Ecclesiastical Landscapes in Medieval Europe: An Archaeological Perspective José Carlos Sánchez-Pardo, Emmet Marron, Maria Crîngaci Țiplic, 2020-07-02 By presenting case studies from across Eastern and Western Medieval Europe this volume aims to open up a Europe wide debate on the variety of relations and contexts between ecclesiastical buildings and their surrounding landscapes between the 5th and 15th centuries AD

Leper Knights David Marcombe, 2003 One of the most unusual contributions to the crusading era was the idea of the leper knight a response to the scourge of leprosy and the shortage of fighting men which beset the Latin kingdom in the twelfth century The Order of St Lazarus which saw the idea become a reality founded establishments across Western Europe to provide essential support for its hospitaller and military vocations This book explores the important contribution of the English branch of the order which by 1300 managed a considerable estate from its chief preceptory at Burton Lazars in Leicestershire Time proved the English Lazarites to be both tough and tenacious if not always preoccupied with the care of lepers Following the fall of Acre in 1291 they endured a period of bitter internal conflict only to emerge reformed and reinvigorated in the fifteenth century Though these late medieval knights were very different from their twelfth century predecessors some ideologies lingered on though subtly readapted to the requirements of a new age until the order was finally suppressed by Henry VIII in 1544 The modern refoundation of the order a charitable institution dates from 1962 The book uses both documentary and archaeological evidence to provide the first ever account of this little understood crusading order DAVID MARCOMBE is Director of the Centre for Local History University of Nottingham

Landscapes of the Norman Conquest Trevor Rowley,2022-11-04 For a long time the Norman Conquest has been viewed as a turning point in English history an event which transformed English identity sovereignty kingship and culture The years between 1066 and 1086 saw the largest transfer of property ever seen in English History comparable in scale if not greater than the revolutions in France in 1789 and Russia in 1917 This transfer and the means to achieve it had a profound effect upon the English and Welsh landscape an impact that is clearly visible almost 1 000 years afterwards Although there have been numerous books examining different aspects of the British landscape this is the first to look specifically at the way in which the Normans shaped our towns and countryside The castles abbeys churches and cathedrals built in the new Norman Romanesque style after 1066 represent the most obvious legacy of what was effectively a colonial take over of England Such phenomena furnished a broader landscape that was fashioned to intimidate and demonstrate the Norman dominance of towns and villages The devastation that followed the Conquest characterised by the Harrying of the North had a long term impact in the form of new planned settlements and agriculture The imposition of Forest Laws restricting hunting to the Norman king and the establishment of a military landscape in areas such as the Welsh Marches had a similar impact on the countryside
