Machin,Gill Abousnnouga,2013-10-10 This book analyses war monuments by developing a multimodal social semiotic approach to understand how they communicate as three dimensional objects The book provides a practical tool kit approach to how critical multimodal social semiotics should be done through visual textual and material analysis It ties this material analysis into the social and political contexts of production Using examples across the 20th and 21st century the book s chapters offer a way of analysing the way that monument designers have used specific semiotic choices in terms of things like iconography objects shape form angularity height materials and surface realisation to place representations of war in public places across Britain This social semiotic approach to the study of war monuments serves three innovative purposes First it provides a contribution to the work on the ideological representations of war in Media and Cultural Studies and in Critical Discourse Analysis applied specifically to more banal realisations of discourse Second it responds to calls by historians for innovative ways to study war commemoration by providing an approach that offers both specific analysis of the objects and attends to matters of design Thirdly following in the relatively recent tradition of multimodal analysis the arguments draw on the ideas of Kress and van Leeuwen 1996 2001 adapting and extending their theories and models to the analysis of British commemorative war monuments in order to develop a multimodal framework for the analysis of three dimensional objects The Rough Guide to Tuscany & Umbria (Travel Guide eBook) Rough Guides,2022-09-15

Seeing Differently Amelia Jones, 2013-06-19 Seeing Differently offers a history and theory of ideas about identity in relation to visual arts discourses and practices in Euro American culture from early modern beliefs that art is an expression of an individual the painted image a world picture expressing a comprehensive and coherent point of view to the rise of identity politics after WWII in the art world and beyond The book is both a history of these ideas for example tracing the dominance of a binary model of self and other from Hegel through classic 1970s identity politics and a political response to the common claim in art and popular political discourse that we are beyond or post identity In challenging this latter claim Seeing Differently critically examines how and why we identify works of art with an expressive subjectivity noting the impossibility of claiming we are post identity given the persistence of beliefs in art discourse and broader visual culture about who the subject is and offers a new theory of how to think this kind of identification in a more thoughtful and self reflexive way Ultimately Seeing Differently offers a mode of thinking identification as a queer feminist durational process that can never be fully resolved but must be accounted for in thinking about art and visual culture Queer feminist durationality is a mode of relational interpretation that affects both art and interpreter potentially making us more aware of how we evaluate and give value to art and other kinds of visual culture

Persian Historic Urban Landscapes Eisa Esfanjary, 2017-10-04 The first urban study of the Iranian city of Maibud over its 6000 year history Persian cities are part of a corridor of civilisation with settlements straddling thousands of years Taking Maibud as a case study Eisa Esfanjary traces the evolution of ancient settlements chronologically thematically and methodologically Maibud provides the basis from which a new interpretive approach is developed being a city that has a history of several millennia yet has a scale that renders it manageable with archaeological remains that range across several phases of building development An archetypal example of middle sized Persian cities it affords insights into the entire urban landscape and its spatial functional and morphological iterations Within this overall picture a methodology is developed to explore various morphological elements of the city the three key components of which are the town plan the building type and construction materials The inter relationships between these three components are explained in order to formulate an approach to support the management and conservation of the historic urban landscape Combining a rigorous survey and observation of the standing structures with scarce archaeological and written sources this book sheds light on Islamic urbanism in general and Islamic urbanism in Iran particularly Key Features Organised in three main parts a conceptual framework the case study of Maibud and an explanation of its wider significances and potential policy applications Sheds new light on the development of one of ancient world s oldest yet least known living cities in Iran supported by highly original and convincing analysis Features case studies with new evidence which require us to re evaluate our understanding of urbanism not just in Iran but also in the wider Islamic world Illustrated with many images including maps plans line drawings watercolours and colour photos
