Environmental History Volume 6 Number 3:

Speaking with Nature Norman Wirzba, 2024-10-29 From one of the world's leading historians comes the first substantial study of environmentalism set in any country outside the Euro American world. By the canons of orthodox social science, countries like India are not supposed to have an environmental consciousness. They are, as it were, too poor to be green. In this deeply researched book, Ramachandra Guha challenges this narrative by revealing a virtually unknown prehistory of the global movement set far outside Europe or America. Long before the publication of Rachel Carson's Silent Spring and well before climate change, ten remarkable individuals wrote with deep insight about the dangers of environmental abuse from within an Indian context. In strikingly contemporary language, Rabindranath Tagore, Radhakamal Mukerjee, J. C. Kumarappa, Patrick Geddes, Albert and Gabrielle Howard, Mira Verrier, Elwin, K. M. Munshi, and M. Krishnan wrote about the forest and the wild soil and water, urbanization, and industrialization. Positing the idea of what Guha calls livelihood environmentalism in contrast to the full stomach environmentalism of the affluent world, these writers, activists, and scientists played a pioneering role in shaping global conversations about humanity's relationship with nature. Spanning more than a century of Indian history and decidedly transnational in reference, this book offers rich resources for considering the threat of climate change today.

The History of Cartography, Volume 6 Mark Monmonier, 2015-05-18 For more than thirty years, the History of Cartography Project has charted the course for scholarship on cartography, bringing together research from a variety of disciplines on the creation, dissemination, and use of maps. Volume 6, Cartography in the Twentieth Century, continues this tradition with a groundbreaking survey of the century just ended and a new full-color encyclopedic format. The twentieth century is a pivotal period in map history. The transition from paper to digital formats led to previously unimaginable dynamic and interactive maps. Geographic information systems radically altered cartographic institutions and reduced the skill required to create maps. Satellite positioning and mobile communications revolutionized wayfinding. Mapping evolved as an important tool for coping with complexity, organizing knowledge, and influencing public opinion in all parts of the globe and at all levels of society. Volume 6 covers these changes comprehensively while thoroughly demonstrating the far-reaching effects of maps on science, technology, and society, and vice versa. The lavishly produced volume includes more than five hundred articles accompanied by more than a thousand images. Hundreds of expert contributors provide both original research, often based on their own participation in the developments they describe, and interpretations of larger trends in cartography. Designed for use by both scholars and the general public, this definitive volume is a reference work of first resort for all who study and love maps.

Varieties of Environmentalism Ramachandra Guha, Joan Martínez Alier, 2013-10-11 Until very recently, studies of the environmental movement have been heavily biased towards the North Atlantic worlds. There was a common assumption amongst historians and sociologists that concerns over such issues as conservation or biodiversity were the exclusive preserve of the affluent westerner, the ultimate luxury of the consumer society. Citizens of the world's poorest countries ran the conventional wisdom had nothing to gain from environmental concerns they were too poor to be green and were attending to the more urgent business of survival Yet strong environmental movements have sprung up over recent decades in some of the poorest countries in Asia and Latin America albeit with origins and forms of expression quite distinct from their western counterparts In Varieties of Environmentalism Guha and Martinez Alier seek to articulate the values and orientation of the environmentalism of the poor and to explore the conflicting priorities of South and North that were so dramatically highlighted at the Rio Earth Summit in 1992 Essays on the ecology of affluence are also included placing in context such uniquely western phenomena as the cult of wilderness and the environmental justice movement Using a combination of archival and field data The book presents analyses of environmental conflicts and ideologies in four continents North and South America Asia and Europe The authors present the nature and history of environmental movements in quite a new light one which clarifies the issues and the processes behind them They also provide reappraisals for three seminal figures Gandhi Georgescu Roegen and Mumford whose legacy may yet contribute to a greater cross cultural understanding within the environmental movements
