

Facts on Climate Change

Increases of CO<sub>2</sub> Recorded in History

Earth's atmospheric concentration of CO<sub>2</sub> since the late 1950s – detected at more than 417 parts per million (ppm).

Rising of Global Temperatures

The more carbon dioxide – and other warming gasses – that we put into the atmosphere, the higher global temperatures will rise. To have a 50/50 chance of keeping temperatures below two degrees of warming, we must emit fewer than 1,350 gigatonnes of carbon dioxide.

Two-thirds Of Extreme Weather Was Caused by Humans

The number of floods and heavy rains has quadrupled since 1980 and doubled since 2004. Extreme temperatures, droughts and wildfires have also more than doubled in the last 40 years. Carbon Brief, a UK-based website covering climate science, gathered data from 230 studies into "extreme event attribution" and found that 68 percent of all extreme weather events studied in the last 20 years were made more likely or more severe by human-caused climate change.

Rising of Sea Levels

Melting ice sheets and glaciers, and warming oceans lead to higher sea levels. Since 1900, sea levels have risen faster than in any preceding century in at least the last 3,000 years.

Global Warming Exceeding to 1.5C

Of the emissions scenarios modeled, only the very low emission scenario estimated that the world would see less than 1.5C of warming by the end of the twenty-first century.

Humans Contributed 1.07C Global Warming

The IPCC report estimates that global surface temperatures are now 1.07C warmer than they were between 1850-1900. Since 1970, global surface temperatures have risen faster than in any 50-year-period over the last 2,000 years.

Rapidly Diminishing of Arctic sea ice

Temperatures in the Arctic are rising faster than almost anywhere else on the planet. Between 2011 and 2020, annual Arctic sea ice reached its lowest level since at least 1850 and late summer Arctic sea ice was smaller than at any time in at least the past 1,000 years.

Extreme Heat Events

Recent devastating wildfires in Australia, California or southern Europe to see that climate change is leading to more frequent and more severe hot weather events.

Decreases of Average Wildlife Populations

The average size of vertebrate (mammals, fish, birds and reptiles) populations declined by 60 per cent between 1970 and 2014, according to the biennial Living Planet Report published by the Zoological Society of London and the WWF.
