Wright,2007-01-01 Disavowing Constantine draws upon the work of two highly influential modern theologians Jürgen Moltmann and John Howard Yoder to develop an independent and constructive understanding of the relation of the church to the state Its aim is to restate for modern understanding the insights of the Believers Church tradition and to work out their implications for Christian participation in the civil order In this complex realm positive insights are located in traditions usually regarded as incompatible but the thesis of the book concerns disavowing Constantine renouncing the reliance of the church upon coercive power to further its mission in order to rediscover how a faithful church might nonetheless participate as a witness within the power structures of human society Pastoral Theology from a Global Perspective Henry S. argues that peace cannot be derived from outside forces but that it must instead be created from within the local context by the local people adopting their own cultural and historical system and using their own intellectual and material resources. The author uses a deeply contextual reading of his own setting resulting in a work whose value rests in revealing how the tribal people of North East India have used their own resources to work for a culture of peace amidst tension and difficulty. Negotiating Peace grows from an ongoing commitment on the part of Fortress Press to bring creative theological reflection from the Global South to the conversations taking place around the world. It will be of interest not only to scholars of Christianity in North East India but to scholars, students and those interested in peace studies. Human Rights Robert A. Evans, 1983

In the Fray David P. Gushee, 2014-05-12 In the Fray collects David Gushee's most significant essays over twenty years as a Christian intellectual. Most of the essays were written in situations of ethical conflict on the highly contested ground of Christian public ethics. Topics addressed include torture, climate change, marriage and divorce, the treatment of gays and lesbians in the church, war, genocide, nuclear weapons, race, global poverty, faith and politics, Israel, Palestine, and even whether Christian ethics is a real academic discipline. Quite visible in the collection is Gushee's deep research interest in the Nazi era in Germany and how the churches fared in resisting Nazi intimidations and seductions, and finally the Holocaust. All essays reflect the desire for a church that has learned the lessons of that period: a church with resistance to racism, militarism, nationalism, and other social ideological toxins, and with the discernment and courage to resist these in favor of a courageous allegiance to the lordship of Christ at the time of testing. Considerable attention is directed to contesting some of the public ethics found in the author's own US evangelical Christian community. Concluding reflections on Gushee's ethical vision are offered in an illuminating essay by senior Christian ethicist Glen Harold Stassen. The Church as Polis Arne Rasmusson, 2025-02-15 Political theology is one of the most influential theological movements of the latter part of the twentieth century, and yet as Arne Rasmusson argues here, the field suffers from deep inherent tensions in its attempt to mediate the Christian tradition and the modern emancipatory tradition. Rasmusson contributes to political theology through an innovative discussion of the relationship between church and society and an exposition of the thought and work of political theology's influential representative Jürgen Moltmann. Rasmusson further refines his argument by filtering Moltmann's theology through an exploration of Stanley Hauerwas's theological positions. Third World Resources, 1993

A notable additional feature is the inclusion of extensive Internet-based resources such as a wide variety of web sites, discussion lists, electronic texts, virtual libraries, online journals, and related material. Pedagogies for the Non-Poor Robert A.
