Ibuebelfinlicted Violence:

The Web of Violence Sherry Hamby, John Grych, 2012-10-14 There is an increasing appreciation of the interconnections among all forms of violence. These interconnections have critical implications for conducting research that can produce valid conclusions about the causes and consequences of abuse, maltreatment, and trauma. The accumulated data on co-occurrence also provide strong evidence that prevention and intervention should be organized around the full context of individuals' experiences, not narrowly defined subtypes of violence. Managing the flood of new research and practice innovations is a challenge; however, new means of communication and integration are needed to meet this challenge, and the Web of Violence is intended to contribute to this process by serving as a concise overview of the conceptual and empirical work that form a basis for understanding the interconnections across forms of violence throughout the lifespan. It also offers ideas and directions for prevention, intervention, and public policy. A number of initiatives are emerging to integrate the findings on co-occurrence into research and action. The American Psychological Association established a new journal, Psychology of Violence, which is a forum for research on all types of violence. Sherry Hamby is the founding editor, and John Grych is associate editor and co-editor of a special issue on the co-occurrence of violence in 2012. Dr. Hamby also is a co-investigator of the National Survey of Children's Exposure to Violence (NatSCEV), which has drawn attention to polyvictimization. Polyvictimization is a focus of the U.S. Department of Justice's Defending Childhood Initiative and has recently been featured in calls for grant proposals by the Office of Victims of Crime and National Institutes for Justice.

Confronting Violence George Gellert, 1997-09-04 The United States is at risk of being overwhelmed by an epidemic of interpersonal violence. Each year, violence causes 2.2 million injuries and over 20,000 deaths in this country. Over 1.5 million people are assaulted, and 650,000 women are raped. Suicide, battering, and abuse are on the rise. Our schools and homes are no longer havens from the onslaught. Increasingly, victims, their families, and those involved in community-based support are seeking help to combat the problem. In Confronting Violence, George Gellert provides much needed information and resources. Topics include child abuse, sexual assault, elder abuse, murder, suicide, stranger violence, and youth violence. Written in a series of easy-to-reference questions and answers, each chapter guides the reader through a definition of the problem, tips for identifying high-risk situations, advice on avoiding violence, and information on what to do if you are a victim. Throughout, Gellert's treatment is impartial and informative. Sensitive topics such as "What do I do if I'm abusing my child?" are handled nonjudgmentally. Each chapter concludes with a list of organizations and public agencies to turn to for help. This complete reference offers background and advice for parents, physicians, lawyers, librarians, nurses, counselors, social service workers, law enforcement officers, and public policymakers. Anyone confronting and coping with the epidemic of violence in America.

Encyclopedia of Interpersonal Violence Claire M. Renzetti, Jeffrey L. Edleson, 2008-06-19 From assisted suicide and battered women to human trafficking and sex offenders, this guide provides an excellent overview of the state research on interpersonal violence.

Bearing Witness Sandra L. Bloom, Michael Reichert, 1998 Bearing Witness Violence and Collective Responsibility offers a unique layperson's introduction to the scope and causes of violence and trauma theory and suggests ways we can all work to attack these causes Upon completing this work you will have a better understanding of the social causes of the violence epidemic and concrete suggestions for its long term control Bearing Witness addresses the cycle of violence by discussing some of the biological psychological social and moral issues that go into determining whether a person will end up as a victim perpetrator or bystander to violent events and what happens to us when we are in one or all three of these roles The authors look at a number of intersecting factors that play interdependent roles in creating a culture that promotes supports and even encourages violence Specifically you ll gain invaluable insight into trauma theory and traumatogenic forces backdrops against which the chances of exposure to violence and the use of violence as a problemsolver are increased normal human development in the context of attachment theory and what occurs as a result of disrupted attachment bonds how rapid changes in modern society and the breakdown of the traditional family structure

