Human Senses In Action:

Human Senses in Action Roland Harper, 1972 Perfecting Human Actions John Michael Rziha, 2009 During the last few centuries a practical dichotomy between God and humans has developed within moral theory. As a result, moral theory tends to focus only on humans where human autonomy is foundational or only on God where divine commands capriciously rule. However, the moral theology of Thomas Aquinas overcomes this dichotomy. For Thomas, humans reach their perfection by participating in God's wisdom and love. Perfecting Human Actions explores the ways humans participate in eternal law, God's wisdom that guides and moves all things to their proper action. The book begins with a thoughtful examination of the philosophic recovery of the notion of participation in Thomistic metaphysics. It then explains Thomas's theological understanding of the notion of participation to show how humans are related to God. It is discovered that when performing human actions, humans participate in the eternal law in two ways: as moved and governed by it and cognitively. In reference to participation as moved and governed, humans are directed by God to their proper end of eternal happiness. This mode of participation can be increased by perfecting the natural inclinations through virtue, grace, and the gifts of the Holy Spirit. In reference to cognitive participation, humans as rational creatures can know their proper end and how to attain it. Through this knowledge of moral truths, the intellect participates in the eternal law. Cognitive participation is perfected by the intellectual virtues, especially faith, and the gifts of the Holy Spirit, especially wisdom. The book concludes by showing how the notion of human participation in the eternal law is a much better foundation for moral theory than the contemporary notion of autonomy.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR John Rziha is associate professor of theology at Benedictine College.

PRAISE FOR THE BOOK A competent and indeed masterful study, Rziha's book is to be welcomed as not just an important but indeed an overdue contribution to the contemporary recovery of Aquinas's moral theory. More importantly, this study is of surpassing importance in advancing the correct understanding of the relationship between human freedom and natural law. Rziha's lucidly written and well documented study displays all the characteristics of a competent and learned interpretation of the thought of the doctor communis according to the highest standards of current Aquinas scholarship. Reinhard Hutter, Thomist.

Rziha explores at length the two modes by which humans participate in God's eternal law: as moved and governed by it and as having knowledge of it. This book proves to be something of a comprehensive course in Thomistic thought. This project is supported by extensive and meticulous footnote references to texts of Aquinas. Janine Marie Idziak, Speculum.

Understanding Leadership in Complex Systems Terje Andreas Tonsberg, Jeffrey Shawn Henderson, 2016-07-20 This work proposes that Carl Menger's Subjective Theory of Value (STV) and its subsequent elaboration by Ludwig von Mises as Praxeology provides a useful alternative to more common methods in the study of action and social phenomena, and more specifically to leadership in complex social systems. Rather than being based on rationality assumptions and algorithmic predictability, the STV emphasizes transient subjectivity shaped by a complex world of lacking information, mistakes, disequilibrium uncertainty and attempted error correction that defy mathematization and exact prediction As such it is a framework to make sense of human action systems in terms of subjective understanding learning and uncertainty rather than quantitative predictability Accordingly the aim of this work is to explain the STV as a general theory of action and to demonstrate its capability in developing adequate qualitative theory and to elaborate on some of the major topics that its implications raise with regard to leadership The power of the method can be seen in that its procedure naturally branches out to facilitate an understanding of a broad selection of processes and may provide the basis for a universal theory of leadership

The Sense of Agency Patrick Haggard,Baruch Eitam,2015-08-27 Agency has two meanings in psychology and neuroscience It can refer to one s capacity to affect the world and act in line with one s goals and desires this is the objective aspect of agency But agency can also refer to the subjective experience of controlling one s actions or how it feels to achieve one s goals or affect the world This subjective aspect is known as the sense of agency and it is an important part of what makes us human Interest in the sense of agency has exploded since the early 2000s largely because scientists have learned that it can be studied objectively through analyses of human judgment behavior and the brain This book brings together some of the world s leading researchers to give structure to this nascent but rapidly growing field The contributors address questions such as What role does agency play in the sense of self Is agency based on predicting outcomes of actions And what are the links between agency and motivation Recent work on the sense of agency has been markedly interdisciplinary The chapters collected here combine ideas and methods from fields as diverse as engineering psychology neurology neuroscience and philosophy of mind making the book a valuable resource for any student or researcher interested in action volition and exploring how mind and brain are organized Sense of Agency: Examining Awareness of the Acting Self Nicole David, James W Moore, Sukhvinder Obhi, 2015-07-24 The sense of agency is defined as the sense of oneself as the agent of one's own actions. This also allows oneself to feel distinct from others and contributes to the subjective phenomenon of self-consciousness. Gallagher 2000 Distinguishing oneself from others is arguably one of the most important functions of the human brain. Even minor impairments in this ability profoundly affect the individual's functioning in society as demonstrated by psychiatric and neurological syndromes involving agency disturbances. Della Sala et al 1991, Franck et al 2001, Frith 2005, Sirigu et al 1999. But the sense of agency also plays a role for cultural and religious phenomena such as voodoo, superstition, and gambling in which individuals experience subjective control over objectively uncontrollable entities. Wegner 2003. Furthermore, it plays into ethical and law questions concerning responsibility and guilt. For these reasons, a better understanding of the sense of agency has been important for neuroscientists, clinicians, philosophers of mind, and the general society alike. Significant progress has been made in this regard. For example, philosophical scrutiny has helped establish the conceptual boundaries of the sense of agency. Bayne 2011, Gallagher 2000, 2012, Pacherie 2008, Synofzik et al 2008, and scientific investigations have shed light on the neurocognitive basis of sense of agency, including the brain regions supporting sense of agency. Chambon et al 2013, David et al 2007, Farrer et al 2003, 2008, Spengler et al 2009, Tsakiris et al 2010, Yomogida et al 2010. Despite this progress, there remain a number of outstanding questions such as: Are there cross-cultural differences in the sense of agency? How does the sense of agency develop in infants or change across the lifespan? How does social context influence sense of agency? What neural networks support sense of agency, i.e., connectivity and communication between brain regions? What are the temporal dynamics with respect to neural processes underlying the sense of agency, i.e., the what and when of agency processing? How can different cue models of the sense of agency be further specified and empirically supported, especially with regards to cue integration weighting? What are the applications of sense of agency research clinically, engineering, etc.? The concept of the sense of agency offers intriguing avenues for knowledge transfer across disciplines and interdisciplinary empirical approaches, especially in addressing the aforementioned outstanding questions. The aim of the present research topic is to promote and facilitate such interdisciplinarity for a better understanding of why and how we typically experience our own actions so naturally and undoubtedly as ours, and what goes awry when we do not. We thus welcome contributions from, for example, i) neuroscience and psychology, including developmental psychology, neuroscience, ii) psychiatry and neurology, iii) philosophy, iv) robotics, and v) computational modeling. In addition to empirical or scientific studies of the sense of agency, we also encourage theoretical contributions, including reviews, models, and opinions.
