The Politics of 21st Century Environmental Disasters Susan Park, 2023-06-01 This book explores the main concerns for grappling with increasing environmental disasters and examines how environmental disasters are understood by states corporations and non government organizations nationally and internationally The focus of this book is threefold first to investigate what constitutes an environmental disaster and to identify the parameters for political responses nationally and internationally Second the chapters analyse contemporary state practices that exacerbate the impact of and responses to environmental disasters They show how states promote extractivism based on limited understandings of nature drawn from Western philosophy Finally the book highlights the strengths and weaknesses in political and institutional responses at the local level to such disasters by state and non state actors This shows how both slow and fast violence of environmental disasters affects communities but also how vulnerable subjects are based on people s capabilities The Politics of 21st Century Environmental Disasters is an indispensable resource for students and scholars in political science and environmental studies The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Environmental Politics Environmental Disasters in Global Perspective Lewis Aptekar,1994 Disaster Nursing

Tener Goodwin Veenema,2007-06-18 Read a fascinating interview with editor Tener Goodwin Veenema Tener Veenema Interview Disaster planning and emergency preparedness have never been more critical to the nurses who serve as our front line response Today s pandemic threats of global terrorism disease and natural disasters make this comprehensive handbook of best practices a necessity meeting the need for a nursing workforce that is adequately prepared to respond to any disaster or public health emergency In addition to a thorough update based on the most recent recommendations this second edition contains six new chapters Emergency Health Services EMS and other first responders Burn Assessment and Management Explosive Traumatic Terrorism Caring for High Risk High Vulnerability Patients Emerging Infectious Disease avian and other flu pandemics Chemical Decontamination All content reflects the guidelines provided in the Federal Disaster Response Plan and the National Incident Management System NIMS and therapeutic recommendations from the national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Disaster Nursing will prepare any nurse or EMS team to provide health care under a variety of disaster conditions Panic Buying and Environmental Disasters S.M. Yasir Arafat,Sujita Kumar Kar,Russell Kabir,2022-09-01 Panic buying is a common response during crises however to date it has been a significantly under researched area Recent evidence suggests that an environmental stimulus such as the COVID 19 pandemic war earthquakes flooding public health emergencies SARS MARS can trigger this phenomenon As an environmental crisis takes its toll the understanding of panic buying becomes overlooked Nevertheless panic buying causes series of events separate from these primary events Understanding the management of emergencies and disasters should be an integral part of dealing with panic buying since every major environmental crisis has the potential to initiate panic buying behaviour in the general public This book will analyse episodes of panic buying and major environmental crisis focusing on specific prevention strategies This book is the first of its kind of approach to join up the management of panic buying during a public health emergency

Unnatural Disasters Angus M. Gunn,2003-11-30 This reference resource describes both the scientific background the economic social issues that resulted from environmental disasters where human activity was the main cause

Encyclopedia of Disasters Angus M. Gunn,2007-12-30 Disasters can strike at any time From the eruption of Mt Vesuvius to Hurricane Katrina floods tornadoes earthquakes hurricanes and other natural disasters have caused tremendous loss of life human suffering and environmental catastrophe The complex technological and social changes of the last few centuries have not only intensified the impact of such natural disasters but have added new introduced new reasons to be concerned plane crashes bombings industrial accidents genocides Calling some disasters natural and others man made downplays the important interrelationship between the event and human actions Human actions or inactions can catapult a natural phenomenon into a deadly catastrophe Likewise nature can be terribly disrupted by events that are created by humans Encyclopedia of Disasters covers over 180 of the most important disasters in history Arranged chronologically the encyclopedia includes entries on those disasters that have had the greatest historical environmental and cultural impact The eruption of Mt Vesuvius which destroyed the towns of Pompeii and Herculaneum the London Fire of 1666 which flattened much of London and allowed the rebuilding of the city the influenza epidemic of 1918 which killed millions the 1964 Prince William Sound earthquake in Alaska which caused death and destruction as far away as Hawaii the worst nuclear power plant accident in Chernobyl Ukraine in 1964 that has rendered the surrounding landscape uninhabitable and the 2004 earthquake that created a tsunami that killed thousands in Sumatra Each entry includes a list of readings for additional research and the encyclopedia is illustrated with numerous photos and line illustrations that show the destruction and despair caused by these disasters

Environmental Disaster Alert! Paul Clarence Challen, 2005 Most disasters are caused by nature but occasionally humans are to blame for catastrophic influences on the world's air water soil and natural resources Environmental Disaster Alert probes the causes and effects of acid rain greenhouse gases oil spills air pollution and other human caused disasters