Rapp-Paglicci, Albert R. Roberts, John S. Wodarski, 2002-07-17 A multidisciplinary team of experts examines violence from a resilience perspective Violence knows no boundaries It attacks in schools in families and even in the workforce places that should be regarded as safe havens Encompassing the enormity of violence through a comprehensive biopsychosocial perspective Handbook of Violence examines community school family and workplace violence including identification classification prevention and intervention programs and case management Written by the leading authorities in their fields this groundbreaking compilation Reviews how children and adolescents from violent homes are detrimentally affected in multiple ways including short and long term consequences that seriously impair their psychological social educational and physical development Explores issues related to the occurrence of domestic violence in African American families presenting an array of theoretical formulations that may prove useful to practitioners who must service both victims and perpetrators Examines the prevalence of female juvenile delinquency and reviews the literature from a sociological and practice perspective Focuses on the current trends and issues surrounding youth gang violence discussing identification classification and prediction as they relate to gang violence as well as effective prevention and intervention Addresses the identification classification and prediction of school violence among middle school and high school youth Covers the broad range of cases that are classified as workplace violence examining the differences in definition and analyzing the bases for the growing prevalence of incidents Topics include Violence within families through the life span Adolescent dating violence Assessing violent behavior Domestic violence in Latino cultures Conduct disorder and substance abuse Youth gang violence School violence Preventing workplace violence Domestic violence in the workplace And much more Violence as Seen Through a Prism of Color Letha A See, 2018-12-20 So many parts of society target citizens of color for violence what can be done Violence as Seen Through a Prism of Color examines violence from a structural perspective including violence in prisons schools and colleges churches homes and within political corporate structures This unique hard hitting book argues that individual violence stems from the structure of our society and its institutions Most of the contributors are African American educators and practitioners who have a thorough understanding of structural violence Some have experienced political violence others have expert knowledge of structural violence within the criminal justice system educational institutions and elsewhere even in churches and homes Their writings are undeniably unflinchingly authentic it is impossible not to be moved and enraged by what they have to say The good news is that in addition to calling attention to the structural violence in our society they provide excellent insights on how the situation might be resolved Violence as Seen Through a Prism of Color shows that much of the violence within the criminal justice system stems from decisions made at the highest levels of government that minority offenders are much more frequently convicted and more harshly sentenced than their white counterparts how cultural racism contributes to the construction of motives for lynching hate crime and police violence against Americans of color such as Abner Louima Amadou Diallo and Rodney King how the judicial system encourages black on black violence by neglecting to halt criminal activities in non white neighborhoods how in the words of Mahatma Gandhi Poverty is the worst form of violence You ll also learn how corporations are amassing great wealth through privatizing prisons and conscripting the labor of non violent African American prisoners how racial profiling affects people of color how the media has exploited black men imprisoned for minor drug offenses how and why violence occurs in and against the black church Helpful charts and tables like one that names the corporations that use prison labor supplement the material you ll be surprised at what you learn Extensive references are included at the end of each chapter

Web of Violence Jean Renvoize, 2023-08-09 Some of the most frightening and harmful violence in modern society takes place inside the family Wives children grandparents all of them can be subject to attacks that range from mild roughing up to assaults that leave the victim physically or psychologically crippled What causes this violence What sort of people are the attackers and the victims What can we do to diminish it and to help those who suffer Originally published in 1978 Jean Renvoize author of the highly praised Children in Danger traces the web of violence along many different strands She covers baby battering and child abuse violent husbands and wives granny bashing and incest She looks at the psychological roots and the social patterns she also surveys the agencies that act to prevent family violence from social workers and those who run refuges to police and doctors She suggests a number of positive steps that could and should be taken to improve society s response As in Children in Danger she draws on many first hand sources of information not only professionals working in the field but also the detailed and intimate self revelations of both victims and batterers The first chapter an almost unbelievable account by a girl caught up in four generations of violence whose sufferings make her recoil from it and yet at the same time draw her inexorably deeper in both as victim and aggressor is the first of many case histories on which Jean Renvoize draws Her book is an extraordinary document about humanity as well as an essential guide for anyone who has to deal with the problems it discusses with such insight and objectivity
