Fields, 2013-08-01 First published in 1996 One of the primary goals of this series has been to explore new areas of criminology and criminal justice topics that constitute the frontiers of the field This work edited by Sally Edwards Terry Edwards and Charles Fields exemplifies that purpose in its coverage of environmental crime While corporate and political crime developed slowly into mainstream criminology over the last half century environmental crime as an area of emphasis is still in its infancy It is unusual to have many varied and informative perspectives early in a subject s development This volume however demonstrates that many people are already examining environmental crime perhaps as an extension of both the greater environmental movement and the broadening of the popular parameters of crime

slides     Greening Criminology in the 21st Century Matthew Hall, Tanya Wyatt, Nigel South, Angus Nurse, Gary Potter, Jennifer Maher, 2016-11-25 In the 21st century environmental harm is an ever present reality of our globalised world Over the last 20 years criminologists working alongside a range of other disciplines from the social and physical sciences have made great strides in their understanding of how different institutions in society and criminal justice systems in particular respond or fail to respond to the harm imposed on ecosystems and their human and non human components Such research has crystallised into the rapidly evolving field of green criminology This pioneering volume with contributions from leading experts along with younger scholars represents the state of the art in criminologists pursuit of understanding in the environmental sphere while at the same time challenging academics lawmakers and policy developers to explore new directions in the study of environmental harm     Forging a Socio-Legal Approach to Environmental Harms Tiffany Bergin, Emanuela Orlando, 2017-06-14 Environmental harms exert a significant toll and pose substantial economic costs on societies around the world Although such harms have been studied from both legal and social science perspectives these disciplinary specific approaches are not on their own fully able to address the complexity of these environmental challenges Many legal approaches for example are limited by their inattention to the motivations behind environmental offences whereas many social science approaches are hindered by an insufficient grounding in current legislative frameworks This edited collection constitutes a pioneering attempt to overcome these limitations by uniting legal and social science perspectives Together the book s contributors forge an innovative socio legal approach to more effectively respond to and to prevent environmental harms around the world Integrating theoretical and empirical work the book presents carefully selected illustrations of how legal and social science scholarship can be brought together to improve policies The various chapters examine how a socio legal approach can ultimately lead to a more comprehensive understanding of environmental harms as well as to innovative and effective responses to such environmental offences     Environment Jules Pretty, 2006-06-23 This four volume set explores the locations where the environment matters most such as where people are poor where environments are under threat such as on frontiers where there are few natural resources remaining and where industrialization is rampant It will also explore these concerns at different system levels from local community to regional national and global It will also explore costs of damage to the very resources on which economies rely and the values of environmental goods and services and the controversies surrounding such valuations It is organized around environment people interactions livelihoods poverty income economic growth environment environment interactions do people matter and people people interactions collective action challenges institutions     Encyclopedia of Criminology J. Mitchell Miller, Richard A. Wright, 2013-12-17 This three volume work offers a comprehensive review of the pivotal concepts measures theories and practices that comprise criminology and criminal justice No longer just a subtopic of sociology criminology has become an independent academic field of study that incorporates scholarship from numerous disciplines including psychology political science behavioral science law economics public health family studies social work and many others The three volume Encyclopedia of Criminology presents the latest research as well as the traditional topics which reflect the field's multidisciplinary nature in a single authoritative reference work More than 525 alphabetically arranged entries by the leading authorities in the discipline comprise this definitive international resource The pivotal concepts measures theories and practices of the field are addressed with an emphasis on comparative criminology and criminal justice While the primary focus of the work is on American criminology and contemporary criminal justice in the United States extensive global coverage of other nations justice systems is included and the increasing international nature of crime is explored thoroughly Providing the most up to date scholarship in addition to the traditional theories on criminology the Encyclopedia of Criminology is the essential one stop reference for students and scholars alike to explore the broad expanse of this multidisciplinary field

Environmental Criminal Liability and Enforcement in European and International Law

