Essays on Language in Societal Transformation Tunde Opeibi,Josef Schmied,Tope Omoniyi,Kofo Adedeji,2015-01-30 This paper generally lends support to the arguments advanced by Awonusi 1989 1990 2004 and others in favour of an endonormative as opposed to an exonormative standard for English pronunciation in Nigeria They include the fact that the existing exonormative standard British Received Pronunciation RP has undergone and is still undergoing changes in its homeland and is not homogeneous The heightened social mobility of today s world perhaps works against the demarcation and homogenization of language varieties and this is all the more true of the varieties or lects that have been proposed for Nigerian English when these are related more or less explicitly to educational attainment Major attention is given in the paper to a schema of basilect mesolect and acrolect presented by Ugorji 2010 with a focus on his account of vowels and his presentation of a mechanism derived from optimality theory for evaluating vowels in contention The basilect and the mesolect are found to be so close to each other that they might be combined There would then be just two varieties In contrast the acrolect is close to British RP albeit with many variants due to the conflict of two standardising forces i e British RP and the basilect mesolect The vowel system of an officially adopted endonormative standard Nigerian RP would mainly be the same as that of British RP but the optimality mechanism could be employed to give preference to some of the Nigerian variants for inclusion in it

Irish Literature in Italy in the Era of the World Wars Antonio Bibbò, 2021-12-14 This book addresses both the dissemination and increased understanding of the specificity of Irish literature in Italy during the first half of the twentieth century This period was a crucial time of nation building for both countries Antonio Bibbò illustrates the various images of Ireland that circulated in Italy focusing on political and cultural discourses and examines the laborious formation of an Irish literary canon in Italy The center of this analysis relies on books and articles on Irish politics culture and literature produced in Italy including pamphlets anthologies literary histories and propaganda translations of texts by Irish writers and archival material produced by writers publishers and cultural and political institutions Bibb argues that the construction of different and often conflicting ideas of Ireland in Italy as well as the wavering understanding of the distinctiveness of Irish culture substantially affected the Italian responses to Irish writers and their presence within the Italian publishing field This book contributes to the discussion on transnational aspects of canon formation reception studies and Italian cultural studies      Variations on Uzbek Identity Peter Finke,2014-02-01
