Building Knowledge, Constructing Histories, Volume 1 Ine Wouters,Stephanie van de Voorde,Inge Bertels,Bernard Espion,Krista de Jonge,Denis Zastavni,2018-07-11 Building Knowledge Constructing Histories brings together the papers presented at the Sixth International Congress on Construction History 6ICCH Brussels Belgium 9 13 July 2018 The contributions present the latest research in the field of construction history covering themes such as Building actors Building materials The process of building Structural theory and analysis Building services and techniques Socio cultural aspects Knowledge transfer The discipline of Construction History The papers cover various types of buildings and structures from ancient times to the 21st century from all over the world In addition thematic papers address specific themes and highlight new directions in construction history research fostering transnational and interdisciplinary collaboration Building Knowledge Constructing Histories is a must have for academics scientists building conservators architects historians engineers designers contractors and other professionals involved or interested in the field of construction history This is volume 1 of the book set The Giant Squid in Transatlantic Culture Otto Latva,2023-09-30 This book builds upon the extensive study of the historical relationship between sea animals and humans in transatlantic culture during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries It exposes the present understanding of the human relationship with the giant squid not only as too simplistic but also as historically inaccurate For instance it redefines the earlier understanding that humans and especially seafarers have understood giant squid as horror evoking and ugly creatures since the dawn of history and explains the origins of mythical sea monsters such as the Kraken The book is however more than a critical response to previous work It will point out that animals such as cephalopods which have largely been defined in biological contexts in recent times have a fascinating and multivariate past entangled with the history of humans in many remarkable ways Hence this book is not just about perceptions of giant sized squid or cephalopods but a historical inquiry into the transatlantic culture from the late eighteenth century to the turn of the twentieth century It will provide new knowledge about the history of mollusc studies

Betsinger, Sharon N. DeWitte, 2020-11-05 Urbanization has long been a focus of bioarchaeological research but what is missing from the literature is an exploration of the geographic and temporal range of human biological demographic and sociocultural responses to this major shift in settlement pattern Urbanization is characterized by increased population size and density and is frequently assumed to produce negative biological effects However the relationship between urbanization and human health requires careful examination given the heterogeneity that exists within and between urban contexts Studies of contemporary urbanization have found both positive and negative outcomes which likely have parallels in past human societies This volume is unique as there is no current bioarchaeological book addressing urbanization despite various studies of urbanization having been conducted Collectively this volume provides a more holistic understanding of the relationships between urbanization and various aspects of human population health The insight gained from this volume will provide not only a better understanding of urbanization in our past but it will also have potential implications for those studying urbanization in contemporary communities British Children's Literature of the 19th Century Patrick C.