Ricardo Pereira,2015-09-29 The drive for harmonisation of environmental criminal standards at both the international and European level emerges from the increasing recognition of the scale and seriousness of environmental crime the need to strengthen mechanisms of police and judicial interstate cooperation to combat cross border crime and the objective to ensure fair competition in a global economy and an integrated EU common market The harmonisation of environmental criminal law requires a competent institutional framework able to convey the need for criminalisation of environmental harm while not overriding national aspirations to sovereignty in criminal matters The book Environmental Criminal Liability and Enforcement in European and International Law assesses legal theoretical and practical questions of harmonisation of national environmental criminal law and the mechanisms for cooperation by sovereign states under European and International Law with a particular emphasis on legislative developments in the European Union the Council of Europe and other international institutions assessing the case for an extension of the jurisdiction of the International Criminal Court over international environmental crimes

Environmental Victims

Christopher Williams,2014-04-23 This study looks at environmental problems from the perspective of the victims The bottom line consequences are often damaging to the health of individuals or communities and they raise a wide range of issues concerning justice international and environmental law public health occupational health and health policy social policy and welfare international relations and security All of these issues are addressed by the contributors and the work is designed for a spectrum of readers whether concerned with industrial hazards and occupational health relevant agreements or treaties environmental refugees or the roles of state business and other actors

Deleuze and Environmental Damage

Mark Halsey,2017-05-15 This book offers a post structuralist critique of the problems associated with modernist accounts of environmental harm and regulation Through a notably detailed micro political analysis of forest conflict the author explores the limits of academic commentary on environmental issues and suggests that the traditional variables of political economy race and gender need to be recast in light of four key modalities through which the environment and environmental damage are re produced Focusing on vision speed lexicon and affect the book engages a new ethic for categorizing and regulating nature and challenges criminologists sociologists cultural theorists and others to reconsider what it is possible to say and do about environmental problems

The Treadmill of Crime Paul B. Stretesky, Michael A Long, Michael J Lynch, 2013-08-15 Drawing on the work of Allan Schnaiberg this book returns political economy to green criminology and examines how the expansion of capitalism shapes environmental law crime and justice The book is organized around crimes of ecological withdrawals and ecological additions The Treadmill of Crime is written by acclaimed experts on the subject of green criminology and examines issues such as the crime in the energy sector as well as the release of toxic waste into the environment and its impact on ecosystems This book also sets a new research agenda by highlighting problems of ecological disorganization for animal abuse and social disorganization This book will be of interest to students researchers and academics in the fields of criminology political science environmental sociology and natural resources

Green Criminology Piers Beirne, 2017-07-05 In little more than a decade Green Criminology has become an established new perspective in the field It embraces an exciting and wide range of topics from controversies about genetic modification through corporate offending against the environment and human communities to animal abuse Green Criminology provides a focal point for longstanding and new areas of research as well as making important interdisciplinary connections

Victims of Environmental Harm Matthew Hall, 2013-03-05 In recent years the increasing focus on climate change and environmental degradation has prompted unprecedented attention being paid towards the criminal liability of individuals organisations and even states for polluting activities These developments have given rise to a new area of criminological study often called green criminology Yet in all the theorising that has taken place in this area there is still a marked absence of specific focus on those actually suffering harm as a result of environmental degradation This book represents a unique attempt to substantively conceptualise and examine the place of such environmental victims in criminal justice systems both nationally and internationally Grounded in a comparative approach and drawing on critical criminological arguments this volume examines many of the areas traditionally considered by victimologists in relation to victims of environmental crime and more widely environmental harm These include victims rights compensation treatment by criminal justice systems and participation in that process The book approaches the issue of environmental victimisation from a social harms perspective as opposed to a criminal harms one thus problematising the definitions of environmental crime found within most jurisdictions Victims of Environmental Harm concludes by mapping out the contours of further research into a developing green victimology and how this agenda might inform criminal justice reform and policy making at national and global levels This book will be of interest to researchers across a number of disciplines including criminology international law victimology socio legal studies and physical sciences as well as professionals involved in policy making processes

Green Criminology Nigel South, 2017-07-05 In little more than a decade

Green Criminology has become an established new perspective in the field. It embraces an exciting and wide range of topics from controversies about genetic modification through corporate offending against the environment and human communities to animal abuse. Green Criminology provides a focal point for longstanding and new areas of research as well as making important interdisciplinary connections.

