Grossman,John J. Cogan,2012-09-01 This book originates from a collaborative research initiative to examine how various societies in the Asia Pacific Region construct moral and civic education and to what extent these systems achieve the democratic objective of creating socially responsible citizens In many western societies there is at least a rhetorical tendency to separate the moral and civic dimensions of citizenship education and in some cases to exclude the moral dimension from the discourse of preparing citizens However as cross societal dialogues and research about citizenship education have increased in the past two decades scholars have identified differences in the emphasis put on the moral dimension of citizenship education across the Asia Pacific region In many predominantly Confucian Islamic and Buddhist societies for example the emphasis on the moral dimension of citizenship education is explicit and in some cases central While awareness of a divide or perhaps more appropriately a continuum in the role of moral versus civic education in democratic societies has been recognized for some time to our knowledge this book marks the first effort of this scope to address the issue of the moral civic divide in citizenship education Thus through a cross cultural dialogue across societies in the Asia Pacific Region this book addresses the issue of whether elements of both civic and moral education can be effectively joined to create a socially responsible citizen Community Participation with Schools in Developing Countries Mikiko Nishimura, 2020-08-04 The Sustainable Development Goals SDGs 2016 2030 set by the United Nations in 2015 restated the importance of universal primary education for all and specifically discuss quality equity and inclusion in basic education To achieve this the role of community has been emphasized and participation has become a buzzword in international development over the past several decades Despite the growing attention to community participation in school management previous literature has shown mixed results in terms of its actual practice and its impacts on quality equity and inclusion in education This book deepens the contextual understanding of community in developing countries and its involvement in schools in general and its impact on quality equity and inclusion of school education in particular By presenting various case studies in Asia Africa Latin America and a post conflict state in Europe the book analyses commonalities and differences in the ways communities are involved and cast their impacts and challenges The book contributes knowledge on the ways in which community involvement could work in developing countries the detailed processes and factors that make community participation work in different dimensions and remaining challenges that scholars and practitioners still need to be concerned and mindful in the field This book will appeal to both researchers and practitioners who are concerned about the community participation approach for the SDGs