Environmental Hazards Keith Smith, 2001 Topics include risk assessment disaster management adjustment to the hazard accepting sharing reducing loss earthquakes volcanoes landslides snow avalanches storms biophysical hazards extreme temperatures epidemics frost wildfires floods droughts technological hazards i e Bhopal and Chernobyl etc Environmental Hazards Henry Keith Moffatt, Emily Shuckburgh, 2011 One of the priority areas of ICSU The International Council for Science is Natural and Human Induced Environmental Hazards and Disasters The School held at the Institute for Mathematical Sciences Singapore from 20 April to 2 May 2009 on which this volume is based on was sponsored by ICSU and by its members from IUTAM the International Union of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics and IUGG the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics This volume provides an indepth graduate level introduction to the fluid dynamics and geophysics of hazards such as tropical cyclones flooding atmospheric pollution and tsunamis It also includes discussion of the possible effects of climate change on these phenomena Indeed the current importance of this area is of great public concern Framing Environmental Disaster Melissa K. Merry, 2013-12-04 The blowout of the Deepwater Horizon and subsequent underground oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico in 2010 is considered by many to be the worst environmental disaster in U S history Interest groups public officials and media organizations have spent considerable time documenting the economic and ecological impacts of this spill as well as the causes of the spill ostensibly to prevent future disasters of this magnitude However rather than an unbiased search for answers such investigations involve strategic efforts by a variety of political actors to define the spill and its causes in ways that lead to their preferred policy solutions Framing Environmental Disaster evaluates the causal stories that environmental groups tell about the spill and develops theoretical propositions about the role of such stories in the policy process Which actors do groups hold responsible and how do groups use blame attributions to advance their policy agendas Constructing a creative methodological approach which includes content analysis drawn from blog posts emails press releases and testimony before Congress and insights and quotations drawn from interviews with environmental group representatives Melissa K Merry argues that interest groups construct causal explanations long before investigations of policy problems are complete and use focusing events to cast blame for a wide range of harms not directly tied to the events themselves In doing so groups seek to take full advantage of windows of opportunity resulting from crises An indispensable resource for scholars of public policy and environmental politics and policy this book sheds new light on the implications of the gulf disaster for energy politics and policies while advancing scholarly understandings of the role of framing and causal attribution in the policy process Global Fictions and Environmental Disaster Martin Premoli, 2025-08-07 Examining contemporary literary depictions of environmental disasters through a North South axis this book explores the resonances and dissonances between environmentalisms of marginalized communities in the U S and the global South Pairing anti colonial texts from the United States with examples from the Global South it interrogates the complexity of global precarity and particular forms of environmental violence Each pairing is linked to a specific manifestation of environmental disaster such as hurricane drought species extinction and agricultural collapse Featuring texts from authors such as Jesmyn Ward Monique Roffey Paolo Bacigalupi Alexis Wright Linda Hogan Henrietta Rose Innes Ruth Ozeki and Sonora Jha this book models how a comparative global North global South approach to literary studies can help us untangle the complex power dynamics and differentials of the Anthropocene Environmental Disaster in the Gulf South Ted Steinberg, 2018-01-09 Hurricanes floods oil spills disease and disappearing wetlands are some of the many environmental disasters that impact the Gulf South The contributors to Environmental Disaster in the Gulf South explore the threat frequency and management of this region's disasters from the mid nineteenth century to the present Scholars from the fields of history sociology and anthropology examine the underlying causes of vulnerability to natural hazards in the coastal states while also suggesting ways to increase resilience Greg O'Brien considers the New Orleans flood of 1849 Andy Horowitz the Galveston storm of 1900 and Christopher M Church the 1928 hurricane in Florida and the Caribbean Urmi Engineer Willoughby delves into the turn of the century yellow fever outbreaks in New Orleans and local attempts to eradicate them while Abraham H Gibson and Cindy Ermus discuss the human introduction of invasive species and their long term impact on the region's ecosystem Roberto E Barrios looks at political ecological susceptibility in New Orleans's Lower Ninth Ward and Kevin Fox Gotham treats storm and flood defense infrastructures In his afterword Ted Steinberg ponders what the future holds when the capitalist state supports an unwinnable battle between land developers and nature These case studies offer new ways of understanding humans interactions with the unique and at times unforgiving environment of the Gulf South These lessons are particularly important as we cope with the effects of climate change and seek to build resilience and reduce vulnerability through enhanced awareness adequate preparation and efficient planning

Environmental Disasters Emilie Dufresne, 2019-07-15 Throughout history there have been many environmental disasters such as oil spills chemical catastrophes and nuclear explosions which were all caused by human actions leading to dire consequences for the natural world Readers learn about the causes and effects of major environmental disasters through age appropriate main text interesting fact boxes bright full color photographs and a detailed glossary They also discover the process of cleaning up after these events and what can be done to keep them from happening in the future This important environmental issue connects science curriculum topics and critical thinking about the world in an engaging way

Environmental Hazards and Resilience Dennis J. Parker, Edmund C. Penning-Roswell, 2021-08-26 Building resilience to the world's increasingly damaging environmental hazards has become a priority This book considers the scientific advances which have been made around the world to enhance this resilience Although resilience is not new it is through the idea of resilience that governments organisations and communities around the world are now seeking to address the rapidly increasing losses that environmental hazards cause so that fewer lives are lost and damage is reduced Alternative ideas and approaches have been helpful in reducing loss but resilience offers a fresh and potentially effective means of reducing it further Adopting a scientific approach and scientific evidence is important in applying the resilience idea in hazard mitigation However the science of resilience is at an immature stage of development with much discussion about the concept and how it should be understood and interpreted Building useful theories remains a challenge although some of the building blocks of theory have been developed More attention has been given to developing indicators and frameworks of resilience which are subsequently applied to measure resilience to hazards such as flooding earthquake and climate change Environmental Hazards and Resilience Theory and Evidence considers the scientific and theoretical challenges of making progress in applying resilience to environmental hazard mitigation and provides examples from around the world including the USA New Zealand China Bangladesh and elsewhere The chapters in this book were originally published in the Environmental Hazards
