Javon Johnson unpacks some of the complicated issues that comprise performance poetry spaces. He argues that the truly radical potential in slam and spoken word communities lies not just in proving literary worth speaking back to power or even in altering power structures but instead in imagining and working towards altogether different social relationships. His illuminating ethnography provides a critical history of the slam, contextualizes contemporary Black poets in larger Black literary traditions, and does away with the notion that poetry slams are inherently radically democratic and utopic. Killing Poetry at times autobiographical, poetic, and journalistic, analyzes the masculine posturing in the Southern California community, in particular the sexual assault in the national community and the ways in which related social media inadvertently replicate many of the same white supremacist patriarchal and mainstream logics. So many spoken word poets seem to be working against. Throughout, Johnson examines the promises and problems within slam and spoken word while illustrating how community is made and remade in hopes of eventually creating the radical spaces so many of these poets strive to achieve.

The Black Poets. Dudley Randall, 1985-04-01. The claim of The Black Poets to being an anthology is that it presents the full range of Black American poetry from the slave songs to the present day. It is important that folk poetry be included because it is the root and inspiration of later literary poetry. Not only does this book present the full range of Black poetry but it presents most poets in depth and in some cases presents aspects of a poet neglected or overlooked before. Gwendolyn Brooks is represented not only by poems on racial and domestic themes but is revealed as a writer of superb love lyrics. Turning away from White models and returning to their roots has freed Black poets to create a new poetry. This book records their progress from the Introduction by Dudley Randall.

Yooper Poetry Raymond Luczak, 2024-04-01. Sometimes the best way to learn about a unique region is to listen to the stories told by those who've actually lived there. You learn things that no guidebook would ever tell you. You meet unforgettable characters who've strayed far off the beaten path. And you see clearly again how the power of memory is so strong that they can still recall incidents decades later. Michigan's Upper Peninsula has always been filled with remarkable sensations and indelible stories. With this anthology, the editor Raymond Luczak sought to include poets who not only live in the U.P. but also who used to live there. What did it mean to be a Yooper then? What about now? Even for those who no longer abide there, the U.P. is indeed a special place, and it isn't just thanks to Mother Nature. The Yooper mindset requires a particular kind of faith in resilience against persistent odds. The poets in this collection have never forgotten what it means to be a Yooper. Come partake in our celebration. Featuring Martin Achatz, Jennifer Elen, Br d B Harlan Deemer, Chad Faries, Deborah K. Frontiera, Kathleen M. Heideman, John Hilden, Jonathan Johnson, Kathleen Carlton Johnson, Ellen Lord, Raymond Luczak, Gala Malherbe, Beverly Matherne, R. H. Miller, Jane Piirto, Dana Richter, T. Kilgore, Splake, Suzanne Sunshower, Russell Thorburn. The editor Raymond Luczak, who spent nine years each in Ironwood and Houghton, Michigan, has never forgotten what it means to be a Yooper. It still runs deep in his veins, and it continues to inform his every step. When he began to wonder whether he was the only one who'd felt this way, he decided to find out by calling out to others who were of the U.P. diaspora, as well as those who still resided there. He found a community who wanted to be part of the larger Yooper and poetic conversation about identity and connection. What he discovered in the poems submitted for his consideration was just how powerful some childhood memories can be. Many of the poems illustrated yet again the truth of that rephrased maxim: You can take a person out of the U.P., but you can't take the U.P. out of them. Many poems throughout the anthology seem to call out to each other as if they are having a deep conversation and nodding in agreement.

Yooper Poetry On Experiencing Michigan's Upper Peninsula has assembled a community of some 19 poets who wanted to be part of the larger Yooper conversation about identity and connection that is still ongoing today, and the anthology remains very relevant to America's future history. Who are we, and who are we to each other? The anthology offers many possible answers.

RAYMOND LUCZAK is the author and editor of over 30 books, including U.P.-centric titles such as Far from Atlantis (Poems, Gallaudet University Press), Chlorophyll (Poems about Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Modern History Press), and Compassion (Michigan The Ironwood Stories, Modern History Press). His poetry collection once upon a twin (Poems, Gallaudet University Press) was a top ten U.P. Notable Book of the Year for 2021. His work has appeared in Poetry, Prairie Schooner, and elsewhere. A proud Yooper, he lives in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

The New Republic Herbert David Croly, 1916 Mea Cuba Guillermo Cabrena Infante, 1995-10-31. Quirky, unpredictable, often hilarious. Infante's book tells us much about the effect of the Cuban revolution on Cuban literature. Publishers Weekly: With bitter irony, the author tells a story sadly repeated during this century: A dictatorship that silences the intellectuals, a regime that lies and kills, and a propaganda war that has yet to end. One of the best compilations of documents on recent Cuban history.
