these Eastern European cinemas. Furthermore, Virginás argues that Hungarian and Romanian genre films demonstrate a valid evolution within the given genre's standards and thus need to be incorporated into the global discourse on this subject. Scholars of film studies, Eastern European studies, cultural studies, and history will find this book particularly useful.

Hungary Nicholas Parsons, 1990 Historical Dictionary of Hungary S. B. Vardy, 1997-06-26 Examines the key events, people, and places crucial to the history of Hungary. Hungarian Film Gyöngyi Balogh, Erzsé Báthory, Eszter Fazekas, 1999 The Combined Book Exhibit American Library Association, 1983 Hungarian Book Review, 1988 A Concise History of Slovakia Blanka Brezováková, 2000 Horror International Steven Jay Schneider, Tony Williams, 2005 A close look at horror films from around the world, drawing attention to neglected social, cultural, and ideological aspects of the horror genre in international cinema. Hungary, 1980 European Cinema Thomas Elsaesser, 2005 European Cinema in Crisis examines the conflicting terminologies that have dominated the discussion of the future of European film making. It takes a fresh look at the ideological agendas from avant-garde cinema to the high/low culture debate and the fate of popular European cinema. Post New Wave Cinema in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe Daniel J.