Varieties of Comparative Criminology, 2021-10-18 According to Durkheim comparative sociology is sociology itself. Comparative criminology goes back to the days of Durkheim but today it is possible to conduct group comparisons in many settings and with an incredible array of data. This book represents a variety of approaches making comparisons. The emphasis is on creative methods challenging theory and unusual subject matter. Topics range from Micro Macro Criminology to Police Strength and from Women Police to Crime Prevention Policies in the UK and the US. Contributors are Cyndi Banks, Adam C. Bouloukos, Ken Clark, Ronald V. Clarke, Brett Dakin, Graham Farrell, Joshua D. Freilich, Gregory J. Howard, Erin Lake, Gloria Laycock, Edward R. Maguire, Mangai Natarajan, Graeme Newman, Jeremy A. Pienik, Rebecca Schulte, Murray Mark Seis, Shlomo Giora Shoham, and Andromachi Tseloni.

Transnational Environmental Crime Rob White, 2017-07-05 The essays selected for this volume illustrate the growing interest in and importance of crime that is both environmental and transnational in nature. The topics covered range from pollution and waste to biodiversity and wildlife crimes and from the violation of human rights associated with the exploitation of natural resources through to the criminogenic implications of climate change. The collection provides insight into the nature and dynamics of this type of crime and examines in detail who is harmed and what can be done about it. Differential victimisation and contemporary developments in environmental law enforcement are also considered. Collectively these essays lay the foundations for a criminology that is forward looking, global in its purview and that deals with the key environmental issues of the present age.

Crimes Against the Environment Donald J. Rebovich, George E. Curtis, 2020-10-26 Crimes Against the Environment explains the seriousness of the threat posed by pollution, its roots, how it has evolved, how it differs across the planet and how society has endeavored to create and enforce laws directed at its control. Rebovich and Curtis begin with an overview of hazardous waste, the industries that produce toxins, available methods of waste treatment and the legal environment of environmental crime. They examine the forces driving criminal behavior and the methods offenders adopt as well as protections against polluters and their effectiveness. The book concludes with an examination of environmental justice in the United States and globally and looks ahead to the future of crime control and prevention in this arena. Case studies and discussion questions offer further perspective on these challenging issues of environmental integrity. This text serves undergraduate or early stage graduate students majoring in criminal justice, environmental science, sociology and political science and could also serve as a resource for professionals in environment related occupations.

European Developments in Corporate Criminal Liability James Gobert, Ana-Maria Pascal, 2011-06-10 When corporations carry on their business in a grossly negligent manner or take a cavalier approach to risk management the consequences can be catastrophic The harm may be financial as occurred when such well regarded companies as Enron Lehman Brothers Worldcom and Barings collapsed or it may be environmental as illustrated most recently by the Gulf oil spill Sometimes deaths and serious injuries on a mass scale occur as in the Bhopal gas disaster the Chernobyl nuclear explosion the Paris crash of the Concorde the capsizing of the Herald of Free Enterprise and rail crashes at Southall Paddington and Hatfield in England What role can the law play in preventing such debacles and in punishing the corporate offenders This collection of thematic papers and European country reports addresses these questions at both a theoretical and empirical level The thematic papers analyse corporate criminal liability from a range of academic disciplines including law sociology criminology economics philosophy and environmental studies whilst the country reports look at the laws of corporate crime throughout Europe highlighting both common features and irreconcilable differences between the various jurisdictions

Handbook of Criminal Justice Administration M.A. DuPont-Morales, Michael K. Hooper, Judy H. Schmidt, 2000-09-21 This work addresses perspectives on the judicial correctional and law enforcement components of the criminal justice system including history ethics prevention intervention due process marginalized populations international consequences and demands for professionalism It also examines critical variations in the criminal justice systems of countries worldwide
